WILLIE STEVENS AT HOME ON NIGHT OF THE HALL-MILLS MURDER, HE SAYS

Roused by Mrs. Hall About 2:30 A. M. and Went to Church With Her to Hunt for Pastor, He Testifies.

CRIED WHEN HE HEARD OF MURDER

Finger Print on Card at Murder Scene Not Willie's, But an "Afterthought Expert Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 23.—"Willie" Stevens had nothing at all to do with the murders of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills and his brother-in-law, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, he testified today.

He, his brother, Henry, and his sister, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, are on trial for the murder of Mrs. Mills Sept. 14, 1922.

"Did you have anything to do with the murder of Mrs. Mills and Mr. Hall:" he was asked. "Absolutely nothing at all," was the answer.

"Do you know anything about it?" "Nothing at all."

Willie was the second of the defendants to testify.

The first question asked of Willie was as to his age, and he answered "forty-four," but it was latfer brought out he means "fifty-four."

Mr. Stevens," asked Case, "have you ever suffered from, or now suffer from, epilepsy?" "No, sr." answered the witness, speaking in a firm voice.

"In September, 1922, or prior, did you wear a derby hat?" "No, sir."

"How long have you worn glasses?" "Eince I was a boy. I can't see without them."

"On Sept. 14, 1922, at any time were you in or near North Plainfield?" "No, sir."

"Do you wear a gold watch and chainc" "No, sir."

Each answere was given in the same tone, as Case asked the defendant questions intended to offset the testimony of two State witnesses whgo said they saw Willie Stevens in North Plainfield a few hours before the murder.

These witnesses described the man they saw as wearing a derby hat, as being an epileptic, as wearing a golf watch and chain and as without any eye glasses.

"You are a brother of Henry Stevens and Mrs. Frances Hall?" "I am."

"Of what did the family at your residence consist in September, 1922?" "Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Myself."

"Did you have church affiliations?" "Yes; Christ Church, New Brunswick."

"An Episcopal church?" "Yes."

"Did you often attend the church of whichm your brother-in-law was rector?" "Occasionally. Not very often."

On Good Terms With Dr. Hall.

"Did you know Mrs. Eleanor Mills?" "Just by sight."

"What were your relations with your brother-in-law, Mr. Hall?" "Very cordial."

"Did you have a pistol in 1922?" "I had a hammerless revolver."

"Do you know when you acquired it?" "Fifteen or 20 years before."

"When was it used last?" "I can not tell."

"Days, weeks, years?" "Years."

"When it was last fired were ball cartridges or blanks used?" "Blanks."

"Was it loaded with ball cartridges in 1922?" "Yes."

The witness told the make of the cartridges after explaining that blanks were used in Fourth of July celebration, a custom abandoned in later years, however. He said he had no way of fixing the last time the weapon was cleaned.

"Where did you last see it?" "In this court house."

Charges Abuse by Investigators.

"Under what circumstances?" "I was brought here and put through a severe grilling by Mr. Toolan, Mr. David and Mr. Lamb. They did everything but strike me. They cursed me. They got me here by a subterfuge, telling me after I had my shoes off, preparing for bed that they wanted me to go with them into the court to ask me a few questions and we would be gone only a few minutes."

"Do you know who bought the revolver?" "No, sir."

"Where did you last see it?" "In my possession in my room."

"Do you remember who got it from you?" "I am not at all sure." "Some one from the Middlesex

UNION DEAL WITH EMPLOYERS VIOLATED ANTI-TRUST LAW

U. S. Supreme Court Upsets Agreement Including Manufacturers, to Bar Handling of Nonunion Material.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The United States was successful in the Supreme Court today in its prosecution of manufacturers, contractors and union carpenters at Chicago on charges of criminally violating the anti-trust law by restraining interstate commerce in mill work.

The Government contended that interstate commerce in mill work, including sash, doors and other interior trim for buildings was restrained as the result of an agreement under which the Illinois manufacturers promised to employ only union carpenters in their mills provided union carpenters refused to install within the State any mill work made by outside concerns employing nonunion labor, the conspiracy being completed by the contractors' consent to the arrangement upon receiving a liberal discount from the manufacturers.

The defendants insisted the agreement had no relation whatever to interstate commerce, and was merely a working contract between building contractors and union carpenters under which the latter asserted a policy, long a fundamental feature of their organization, to refuse to install nonunion made trim.

The Government indicted 68 defendants, including manufacturers, contractors and officers of trade unions, and convicted 41 in the Federal district court at Chicago. Of these 26 appealed to the Circuit Coutr of Appeals, which reversed the district court, and held that the agreement did not involve a conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce.

TELEPHONES TELL KING GEORGE WHEN BIRD FLIES HIS WAY

Every Butt and Covert on Lord Iveagh's Preserve Wired for Royal Hunter.

By the Associated Press.

NEWMARKET, England, Nov. 23.—The telephone has been brought into use to aid in keeping track of game in Lord Iveagh's 20,000-acre preserve, where the King has gone shooting every fall for 30 years.

The estate abounds in woodcock, partridges and pheasants and the shoots are conducted in a most scientific manner. Every covert and every butt is connected by a system of telephones to aid the gunners. When game is flushed and missed by one gun it is possible immediately to telephone a nearby party to be on guard. Automobiles also are used to convey the guns from drive to drive for the different beats ,and at noon motor cars haul hot luncheons to that part of the wood where the sportsmen are assembled.

Lord Iveagh himself, who is 80 years old, has given up his gun, but three of his sons accompanied King George on this season's shoot.

Within the dream shell, we think of things we are going to do, of homes we are going to own.

ALABAMA'S GOVERNOR TAKEN IN LIQUOR RAID

With 9 Other Men, He Gives Bond After 12 Quarts Are Seized at Fishing Camp.

By the Associated Press.

BAY MINETTE, Ala., Nov. 23.—Gov. Brandon of Alabama and nine other men gave bond of $300 each here late today to appear in court Dec. 6 on liquor charges as the result of a raid made by Deputy Sheriffs on a fishing camp near here last night. Sheriff Ramsey Stewart said the deputies carried a search warrant and found more than a dozen quarts of liquor in a room occupied by the Governor.

The latter was quoted as saying that if there was any liquor there he did not know it and that the raid was made merely to embarrass the party, and that if any of them were convicted he would do his best to parole them.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO STOP DAYLIGHT SAVING

Federal Judges Sustain Lower Court in Declining to Interfere With State Law.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The appeal questioning the validity of the Massachusetts daylight saving law was dismissed today by the Supreme Court. The lower courts were sustained in refusing to enjoin enforcement of the law.

Justice McReynolds, in a separate opinion, held that the case should not even have been considered, but should have been dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

The Massachusetts State Grange, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and others had challenged the law as an invalid exercise of authority which rested exclusively in the Federal Government. They asserted the statute caused a loss of $20,000,000 annually to agriculture through depreciation of farm lands and $8,000,000 through the loss of crops.

TRUCE IN FEUD OF ITALIAN AND CUCKOO GANGS

Strife That Has Cost Lives of Thirteen Men in Ten Months Abandoned for Time at Least.

EVIDENCE OF PEACE SHOWN IN COURT

One of Chiefs of Opposing Faction Appears to Sign Bond for Chief Gunman of Cuckoos.

After a bitter feud, in which 13 men were murdered and 14 persons, including a woman bystander, were wounded by gunfire in 10 months, the Cuckoo and Italian gangs have declared a truce.

Cessation of hostilities, for a time at least, came last week at the close of a formal three-day conference between leaders of the two bootleg factions at the St. Louis Hotel, at Fourteenth and Chestnut streets.

The police, who in only one instance have been able to bring a murder charge out of the numerous gang clashes, are inclined to regard the truce with relief, but with utterly no confidence that it will endure. Theyq base their opinion upon the truce of the Egan and Hogan gangs, in 1922, which lasted only three months.

That a new dispensation was at hand was signified today, not only by admissions of peace from both sides, but also by the fact that Vito Giannola, one of the leaders of the Italian faction, actually appeared in court and signed the robbery bond of "Mulehead" Simon, a Cuckoo and once one of the most active opponents of the Italian crowd.

Bright and early this morning, Vito, immaculate from the top of his new white fedora hat to the soles of his brightly shined shoes, was walking back and forth in the Municipal Courts Building hallway, his smile outshining the diamonds he wore on his finger and his shirt front.

An Indication of Peace.

That alone was an indication that the deadly enmity had subsided. It is many weeks since Vito showed himself so prominently, in that neighborhood, which is "Cuckoo territory," and not two blocks from the armored office at 106 North Fourteenth street where the Cuckoos made their headquarters.

And that white hat! What a shining target for a Cuckoo gunman. Surely peace had come. Vito smiled even more broadly as a Post-Dispatch reporter asked him the obvious question, but he shook his head and in characteristic fashion disclaimed any knowledge of peace, or of the feud, for that matter.

A few minutes later Beverly Brown, a professional bondsman, who occupies the Fourteenth street office and is regarded as a Cuckoo leader, came down the hallway and stopped to chat with a reporter.

"The war?" he repeated. "Sure it's over. Everything is all right again." Even as he talked Vito was qualifying himself upstairs to serve as bondsman for the black-browed Simon.

Vito's brother, John, wholesale sugar dealer and Italian leader, also showed today by his unusual lack of caution that the gangs were in agreement. When a Post-Dispatch reporter called at his home at 7160 Princeton avenue, University City, John, attired in a bathrobe, admitted him to the house without asking a single question as to his identity. He was unarmed and there was no evidence that any men were in the house for his protection. But, like Vito, he disclaimed any knowledge of peace.

"I am friends with everybody and everybody is friends with me," he said, smiling. "I have had no trouble."

Admitted by One of Russos.

The peace admission from the Italian side came this morning from William Russo, brother of Tony Russo, also known as "Shorty." William is generally known as an industrious young man, but his brother, "Shorty," is regarded as the leader of the Italian gunmen.

"I don't run with that crowd even if my brother does," William told Chief of Detectives Kaiser, "but I do know that they've got together and patched up their troubles. The war's over."

William Russo had come to Chief Kaiser to intercede for a young Italian arrested last night by detectives, and his discussion of the gang peace was incidental to that mission. He operates gasoline filling tation at Seventh and Biddle streets and at Eleventh and

PRICE FIXING ON PRODUCT THAT IS PATENTED UPHELD

ANTITRUST LAW AT STAKE, U. S. HELD

Government Contended Prosecution Would Be Affected if Corporation's Practices Were Legalized.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The fixing of sales prices by corporations holding patents on their products was upheld today by the Supreme Court in the General Electric case.

Confirming the decision of the District Court for Northern Ohio, the Supreme Court held that the General Electric had the right to stipulate the price at which the Westinghouse Co. must sell the patented lamp which it makes under license from the General Electric.

The suit against the General Electric and Westinghouse companies was a part of the Government's war on price-fixing.

The Government told the Supreme Court the practices complained of constituted a flagrant violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

Consent Decree Issued in 1911.

In 1911 the General Electric consented to a decree stopping its practice of controlling the price at which retailers and distributers should sell electric lamps made by it and sold to them. Although it had contended that the practice was lawful because the lamps were patented, the company agreed to discard the plan, and, instead, to retain ownership of the lamps until sold to the consuming public, constituting the retailers and distributers as agent, on a commission basis. It licensed the Westinghouse Co. to manufacture and sell the lamps also, but conditioned upon the maintenance of uniform selling prices.

The Government asserted that the new practice was as obnoxious as the old, and that price fixing even upon a patented article, constituted unlawful monopoly.

The General Electric replied that the Government had not complained of the practice until after it had been in effect 12 years, although it had been submitted to the Attorney-General for approval before being adopted. It insisted that as the owner it had the right to determine the price at which it sold to the consuming public.

Cited the Patent Laws.

It also argued successfully in the lower court that under the patent laws it had the right as the owner to license the Westinghouse Co. to manufacture and sell the lamps, and to require that company, as one of the conditions for granting the privilege, to agree that it would sell to consumers at prices similar to those of the General Electric.

The Government insisted that should the General Electric be granted immunity under the Sherman law, many manufacturers would attempt to evade that law by designating their distributors as agents, and the Sherman law would be materially impaired in one of its most important phases. It asserted that the decision construed the patent laws in such a way as to destroy the operation of the Sherman law in all instances where patents were involved, and that many of its antitrust prosecutions now pending would be controlled by the decision in this case.

ROME ANNULS 27-YEAR-OLD W. K. VANDERBILTS' MARRIAGE ON GROUND OF COERCION

Peition of the Former Virginia Fair Is Granted but Decree Is Temporarily Withheld.

By BEATRICE BASKERVILLE,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

ROME, Nov. 23.—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt II, the former Virginia Fair, has brought a plea for annulment of her marriage before the Roto Tribunal, it has been learned here. She pleaded coercion in her marriage in 1899.

The case has been thoroughly examined by the auditors and it has been decided to grant the annulment. Because of the great publicity over the annulment of the marriage of the Duke of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt (Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's sister in-law), which is bringing streams of journalists to Rota headquarters, the judges have decided not to issue the decree for a time.

The parties concerned probably will have private but official notice of the sentence shortly. It is understood here that Mrs. Vanderbilt has been asked to deny the annulment for the present. Her denial would be perfectly truthful because the actual decree has not yet been drawn up in writing although the decision for annulment has been reached by the three judges who examined the pleas.

40 Cases in Year.

Forty marriage annulment cases have been examined by the Rota Tribunal within the last year and all but that of the Marlboroughs escaped publication. The tribunal always tried to prevent knowledge of its decrees spreading beyond the parties immediately concerned so it is easy to imagine the consternation which the Marlborough publicity is causing. The Pope himself is perturbed.

Had the Marlborough annulment not been pronounced the former Virginia Fair sentence would have quietly passed. The fact that there is no need of divorce action in the civil courts does not affect the Rota because that tribunal ignores civil courts.

The Roa's procedure is based on the ancient canon law which functioned centuries before civil divorces were established. It declared decrees annulling marriages in days when it alone was allowed to try such cases. Nor does the Rota consider either separation or desertion a plea of itself. Desertion might be admitted as coefficient provided other proper basis were proved.

Rota Court Dates from Twelfth Century.

(The Sacred Rota is a judicial body developed in the Roman Catholic church after the twelfth century to relieve the Pope of the judicial investigation of contentious cases. It is made up of an indeterminate number of priests, known as auditors, appointed by the Pope. Three may sit as a commission empowered to make a decision, or all the auditors may decide to hear a case in plenary session. The Rota deals with the validity of marriages and of ordination of priests, release from religious vows, part of the appeals for cases already tried in the diocesan courts. Decision is by majority vote and the sentence must contain its reasoning.)

Wm. K. Vanderbilt II Declares He Knows Nothing of Annulment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—William K. Vanderbilt II was shown the New York World's dispatch from Rome before it was published. He read it carefully with every appearance of interest. Then he said:

"Honestly, this is the first I have heard of it. I don't know anything about it."

He admitted, however, that such an annulment proceeding might have been instituted outside New York without his knowledge.

Mrs. Vanderbilt sailed from New York Nov. 13 on the United States liner Leviathan, accompanied by her son, William K. Vanderbilt Jr. Their sailing was a secret except among their own friends.

A few days ago rumor was circulated to the effect that Mrs. Vanderbilt, who has been living apart from Mr. Vanderbilt for years, would seek formal dissolution of her marriage both through church and French courts. When Vanderbilt was informed of these rumors he denounced them as "tommyrot" and said: "Everytime Mrs. Vanderbilt sails for Europe someone says she is going to seek a divorce."

Mrs. Earle T. Smith, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, one of Mrs. Vanderbilt's two daughters, said her mother had gone abroad "to buy some furniture for her new apartment."

Despite these denials, gossip persisted to the effect that Mrs. Vir-

KING FERDINAND MAY UNDERGO OPERATION

Surgeon Awaits Result of Consultation — Queen to Hurry Home From France.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 23.—King Ferdinand was well enough yesterday to invite Sir Rabindranath Tagore, the British-Indian poet to luncheon. This news had a reassuring effect on the public, bewildered by contradictory reports as to the King's condition.

King Ferdinand's doctors expect to decide this week whether an operation is advisable. If so, the noted surgeon Le Senne is in readiness. Queen Marie has cabled from the United States giving the date of her expected arrival at Cherbourg and declaring her intention of hurrying home with the least possible delay at Paris.

Queen to Bid Farewell to America by Radio.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Queen Marie of Rumania, will bid farewell to her American friends by radio this evening. She will broadcast through station WMAC (340.7 meters) between 5:30 and 6 p. m. (4:30 St. Louis time), from the home of William Nelson Cromwell, where she will attend a conference of directors of the Society of Friends of Rumania, of which Cromwell is president.

Seven motor cycle patrolmen, the Queen's police escort yesterday, are nursing painful bruises from accidents. One by one they dropped out of the column in an effort to keep up with the speed of sometimes 60 miles an hour set by the Queen's drivers.

Leaving the home of her host, Charles E. Mitchell at Tuxedo, shortly after breakfast, the Queen drove to the grave of Theodore Roosevelt on Long Island, only to find that a wreath she had ordered had not arrived. She then called at the home of Mrs. Roosevelt, but found her not at home.

Marie then had luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Leeds—the latter the former Princess Xenia of Russia—after which Leeds took the Queen and the Princess Ileana out on Huntington Bay in his speedboats, the Wildcat and Lady Luck. The Queen drove one of the boats and apparently enjoyed the experience. Before returning to the Mitchell home in Tuxedo for dinner, the Queen had tea at the home of S. R. Bertron, international banker. Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., was present.

FALL-DOHENY TRIAL HINGES ON $100,000 ALLEGED LOAN

Roberts, Opening Prosecution, Declares Oil Man's Payment to Cabinet Member Was Bribe.

FRIENDLY ADVANCE, IS DEFENSE VERSION

Ex-Secretary of Interior and Elk Hills Lessee Face Court in Washington for Conspiracy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The $100,000 sent in a little black satchel to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall by Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, in 1921 immediately became the focus of attention both for prosecution and defense today as trial of Fall and Doheny on a conspiracy charge passed through its preliminary stages. The alleged conspiracy involves the leasing by Fall of the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve to Doheny.

First Witness Called.

George Otis Smith, director of the United States Geological Survey for 19 years, was called as the first witness. He produced a map of California showing the location of the Elk Hills reserve.

The Government, through its special prosecutor, Owen J. Roberts, described the $100,000 as an integral part of the conspiracy alleged in the indictment, with a direct relation to the arrangement by which Doheny was awarded the Elk Hill oil reserve lease.

Frank J. Hogan, for the defense, said it was nothing but an advance made by Doheny to his old friend, who happened to be a member of the Cabinet, to aid him in financial difficulties.

Replying to prosecution charges of secrecy in formulation of the Government policy which led up to the lease, Hogan declared some of the documents relating to construction of oil storage tanks at Honolulu, had been kept confidential because of certain question then under discussion with Japan.

Roberts presented only a condensed summary of most of the points the prosecution expects to prove, but Hogan's opening statement ran on for several hours. He traced in particular detail the personal affairs of Fall, who, he said, spent so many years in the public service that there had been little opportunity for him to attend to his ranch holdings in New Mexico.

Why Fall Wanted the Money.

"Fall's neighbor was a man named Harris," said Hogan. "When Harris died Fall desired to get the Harris holdings in order to retain a water supply source which originated in Harris' land, but he did not have the money.

"Fall explained to his friend, Doheny, the danger of the Harris land falling into strange hands, saying that if he could obtain this land he would retire gladly from public life. He originally agreed to stay in the Cabinet for one year, but President Harding asked him to remain longer.

"Doheny inquired of Fall how much he would need to buy the Harris property. Fall replying that $100,000 would be needed. Doheny said if the deal could be consummated he would let Fall have the money.

"Fall asked for the money in currency, explaining that the banks in his part of the country were small and could not handle large sums."

Doheny's Son Delivered It.

Hogan said Doheny told his son to get the money. It was placed in "a satchel" and taken to Washington and delivered to Fall, who "wrote out a demand note for the sum."

"To show you how young Doheny regarded the transaction when Fall handed him the note," continued Hogan, "he examined it and said, 'Mr. Secretary, you have not fixed an interest rate.' Fall replied, 'Ed, your father did not state the interest rate and I do not want to dictate that. If none is stated, this note will bear the legal rate of interest.'"

Hogan said the elder Doheny, in order to protect Fall's investment in case of his own death and that of his wife, tore off the signature and gave it to his wife, who placed it in a safe deposit box in Los Angeles.

It would be shown, Hogan said, that the transaction had no rela-

COMMUNITY FUND LACKS $146,000; EXTEND CAMPAIGN

Solicitors Decide Unanimously to Continue Efforts Until Sum Needed Is Obtained.

AMOUNT PLEDGED TOTALS $1,702,017

Aggregate Reported by Workers Exceeds Contributions of 1926 Campaign by $58,017.

Although $58.017 more than was subscribed to the Community Fund a year ago has been obtained in the present solicitation, the fund is still $146,709 short of the goal for 1927, and soliciting will be continued for a week. The sum already obtained is the greatest ever pledged in St. Louis for charity.

Pledges for 1927 now aggregate $1,702,017, fund workers were told at a meeting at Hotel Chase last night, which was to have closed the campaign. The goal is $1,848,726. By acclamation the solicitors who have been busy for 10 days but have been hampered by snow, cold and icy pavements, decided to stick to their task until next Monday noon.

Subscriptions to the 1926 fund, in the campaign a year ago, amounted to $1,644,000. The goal for next year is $204,000 higher. Fifty charities and philanthropies of St. Louis and St. Louis County will share the fund. The solicitors, hoping for better weather conditions, will try to make a thorough canvass of city and county this week. Some divisions of solicitation have not made reports yet.

Goal Is Minimum Amount.

"Our goal is the minimum amount needed," Walter B. Weisenburger, campaign chairman, told the workers last night. "The raising of any less sum will mean hardships and privations for some people. We believe St. Louis will not fail to give its share for its needy citizens. We know that we have the best campaign organization St Louis ever had. Our workers are ready and willing to do their part to make the campaign a complete success.

"The Community Fund is here to stay, as a permanent means of economical and effective financing of the humane services rendered by its member organizations. We do not intend that the Community Fund as an organization shall fail; that the campaign workers shall fail, or that St. Louis shall fail in the fulfillment of the task which has been undertaken and the obligation which is rightfully theirs.

Confident of Success.

"We are confident that the additional amount can be raised and will be raised by the continuation of this campaign. It will not be over until the last cent needed is raised. The Community Fund of Los Angeles last year raised over $200,000 by a continuation of its campaign in this way when the campaign had fallen short of its goal in the time originally allotted. The St. Louis Community Fund secured over $90,000 in pledges after the official close of its campaign last year. The workers in the campaign are to be congratulated on the remarkable work they already have done and the givers of St. Louis and St. Louis County who have already subscribed are to be congratulated on the generosity they have shown."

Weisenburger urged that persons desirous of making subscriptions to the fund or increasing those already made communicate with the Community Fund, 2221 Locust street, by mail or telephone or in person. The telephone is CEntral 6900.

TO REPAIR WHITE HOUSE ROOF

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Reconstruction of the top story and roof of the White House will start as soon as possible following adjournment of Congress in the spring.

Specifications issued yesterday called for contractors' bids for tearing down the executive mansion from the second floor ceiling upward, and constructing a new roof of structural steel and tile to replace the one engineers have considered unsafe for some time. The work will begin as soon as bids are accepted and the President and his family have vacated to make way for the workmen.

MRS. OLIVE RAE PAIGE.

W. K. VANDERBILT'S MARRIAGE ANNULED BY ROME DECREE

ginia Fair Vanderbilt had decided to follow the course chosen by her husband's sister, the former Duchess of Marlborough, who recently obtained ecclesiastical dissolution of her marriage to the Duke.

Mrs. Virginia Fair Vanderbilt is called Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II to distinguish her from the widow of her husband's father. She was married to Vanderbilt April 4, 1899, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Herman A. Oelrichs. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Thomas Francis Murphy, then of the Roman Catholic Church of the Sacred Heart, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Mrs. Vanderbilt had been Miss Virginia Fair, daughter of wealthy Senator Fair, mine owner. Her own fortune was estimated then at $5,000,000; and it was reported that Vanderbilt received approximately $10,000,000 from his father at the time of the marriage.

Thep separated about 18 years ago, their three children remaining with the mother. In 1910 reports were circulated that Mrs. Vanderbilt would seek a divorce, but she refrained from doing so for religious reasons. The separation has always been known as an amicable one, based on incompatibility. Mrs. Vanderbilt, born a Catholic, has been active in the affairs of her church. Mr. Vanderbilt is an Episcopalian.

Mgr. Thomas Carroll, chancellor of the Archdiocese of New York, yesterday said he had not heard of any proceedings for the annulment of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt. He added that he undoubtedly would have heard of it if the proceedings were brought. He admitted, however, they might have been brought at any place where either of the parties could claim a domicile.

Father Murphy, who performed the ceremony in 1899, said he was surprised at the report. He added: "I made all the wedding arrangements. The bride at that time was living with her sister, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs. When I performed the ceremony the bride and groom seemed happy and delighted."

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt II is at the Ritz. When she was informed of news from Rome that the Rota had granted an annulment of her marriage she refused to see the correspondent, but sent the message: "Mrs. Vanderbilt has nothing to say."

The first report of the action at Rome came Saturday night. At that time she made categorical denial that the plea for the annulment was before the Rota. On her arrival in Paris, Mrs. Vanderbilt said she was here merely "for a winter trip." There is no record of any civil action instituted by her before the French courts.

C. B. SQUIER SUES MAN WHO MARRIED HIS DIVORCED WIFE

Seeks $1,000,000 Damages for Alienation of Affections of Former Olive Lucille Rae of St. Louis.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Horace Raymond Paige, a real estate dealer of 15 East Sixty-ninth street, New York, who married Mrs. Olive Rae Squier, formerly Miss Olive Lucille Rae of St. Louis, June 19, is defendant in a $1,000,000 suit for alienation of Mrs. Paige's affections, begun in Superior Court yesterday by her former husband, Charles Burnham Squier, a millionaire of New York and Bennington, Vt.

Paige, the suit alleges, induced the divorce action brought by the former Mrs. Squier. In June, 1925, Mrs. Squier, suing for divorce here, charged her husband with misconduct and alleged that he gave the corespondent property and money amounting to more than $31,500 within 10 months in 1924 and 1925.

She Got Divorce in Paris.

While this suit was pending Mrs. Squier sued for divorce in Paris last March, charging desertion, and obtained a decree from the French courts April 24.

Squier's alienation suit alleges that Paige promised to abandon his children by a former marriage and obtain for Mrs. Squier custody of her young daughter, Patricia, and a fund for the child's support. Squier asserts that Paige selected Mrs. Squier's lawyers and provided witnesses in her New York divorce suit, then forced her to file the Paris suit and go through a marriage ceremony with Paige.

It is alleged, further, that Paige induced Mrs. Squier to leave her husband through money and other gifts and promises, saying he would induce Squier not to contest the suit, but to pay about $1,000,000 as liquidated alimony and counsel fees.

Early this month the present Mrs. Paige sought a writ of habeas corpus in the Supreme Court here to obtain custody of her daughter, saying that she and Squier had agreed last February that each should have the child for six months of the year, but that Squier had gone abroad leaving Patricia with his mother, Mrs. Charles Burnham Squier of New York. Hearing on this application was deferred until tomorrow at request of Mrs. Paige.

Paige Won't Talk.

Papers in the aleination suit were served on Paige yesterday. Last night his only comment was: "Don't know anything about it; nothing to say."

The marriage of Squier and Miss Rae, the daughter of Edward Day Rae of 5333 Bartmer avenue, was a social event in St. Louis, June 14, 1913. Squier gave his bride a diamond necklace reputed to have cost $25,000 and an automobile. They toured Europe by automobile on their honeymoon, and, returning to New York, were active in society. Squier, who is about 37 years old was said by his wife's lawyers in the divorce action here to have property worth $2,000,000 and an annual income of $200,000.

Paige's former wife, Mrs. Maud Steinway Paige, obtained a divorce in Paris last February.

MURATORE'S RECOGNITION OF HIS DAUGHTER NULLIFIED

Paris Courts Singer Was Already Wed to Another, Cavalieri, When Child Was Born.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Legal recognition by Lucien Muratore, the noted tenor, of Ariane Rouvier, in 1924, as his natural child by Marcelline Rouvier, dancer, has been nullified by the Paris courts at the mother's request.

The courts held that the recognition was invalid because Muratore was married to another woman at the time, having wed Lina Cavalieri, the opera singer, in 1915.

The nullification action is understood to be preliminary to the institution of proceedings against Muratore by the girl's mother for taking Ariane, who is now 18, to Italy, where it is alleged the tenor intended to arrange a marriage for the girl with a son of Mme. Cavalieri by a former marriage.

LACLEDE GAS COMMON AT $178

Laclede Gas common stock sold today on the St. Louis Stock Exchange at $178, the highest figure of the year. A rise of 10 points today followed one of 8 points yesterday, over the quotation of last Saturday, which was $160.

The increased strength of Laclede Gas is attributed to the favorable valuation accorded the company last week by the State Public Service Commission. However, other radical price changes have occurred this week, in a highly speculative market. The highest previous mark for Laclede this year was $175.50.

$100,000 Loan Is Issue In the Fall-Doheny Trial

tion to the oil contract and leases and "that Albert B. Fall did not execute the leases; did not suggest them and did not recommend them."

Alleges Patriotic Motives.

The defense attorney said the project to store oil at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, originated at a conference in the Navy Department on Dec. 5, 1921, after naval officers had reported Japan was mobilizing vessels for an attack on the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines.

"The idea was born in a patriotic sense of duty, for the defense of our country," he said.

But as late as Dec. 15, nearly a month after the alleged loan to Fall, Doheny had written to Admiral Robison (temporarily a Rear Admiral, but now a Captain of the Navy Department that his company would not go into the Pearl Harbor matter. After this, Hogan said, Robison had a personal conference with Doheny, outlined the Japanese situation and urged him to bid.

"With blanched face, Doheny said he would give a promise that his company would bid, as it was a patriotic duty to do so," Hogan said.

He said the secrecy surrounding these developments was due to the fact that Theodore Roosevelt Jr., as Acting Secretary of the Navy, in writing the Interior Department to go ahead with the Pearl Harbor project, requested that since this involved the secret war plans of the Navy, secrecy should be preserved.

Roberts Opens for Prosecution.

Roberts, who, with Atlee Pomerene, is prosecuting the case under special appointment by President Coolidge, began the Government's opening statement with a review of the negotiations that led up to the leasing of the Elk Hills reserve.

While Roberts was speaking Fall and Doheny, friends for many years and once prospectors together in the West, sat near each other listening intently to every word.

The opening preliminaries today proceeded peacefully enough after the clash of yesterday afternoon when opposing counsel argued at length whether the jury should be kept under guard during the trial. This dispute ended with a victory for the Government when Justice Hoehling granted the Government's motion for a locked-up jury.

When he opened court this morning the Judge called attention to the rule permitting only one of counsel on either side to examine a witness, and only two on each side to argue the case.

Roberts then reviewed the legal steps which led to original establishment of the naval oil reserves. The act 1920, he said, specifically took these reserves out of the hands of the Interior Department and placed them under the control of the navy, but a re-transfer was made by the executive order of May 31, 1921, signed by President Harding.

"Secretary Fall had been in charge of the reserves only a short time," Roberts said, "when he suggested to Secretary of the Navy Denby that he could work out a plan whereby royalty oil could be used for storage. Denby approved that plan, but later wrote a letter saying there should be no drilling except of offset wells on the edge of the California reserve."

Says Fall Asked for $100,000.

Roberts then told the jury that while negotiations for the contracts between Doheny and Fall were on for the Pearl Harbor storage contract, Fall discussed his financial affairs with Doheny and asked him for $100,000.

"Doheny caused his son to draw $100,000 from his bank account in bills of large denominations and to bring it here to Fall who gave his demand note," continued Roberts. "The whole transaction was shrouded in secrecy. Fall took the money in cash to El Paso, Tex., where he paid over most of it to purchase a ranch adjoining his own at Three Rivers, N. M."

The expenditure of this sum became known to the Senate committeel, said Roberts and Fall "did not tell the truth about it, but tried in every way to conceal it."

"We shall show that three other companies declined to bid on the storage tank contract because they held it to be illegal," he added. "Despite this and the opinion of the solicitor of his own department and of the legal officers of the Department of Justice, Fall went ahead with the execution of the contract."

Stresses Preferential Feature.

Roberts sought to impress upon the jury that an important part of this contract was a provision giving Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum Co. preference rights to future leases of the naval oil lands in the Elk Hills reserve.

This contract, Roberts continued, was signed by both E. C. Finney, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, acting for Fall, and by Denby.

"Under that preferential right," Roberts said, "Doheny had rights over all others. In December another contract was made. That contract was negotiated without advertising or competition and under it the 30,000 acres of oil lands in Southern California were leased to Doheny's companies.

"We shall show you by the admission of Doheny himself that he believed that contract to be worth $100,000,000 in profits to his company."

Roberts asserted that the Government would show that the Doheny leases and contracts were not handled in the ordinary routine way in the Interior Department, but by Fall himself, who issued an order for secrecy.

Upon all this evidence, he continued, the Government will ask the jury to find that the $100,000 payment from Doheny to Fall constituted corruption and "that there has been a conspiracy to defraud the United States Government."

Defense Shows Map of Field.

Before beginning his reply for the defense, Hogan set a map of the Elk Hills field, showing other leases than those to Doheny's company as well as oil wells which, it is claimed, have been draining the Government field.

Hogan told the jury he would fill in many important facts which Government counsel had not regarded it necessary to mention. After describing the machinery of the Government's handling oil matters, he turned to a description of his clients.

"We have as defendants here a man in his seventy-first year, and another in his sixty-fifth," he said. "The one is Edward L. Doheny, who has spent a private life; and the other is Albert B. Fall, who has spent the best years of his life in the public service."

Hogan told of the prospecting days of Doheny in the West and in Old Mexico, and of how he came to know Fall, then a prospector and later a school teacher and lawyer. He traced Fall's career through the Senate and told of his becoming Secretary of the Interior in the Harding Cabinet.

Prior Claim to Elk Hills.

When Denby became Secretary of the Navy, Hogan continued, officials of the department called his attention to the fact that Standard Oil Co. wells were producing 3000 to 4000 barrels a day, while Government lands remained unproductive. Thereupon, Denby called for bids, Hogan said, so that private enterprise might lease and operate the Government lands. There was, however, a prior claim to the Elk Hills region pending. When this situation was disclosed, Hogan said, President Harding asked the Interior Department to investigate what should be done.

Hogan said the executive order transferring the reserves to the Interior Department were found legal, and after it was issued a strip of land in the Elk Hills field was leased to the Pan-American Co., which was the "highest and best bidder."

"The Midland Co. had a prior right in the field," Hogan said, adding that Fall got Doheny to give up some of the land won in open competitive bidding so that the Midland Co. could get part of it and enable Fall to clear up the claim.

Denby Amended Oil Policy.

Defense counsel told of the appointment of Capt. Robinson as officer in charge of naval oil reserves and of a conference at which an oil reserve policy was outlined. This policy remained in force for more than a year, when Denby changed it by formal letter.

"That letter was written by Denby without any suggestion from Fall or anybody in his department," said Hogan. "Fall wrote that the policy was agreeable to him and he would carry it out to the best of his ability."

Hogan said Capt. Robison was very anxious to develop the oil reserves and store oil at Pearl Harbor where it would be of service for the Navy instantly in case of emergency.

Jury Is One of the Youngest Ever Picked—List of Names.

The jury selected is one of the youngest empaneled in such an important case here in years, the oldest member being 43; the youngest 23, and the average age of the twelve, 33. Six of the jurors are 30 or younger.

Its personnel, all residents of Washington, follows: Henry J. Briggs, architect; Henry D. Byers Jr., express driver; Clinton Carver, machinist; George B. Cobb, railway clerk; Winfield Martindill, clerk; Alphonso C. Parker, magazine dealer; Chester F. Parker, salesman; Vernon S. Snow, commercial artist; Stephen Vermillion, clerk; Herbert H. Via, salesman; Christian Vogel, restaurant steward, and William B. Farmer, electrician.

Attorney Hogan laid stress in his interrogations of veniremen as to whether any of the men had read "Revelry," a novel purporting to deal with the oil and other scandals at Washington in recent years. None of them had. Hogan also wanted to know whether any had heard the radio speech made by Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, prosecutor of the Senate oil inquiry, at the time the criminal charges were being considered by a grand jury two years ago. If any of the veniremen had heard it, they could not recall.

Counsel for Doheny inquired also as to whether the fact that a man of his own efforts had made great wealth would influence their judgment and likewise whether the fact that the Government was a party to the prosecution would be given weight.

Sinclair Objects to Postponing Teapot Dome Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, objected in the Supreme Court today to postponement of action on his appeal in the Teapot Dome civil suit which he lost in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Government, asserting that the Doheny civil suit now before the court contained the same questions of law has asked that nothing be done with the Sinclair case until the Doheny question is disposed of. Sinclair's counsel today argued that such a statement was incorrect. The Teapot Dome case, they insisted, involved vital questions of law not present in the Doheny appeal and which could not be determined by a decision in the Doheny case.

FIRST MOVE IN ATTACK ON VARE'S SENATE SEAT MADE

Democratic Chairman Gerry Says Committee Guffey's Material Is "Most Interesting."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The first move looking to a contest in the recent senatorial election in Pennsylvania was considered here today at a three-hour conference between Senator Gerry, Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic National Committeeman for Pennsylvania, who presented voluminous data touching upon the general situation in Pennsylvania.

After the conversation, Senator Gerry described Guffey's material as "most interesting." Guffey will see other Democratic members of the Senate in a week or 10 days. He said he urged no specific action, but merely presented his material for consideration of the committee.

Senator Gerry explained his committee was without authority to initiate a formal investigation of the senatorial contest in which Representative William S. Vare, Republican, was returned victor over William B. Wilson, Democrat.

GOVERNMENT MUST STAND BY DRY LAW IT INVOKES

Can't Switch From Prohibition Act to Internal Revenue Statute, Says Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The Federal Government must not mix its liquor statutes when it undertakes to seize an automobile for illegal transportation of stimulants.

Thus in effect the Supreme Court today answered a question propounded by the Court of Appeals in a case from the State of Washington. The highest tribunal said that once a confiscation case is begun under the prohibition laws, it must thereafter be prosecuted under that statute and not under the old internal revenue laws.

The liquor sections of the internal revenue laws were held by the Supreme Court yesterday to be still in effect and available for confiscation cases when the Government wants to use them.

In certifying the appeal the Court of Appeals asked several other questions, but the Supreme Court held that, in view of its answer to the confiscation question, it was not necessary to answer the others. The case was appealed by the Port Gardner Investment Co.

HELD FOR SMUGGLING SAWS INTO KANSAS CITY JAIL

Federal Agent, Posing as Prisoner, Buys 25 of Tools From Plumber.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—Traffic in steel saws, whisky and narcotics at the Jackson County jail here was believed to have been broken up today with the arrest of Roy Richardson, 48 years old, a plumber, employed by the County Court.

Richardson was arrested on information that he had sold saws to Alva W. Estabrook, Denver chemist, convicted of sending poison through the mails to the home of Judge E. E. Porterfield of the Circuit Court here.

H. S. Forrer, chief Federal narcotic agent, on receipt of a "tip" stationed an agent in the jail. This man bought 25 saws from Richardson in the time he was acting a prisoner's role, it is said.

Richardson had free access to all parts of the jail in his capacity as plumber.

CHARGES LISTING OF CATS AND DOGS AS PENNSYLVANIA VOTERS

Storekeeper Informs Senator Norris Names of Dead Persons Also Were Used.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Charges that dogs and cats have "voted at each election during the last ten years" in Philadelphia were made in a letter by George H. Fetzer, a storekeeper of that city, received yesterday by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska.

The letter was a copy of one Fetzer had sent J. E. Cornell of Indiana, Pa., defending Norris' action in campaigning in the Keystone State against William S. Vare, whose stronghold is in Philadelphia.

"If you lived in this city and knew of the crooked, false and dishonest elections, voting and counting, I hardly think you would want to criticise any man for trying to expose it," said Fetzer, who described himself as a Republican.

"In one particular division they had 380 registered voters," he added. "It was checked up and found that 235 of these were fakes —men and women who had never lived there, some dead for 10 years and several being the names of cats and dogs."

Norris said he would consider possible action on the letter later.

ADMITS HE BOUGHT POISON FOR SUITOR OF ANOTHER'S WIFE

Youth Arrested in St. Louis for Part in Plot to Kill Woman's Husband in Greene County, Ark.

DECLARES HE GAVE DRUG TO HIS FRIEND

And Friend Disappeared in Woods With Victim, Carrying Potion and Bottle of Moonshine.

A story of love and hate in which a youthful farmer of Greene County, Arkansas, is accused of poisoning another farmer so as to steal his wife, was told here today with the arrest of Marion Wilson, 19 years old, at his rooming house, 4024 Delmar boulevard.

Principals are Raymond McCoy, 20, who was poisoned; Cleao George, 19, who is alleged to have poisoned him, and McCoy's wife, Pearl, 23, loved by both. Wilson, the fourth figure in the case, bought the poison.

McCoy, brother of the Greene County Treasurer, has been seriously ill from poisoning since Oct. 21. He is paralyzed.

The three young men and the woman were reared on neighboring farms along R. R. No. 6, outside the town of Paragould.

Wilson Tells the Story.

They were friends until——

"Cleao fell in love with Pearl," Wilson related. "Once Cleao bought some poison, but I warned him not to give it to Ray. I told him that everybody knew he had the stuff and if Ray got sick they would trace it to him.

"On Oct. 21 Cleao and I met a bootlegger under the St. Francis River bridge and bought two bottles of moonshine. We got all 'teaed up' on the stuff and walked into Cardwell, Mo. Cleao gave me a quarter and I bought some poison at Brewer & Back's drug store. I made him promise he would not use it on any human being. He said he wanted to poison a 'dirty dog.'

"On our way home we met Ray driving a wagon into the woods to get some cord wood. We talked a while, then I went home. Cleao rode into the woods with Ray, after telling me he was going to help Ray with the wood.

Fled at News Ray Was Ill.

"Next morning I heard Ray was very sick. I knew Cleao had a half pint of moonshine, and the poison with him when he went into the woods with Ray, and I put two and two together. I knew the whole town would be talking, so I came to St. Louis to avoid the scandal."

Sheriff John B. Farrell and Treasurer Robert McCoy of Greene County drove to St. Louis, and with the aid of St. Louis police arrested Wilson at 4 a. m. today. They are driving back to Paragould with him. They said George was under arrest at Paragould, but did not give his version of the case.

George waived examination yesterday when arraigned at Paragould before Justice of the Peace Grooms on charges of assault to kill and giving away alcoholic liquors. He is in jail in default of bond.

"Then did you go back to your room?" "Yes."

"How about the door to your room?" "I kept it locked."

He went to bed that night about 8 or 9 o'clock, the usual time, he said.

DECLARES HE GAVE DRUG TO HIS FRIEND

And Friend Disappeared in Woods With Victim, Carrying Potion and Bottle of Moonshine.

A story of love and hate in which a youthful farmer of Greene County, Arkansas, is accused of poisoning another farmer so as to stea. his wife, was told here today with the arrest of Marion Wilson, 19 years old, at his rooming house, 4024 Delmar boulevard.

Principals are Raymond McCoy, 20, who was poisoned; Cleao George, 19, who is alleged to have poisoned him, and McCoy's wife, Pearl, 23, loved by both. Wilson, the fourth figure in the case, bought the poison.

McCoy, brother of the Greene County Treasurer, has been seriously ill from poisoning since Oct. 21. He is paralyzed.

The three young men and the woman were reared on neighboring farms along R. R. No. 6, outside the town of Paragould.

Wilson Tells the Story.

They were friends until——

"Cleao fell in love with Pearl," Wilson related. "Once Cleao bought some poison, but I warned him not to give it to Ray. I told him that everybody knew he had the stuff and if Ray got sick they would trace it to him.

"On Oct. 21 Cleao and I met a bootlegger under the St. Francis River bridge and bought two bottles of moonshine. We got all 'teaed up' on the stuff and walked into Cardwell, Mo. Cleao gave me a quarter and I bought some poison at Brewer & Back's drug store. I made him promise he would not use it on any human being. He said he wanted to poison a 'dirty dog.'

"On our way home we met Ray driving a wagon into the woods to get some cord wood. We talked a while, then I went home. Cleao rode into the woods with Ray, after telling me he was going to help Ray with the wood.

Fled at News Ray Was Ill.

"Next morning I heard Ray was very sick. I knew Cleao had a half pint of moonshine, and the poison with him when he went into the woods with Ray, and I put two and two together. I knew the whole town would be talking, so I came to St. Louis to avoid the scandal."

Sheriff John B. Farrell and Treasurer Robert McCoy of Greene County drove to St. Louis, and with the aid of St. Louis police arrested Wilson at 4 a. m. today. They are driving back to Paragould with him. They said George was under arrest at Paragould, but did not give his version of the case.

George waived examination yesterday when arraigned at Paragould before Justice of the Peace Grooms on charges of assault to kill and giving away alcoholic liquors. He is in jail in default of bond.

WILLIE STEVENS ALSO PRESENTS ALIBI AT THE HALL-MILLS TRIAL

prosecutor's office?" "Yes, sir."

"They asked you where you kept it and you showed them and gave it to them?" "Yes."

"Between the time you returned from your summer vacation in 1922 and the time of the murder did you notice anything unusual in the relations between your sister and Mr. Hall?" "No, sir."

"Anything unusual in your relations with them?" "No, sir.

At Home on Night of Killing.

"Detail your movements Sept. 14 as far as you can." "As far as I know I was simply in New Brunswick. I came home for dinner and supper and left the house with my sister the next morning about 2:30."

"You were home for supper?" "Yes, sir."

"Who was at supper?" "Mr. Hall, Mrs. Hall, little Frances Voorhees (relative of the Halls) and myself."

"Anything unusual happen at supper?" "No, sir."

"What did you do after supper?" "I went to my room and read and smoked, as was my custom."

The witness related that on coming downstairs a short time later, he had heard Mr. Hall say: "I really don't have to go out this evening, except to see about this bill of the Mills."

"Then did you go back to your room?" "Yes."

"How about the door to your room?" "I kept it locked."

He went to bed that night about 8 or 9 o'clock, the usual time, he said.

"Then what happened?" "I was rather restless and could not sleep. The cover was too heavy. I threw some of it off and then went to sleep."

"Anything happen afterwards?"

"My sister knocked at my door and told me to come and go with her to the church and look for Mr. Hall, for he had not come home. I dressed and went with her."

The witness then described the route he and Mrs. Hall took, saying they went out the front door and took a path by the cellar door, then a side gate into Redmond street.

"Do you know what time it was?" asked Case. "Only from what my sister told me that it was about 2:30 a. m.," said Willie.

They stopped and looked at the church, he said, but there were no lights in it.

"Then my sister said, 'We might a swell go see if it is possible that he is at the Mills' home.'"

"Do you remember if your sister said anything as to why he might be there?" put in Case. "She thought theer might be some one sick."

At the Mills house, Willie testified, there were no lights, so he and his sister turned their steps homeward, passing into the Hall residence through the rear drive, but going into the house by the front door. Then they went to bed.

The next morning, he related, he awakened early and had breakfast about 7:30. But here his memory became less sharp, and of events of Friday he coluld remember little.

Cried When He Heard of Murder.

Saturday—the day on which the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found lying under the crabapple tree he was seated in the Hall parlor, reading. Mrs. Carpender, his aunt, entered.

"You may as well know it," he quoted her. "Edward has been shot."

With that, Willie said, he put aside his book and began to cry.

Three defense finger print experts had testified earlier in contradiction to testimony of the State's three experts that a finger print on a calling card of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, figuring prominently in the prosecution, is that of Willie Stevens. The defense experts are J. H. Taylor of the Navy Department, Frederick Sandberg of Washington and Gerard Kuhne of New York.

Kuhne said he believed the impression was "an after-thought," developed later. He testified that he found that charcoal or graphite overlay the lampblack or boneblack used in developing the original finger prints on the card.

Taylor was examined by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson as to his qualifications as an expert, with an improvised easel bearing greatly enlarged photographs of the two fingerprints.

The witness was asked if he had examined the two fingerprints and replied in the affirmative.

"Are they the same?" asked the former Attorney-General, Robert H. McCarter, conducting the direct examination.

"They are not," replied the witness.

Points Out Variations.

Taylor then took a position before the easel with a long pointer, and indicated the discrepancies in the prints as he observed them. He said that he found a blank in one, and not the other, a dot in one was missing in the other, and where one showed an abrupt ending of a ridge there was a vacant space in the other. Cross-examination went over until tomorrow.

During the examination of Taylor, Robert Neilson, of defense counsel, was ordered from the courtroom by Capt. Walsh of the Jersey City Police Department. Neilson was sitting across the courtroom from the other lawyers for the defense, near the bailiffs in charge of the jury. Walsh said after the incident that the lawyer was "sitting too close to the jury."

The testimony seemed to have no effect on Willie Stevens.

Taylor said that the print developed from the calling card showed the abrupt ending of ridges in two places, while on the print taken from Willie's finger corresponding ridges did not come to an abrupt end.

In two other places the calling card print showed a bifurcation and a dot, respectively, while the official print from the finger had no such markings at corresponding places.

At another part, the official print showed two lines between corresponding points, while that taken from Willie's finger showed four.

Card Much Handled.

Attorney McCarter then asked one of the longest questions of the trial. It gave the history of the calling card from the time it is supposed to have been dropped at the scene of the killings up until Wednesday of the next week, and asked if the exposure, handling and delay in developing the print would not have made it almost impossible for any print left on the card to have survived.

Taylor said that the greater part of the perspiration which made the print, would have been obliterated or absorbed, in his opinion, by such usage and delay in development.

Capt. James Mason of the Essex County Prosecutor's investigating staff, testified that there were several cards found at the scene of the murder and that the card now known as "S-17" is not the one found at Dr. Hall's feet.

Print Put on Card Later.

Kuhne not only declared that the print on the calling card was not made by Willie Stevens but he gave it as his opinion that the print had been placed on the card at a later date. "I have reasons for my opinion," he said.

"I believe this impression was an after-thought," said Kuhne, referring to the finger print which the state contends was made on the calling card at the time of the killing.

CANADIAN RAIL STRIKE VOTE

Unions Demand Pay at Rates Prevailing in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Members of the Order of Railway Conductors and of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, including the yardmen throughout Canada, have voted to order a strike, if necessary, to enforce their demands for the standardized wages paid in the United States to these calsses of railway workers, says the Toronto Globe.

The newspaper says that W. G. Lee of Cleveland, O., president of the trainmen, and L. E. Sheppard of Cedar Rapids, Ia., president of the conductors, have been summoned for a conference at Montreal with the Canadian union officers. The Globe says the officers of the railway organization will not attempt to interfere in any way with the decision of the workers, but that they may use their best efforts with the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Labor Department at Ottawa to have the demands granted and so avoid trouble.

$18,000 Liquor Cargo Seized.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Prohibition enforcement officials today seized a Belgian freighter in Erie Basin loaded with $18,000 worth of liquor. The freighter was the Lloyd Royal Belge, which arrived from Antwerp Sunday with a cargo listed as steel and hams. Two customs men, disguised as longshoremen, during the night discovered that the "hams" were actually nothing but coverings to conceal champagnes and liquors.

TYING TALL TIGER TO TEASE TURNS TURTLE

Missouri U. Students Say They Didn't Miss and Don't Want Washington's "Captive."

When the news that a Missouri tiger had been hung from a tower at Washington University reached Columbia, Mo., yesterday afternoon, everybody said, "Ha, ha, we didn't want the old tiger, anyway."

Chester L. Brewer, director of athletics at the University of Missouri, remarked that "the old thing wasn't any good and we are glad to get rid of it." He characterized the act of five Washington students who captured the tiger and kidnaped it from Rothwell Gymnasium last Saturday as "a small town prank."

In student circles at Columbia the utmost nonchalance prevailed. It was said no one had missed the papier-mache tiger from its place on a table in the gymnasium until word came from St. Louis as to its fate. Missouri students were inclined to pick flaws in the tiger, now that Washington students had stolen it. They reminded one another that the tiger was an old tiger, a moth-eaten tiger, a tiger without eyes, in fact a wreck of a tiger. Let Washington have it!

After a day of jubilation about the tiger, which had a place of ignominy on the Quad and was sniffed at by Whitey, the Bear mascot, Washington University students were prepared to return it to Columbia. They believe they have avenged Whitey for the insults offered him when he was at Columbia with the Washington football team a week ago last Saturday. Then Missouri students stole the live bear, painted him yellow and made him walk in their parade. In retaliation Washington boys stole the tiger and painted him red and green.

The trophy probably will be shipped back to Columbia today by its captors, who rejoice to think that while the Tiger can wallop them on the football field, when it comes to "capturing" mascots, Washington has the valley championship.

ARREST ELOPING WIFE OF BISHOP'S GRANDSON

Mrs. Lyndon W. Burch Found With Stepfather-in-law in San Francisco.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23. —A prominent New York pair, who, not being free to marry, eloped to California, were arrested here yesterday, charged with violating the Mann act. The arrest ended a two-month search that extended from coast to coast. The woman in the case is Mrs. Lyndon Walkup Burch, 27 years old, who, a few years ago, as Miss Isabelle Keyes, was a popular debutante at Hastings-on-Hudson. The man is Capt. Arlando Marson, her step-father-in-law and the husband of Mrs. Grace Burch Walkup Marson, the only daughter of the late Rt. Rev. Charles Sumner Burch, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Krull, Marson was held in default of $5000 bond, while Mrs. Burch was released on her own recognizance, subject to call by the Government as a material witness.

Defiant of the opinions of society, both Mrs. Burch and Marson defended their conduct in statements to the Commissioner. They said that they did not know they had violated a Federal law in coming to California together.

Mrs. Burch left two small children in New York. She said that she "hated to leave them behind," but had expected that the separation would be only temporary.

Pair Disappeared Sept. 26; Search Instituted Oct. 2.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—It became known that Mrs. Burch and her husband's stepfather were missing Oct. 2 when Burch and his mother, Mrs. Arnaldo Marson, asked for legal aid in the search for them. At that time it was said the pair had disappeared Sept. 26. Marson is the second husband of the last Bishop Burch's only daughter. He lived with his wife and her mother, Mrs. Margaret H. Burch, the Bishop's widow, in Bronxville. Mrs. Lyndon W. Burch lived with her husband and two children in Yonkers. Marson was a Captain in the engineering corps of the Italian army during the war. He is 38 years old, his wife, 46.

BANKER FOUND DEAD IN BATHTUB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. — The body of Joseph B. Lederer, 35 years old, vice-president of the Trade Bank of New York, was found in a bathtub partly filled with water, in his suite at the Hotel McAlpin.

The body was discovered by the hotel manager after his attention had been attracted to the room by a note that hung outside the door for two nights. It read: "Do not wish to be disturbed, J. B. L." An autopsy was reported to have showed no suicidal intent by poison.

FISH SUPPLIES EVIDENCE THAT MAY SAVE MAN'S LIFE IN THE HALL-MILLS TRIAL

Barnegat Bay Anglers Who Remember Dates by Famous Catches, Help Establish Henry Stevens' Alibi.

By DOROTHY DIX.

(Copyright, 1926.)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 23.—One of the branches of the Stevens family has among its heraldic devices a red hand with a dagger through it. This commemorates the deed of an ancestor who won a feudal race for land by cutting off his hand and flinging it across a brook, so that he might be the first to touch the soil.

If Henry Stevens ever sets up a coat of arms, he should, in sheer gratitude, emblazon on it a bluefish rampant on an azure sea, for it will be to this noble and succulent member of the finny tribe that he will owe his freedom.

Strange how old tales come true. Medieval chronicles are full of legends about fish that brought up from the bottom of the sea magic talismans, or great treasures that enriched the fishermen who were lucky enough to catch them. And now here, in modern New Jersey, one of these fables suddenly becomes true, and a fish brings to a man the gift of his life, which is above every gift in the world.

For it is on the immortal bluefish, for evermore to be sung in song and story, that Henry Stevens' alibi rests. Everything hangs on that. Everything circles around it.

Fish Record the Seasons.

Lavalette, N. J., where Henry Stevens lives, is a little fishing village on Barnegat Bay, and the chief interest of everyone in it centers in fishing. People reckon seasons there by the fishing. The event of the year is not the opening of the opera, or the horse show, but when the bluefish begin to run. Men don't boast to each other there that they have pulled off a sweet thing in Wall street, or that they have made a killing in P. D. Q. They brag about their last catch. They point out as marked men the super-anglers and keep records of the size and weight, not only of their own fish, but the fish that their friends and neighbors have caught. And a big catch passes into a tradition.

That is why everyone remembers that Arthur Applegate landed a six-pound "blue" Thursday, Sept. 14, 1922, the night of the Hall-Mills murder. They remember that Henry Stevens was there because he weighed it. It was a momentous event, something to stand out as a landmark in their memories, by which to gauge other recollections.

So a dozen men and women, neighbors and friends of the Stevenses brought the wind and tang of the sea, and the splash of the surf into the little courtroom yesterday, as they told that the bluefish had begun to come in that day, that they were fishing along the beach at night, and all saw Henry Stevens at different intervals from 7 until 10:30 p. m.

Most of them remembered seeing him, and placed the time, because that was the night that Arthur Applegate caught the big bluefish.

Mrs. Evanson, the Stevens' cook, testified to getting Mr. Stevens' supper on the night of Sept. 14, and of seeing him early the next morning when she washed some clothes that he had got wet while casting for mullet for bait.

Neighborly Service Important.

Then Mrs. Wilson and her two pretty young daughters drew a charming picture of friendly village life clinching Stevens' alibi, when they told of taking over to him a piece of cake at 7 p. m. and of his coming over to their house later on, about 10:30 p. m., to make definite arrangements to take them to Point Pleasant the next day in his station wagon. They were leaving for their home in Jersey City, their vacation done, and the train connection being bad from Lavalette, Stevens in neighborly fashion drove them to Point Pleasant.

The rest of the day was taken up by witnesses, who contradicted testimony already given by witnesses for the prosecution. You will recall that a woman who had come to live at the Phillips farmhouse some time after the tragedy, told about a man coming there asking for directions. She said that after he had refreshed himself with a drink of water, he had remarked: "By the way, didn't a tragedy occur near here some time ago?" This so alarmed her that she fled into the house and locked herself in. Later she recognized this man as Henry Stevens.

Two other women, a mother and a daughter, who also occupied a part of Phillips' house at the time this incident occurred, and who likewise conversed with the wayfarer testified that the man was not Henry Stevens, and did not in the least resemble him. They said that he was much taller, very thin and pale, and with a gray mustache, which certainly is not a close-up of the rather swarthy and heavy-set defendant.

Contradicting State's Evidence.

Mrs. Storer, the organist of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, brought out her choir book and showed that Gorsline had been lifting up his voice in song in the church at the time he is alleged to have been telling the detectives that he saw Henry Stevens firing a revolver in De Russey's lane.

And the man who keeps the establishment in which Willie Stevens had his clothes cleaned, testified that the spots on the suits that were sent to be scoured the day after the murder, were just the common grease blobs dropped by an untidy man on his waistcoat.

As to Willie Stevens.

The woman who thought she saw Willie Stevens at North Plainfield on the night of the tragedy said taht the man who came to her house stuttered, and told her he had epilepsy. Dr. Runyon, the Stevens family physician, who has attended Willie for 12 years, positively denied this. He says Willie doesn't stutter, has not epilepsy, and that he regards him as above the average in mentality,—at any rate he knows a lot of folks who aren't as smart as Willie is. When pressed for a reason for this belief, the doctor said Willie read deep, highbrow literature. Never novels.

"Doesn't epilepsy affect the mind?" cried Senator Simpson.

"Not necessarily," replied Dr. Runyon. "Some epileptics have been of exceeding brilliance, as Julius Caesar, and Napoleon."

Nor had the doctor ever seen any evidence of high temper in Willie. Only once had he seen Willie upset, and that was after a terrible grilling at the hands of the police. That left him nervous, as it would most of us.

John Cline, of the Fire Department in New Brunswick, didn't think Willie had epilepsy either, and he had known him 20 years, and unconsciously painted a wistful little picture of this man who has never grown up, but has remained a little boy and had nobody to play with. He said Willie used to belong to the volunteer fire department, and after that was done away with, he still came every morning to the fire house between 9 and 10 o'clock, and stayed there all day until 5. He had done that for years. Just to have something to do, he would run errands for the firemen, or go out and buy food, so they would have their lunch together.

"You say this rich man, living in a fine home, would run errands for your firemen?" demanded Senator Simpson.

"Sure," grinned the fireman. "He loved to do it."

And he did, the kindly soul, the little boy who felt proud at being entrusted with a commission.

Then the defense hurled its shock troops at the testimony of Dickman, the state trooper, who declared that he received $2500 to call off his investigation of the murder, shut his mouth and go away. Documents were presented from the Army and Navy Departments to show that Dickman had deserted from both arms of the service.

And then the fight over the finger-prints, which will be the real battle, began.

DEMANDS THAT ALLIED BOARD LEAVE GERMANY

Dr. Stresemann Says Berlin Has Proved Readiness to Meet Treaty Obligations.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 23. — Germany unequivocally demands withdrawal of the Interallied Military Control Commission, Foreign Minister Stresemann declared in the Reichstag today.

"We have proven our readiness to fulfill all the obligations arising from the Versailles Treaty," said Stresemann. "Therefore we expect the other Governments to hesitate no longer and to draw the only possible conclusion from this situation.

"It would be incompatible with our entry into the League of Nations and the operation of the Locarno agreements to make the minor technical questions still at issue an excuse for burdening the German people with a psychological weight, such as continuation of the Foreign Control Commissions constitutes.

TRUCE IN FEUD OF ITALIAN AND CUCKOO GANGS

O'Fallon, and his suit to enjoin the police from continually raiding the former place is now pending in Circuit Court.

Details From Other Sources.

Additional details of the truce have come to Chief Kaiser from various other sources.

The peace conference was held during three days of last week at the St. Louis Hotel, just across the street from the armored office of Brown and "Gillie" Owens.

Brown was among the representatives of the Cuckoo gang at the conference, Chief Kaiser has learned. Among others there was Milford Jones, a well-known Cuckoo. For the Italians the representation included John Giannola, wealthy wholesale sugar dealer; Vito, his brother; "Shorty" Russo and Vincent Spicuzza, "Shorty's" boon companion and first lieutenant.

The meeting, which consumed three days of last week, is said to have been arranged by mutual out-of-town friends of the two gangs, and was attended by a man from Detroit and another from New York.

Arbitrators at Meeting.

With the disinterested members of the conference acting as arbitrators, the many phases of gang activity, over which the factions have quarreled, were threshed out. Included in the points of difficulty was the growing activity of Cuckoo gangsters in levying tribute on Italian merchants.

For years past, it has been known to the police that Italian gangsters have forced their more industrious fellow countrymen to make certain weekly or monthly payments to be allowed to operate their legitimate business in peace. Failure to pay these unofficial "taxes" usually brought prompt results in an early morning bombing or the kidnaping of one of the children of the recalcitrant merchant's family.

But when the Cuckoos began to run with the Italian gangsters in the so-called "East Side Mob," a loosely knit organization which once included members of both the foreign and American factions, they, too, learned of the easy money to be got by "collecting." It was not long before merchants found themselves paying two gangs instead of one. Protests over this doubly irksome situation are believed to have played a large part in bringing about the peace meeting.

Just what arrangement the conferees made to get around this situation the police do not know. Districting of the city, or splitting of collections, are both possibilities.

Other Points Adjusted.

Other points known to have come up for adjustment are the persistent interference of Cuckoo gangsters with the operation of stills, their practice of waylaying liquor shipments and "shaking down" the drivers, and many other of their operations which interfered seriously with the extensive bootlegging business of the Italians.

The strained position of the bootlegging industry as caused by the depredations of the rival gangsters was likely to become more acute during the coming weeks because of the increasing demand for liquor for the holiday season and that, too, is said to have been another condition which entered into the deliberations of the conference.

The gang war has been on since last February when the bodies of Constable Ohmer Hockett and his pal, John Blake, were found wired together in a grave on a Horseshoe Lake moonshining farm. Since then there have been 11 other murders. Thirteen men and woman bystander have been struck by bullets fired by warring gangsters. One of the men killed, a linen peddler, apparently was innocent of any connection with the fued, but his life was taken in the apparent belief that he was a gunman imported by the Cuckoo faction.

None of Murders Solved.

Although three squads of detectives, detailed exclusively to the gang feud, have made scores of arrests and have killed two gangsters, they have been unable to make headway in solving any of the murders, with the possible exception of the linen peddler, in connection with which Alphonse Palazzolo, Italian clique member, is held at Clayton jail without bond.

SUPREME COURT RULING UPHOLDS ZONING ACT

Involves Euclid, O., Case, but Appears Favorable to St. Louis Regulation.

A decision of the United States Supreme Court, upholding the zoning ordinance of the village of Euclid, O., a suburb of Cleveland, is considered favorable to the new St. Louis zoning law, now in effect.

City Counselor Muench, after reading news dispatches of the Supreme Court's decision, said today that it appeared to uphold the right of muncipalities to enact reasonable zoning laws, based upon police power.

"The court appears to hold that such legislation is not in violation of the Federal Constitution, in its provisions as to the taking of private property," the City Counselor said. "However, the Missouri constitution goes farther than the Federal Constitution in this respect. The Missouri constitution provides not only that property may not be taken without compensation, but that no 'interest therein' may be so taken."

No test case involving the new St. Louis zoning ordinance has been brought. The decision of the United States Supreme Court, in the Ohio case, held that regulations which might have been considered arbitrary in former years must be recognized as necessary under modern conditions of community life. It cited the rule, "You must use what is your own in such a way as not to harm another." It ruled also that "a nuisance may be the right thing in the wrong place, like a pig in the parlor," and that such nuisances were a proper subject of restrictive laws.

Ohio Decision Involves Right to Regulate Erection of Buildings.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The village of Euclid, O., a suburb of Cleveland, won in the Supreme Court yesterday its right to enforce its zoning ordinance regulating the erection of buildings.

The decision was restricted to the specific question presented by the Euclid ordinance, and did not pass upon the validity of zoning regulations in general, which mu[illegible] determined, the court stated [illegible] the circumstances in each case. Zoning suits are pending from several other cities.

MANTLE OF G. A. R. PLACED ON SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Senator Means of Colorado Urges Fighters to Take Lead in Patriotism.

Members of the United Spanish-American War Veterans were urged to take the leadership in matters of patriotism and nationalism by their commander-in-chief United States Senator Rice W. Means of Colorado, in an address before a group of their local leaders and representatives of the American Legion, Jefferson Barracks and Veterans' Bureau, at luncheon at the City Club yesterday.

Senator Means, a Lieutenant in the Spanish war, going to the Philippines, and a Colonel in the World War, going to France, will devote his time for the next year to the veterans' organization. He pointed out that in the past the nation had looked to the G. A. R. as "the very picture of patriotic idealism," and said it now devolved on the men who fought in '98 to take this place.

Robert E. Lee introduced Senator Means as the man responsible for legislation putting Spanish War veterans on equality in pensions and otherwise with other veterans. Herman A. Finke, department commander for Missouri of the United Spanish-American War Veterans, told of plans to eliminate school picnics Memorial day.

Col. Moor N. Falls, commandant of Jefferson Barracks, and Capt. Robert G. Cousley, adjutant, were admitted to the organization, at the luncheon, in a ceremony conducted by Senator Means.

Cards were mailed to 193,590 city taxpayers last week, notifying them of the amounts of real estate and personal taxes due, the total of which is $29,868,039. This levy is $1,408,697 higher than that of last year. It is based on an assessment on real estate, personalty and public utilities of $1,157,746,652. The greater part of taxes here are paid by mail, and taxpayers have not begun to visit the office of the Collector at City Hall in great numbers.

No notice of real estate taxes is sent out in the county, but this year, for the first time, notices of personal property taxes were mailed. However, bills for real estate taxes will be sent out on request to the Collector, at Clayton Courthouse, which should be accompanied by stamped addressed envelope for reply. County taxes became payable Sept. 1 and taxpayers have begun to visit the Collector in fairly large numbers.

BOY, 14, COASTING IN STREET, KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Edward Jones Dies of a Fractured Skull Suffered When Riding on South Seventh Boulevard.

TWO OTHER LADS HURT IN SAME WAY

Emil Markis, 11, Struck in Alley; Leroy McKean, 14, Had Sled Tied to Father's Car Which Hit Another.

The first coasting fatality of the season was recorded today when Edward Jones, 14 years old, of 2108 South Second street, died at City Hospital of a fractured skull and internal injuries suffered at 7 p. m. yesterday, when struck and run over by an automobile while he was riding on a sled in South Seventh boulevard.

The driver of the automobile, John H. Wolfmerhauser Jr., 43, of Melbourne Hotel, was released on bond to appear at the Coroner's inquest.

The boy was on his way to coast on Lami street, between Twelfth and Ninth streets, with his brother, Henry Jones, 15, when the accident occurred. He was running and hopping on his sled while going south on Seventh, one of the main traffic arteries downtown from the southeast part of the city.

Wolmerhauser, northbound in Seventh, started to pass another machine on the left side 100 feet north of Allen avenue, when he crashed into the boy's sled, running over him.

Edward was one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones. He was employed as an errand boy by the Huber Ink Co., 113 Vine street. His death was the one hundred and fifty-fifth motor vehicle fatality of the year—13 less than occurred during the corresponding period of 1925.

Two Boys Riding Sleds Injured in Auto Accident.

While coasting down a grade into an alley in the rear of 1221 Chouteau avenue, at 5 p. m. yesterday, Emil Sarkis, 11 years old, of 1033 Chouteau, was struck by an automobile driven by Henry Haas of 4412 Beck street, suffering lacerations of the head and shoulder.

Leroy McKean, 14, of 3722 Lucky street, suffered a skull fracture Sunday while riding on a sled tied to the rear of his father's automobile, which collided with another machine at Pendleton avenue and Page boulevard.

Police Investigate Death of Woman From Auto Injuries.

Police are investigating a report that the death of Miss Olive Rose, 33 years old, a Negro, at New Haven, Mo., last Friday, was caused by injuries suffered when struck by an automobile in the 1000 block of Leonard avenue, last Wednesday. She and two sisters, now in New Haven, roomed on Leonard avenue. Police first learned of the accident from an employe of an apartment house where Miss Rose worked. They were told the motorist took her to her rooming house and then departed without giving his name. The injured woman was later taken to New Haven.

ST. LOUIS BANK LOSES APPEAL FROM $33,941 JUDGMENT

U. S. Supreme Court Denies Review of Circuit Decision in Henry Clay Pierce's Favor.

The United States Supreme Court today, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington states, denied the petition of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis for a review of the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appears, sitting at St. Paul, which last May gave Henry Clay Pierce, oil man, a judgment against the bank for $33,941.79, with 6 per cent interest from 1920.

The 10 years' litigation between Pierce and the bank grew out of a $700,000 loan made by the bank in 1902 to Pierce and others who were financing the Tennessee Central railroad. The bank first obtained a judgment for $700,000, the entire amount of the loan, but Pierce, in counter suits, established credits which caused the latter verdict in his favor. District Judge Faris, in 1924, decided that Pierce owed the bank $87,525, but the Appellate Court overturned this finding.

TWO WOMEN INJURED BY SNOW

One Falls Down Stairs, Other in Ice-Covered Driveway.

Mrs. Clara Keller, 22 years old, of 1601 Olive street, suffered a fractured spine yesterday afternoon when snow on her shoes caused her to fall down a flight of stairs from the second to the first floor of her home.

Mrs. Mary Burke, 57 years old, of 3501 Lindell boulevard, fell on the snow covered driveway in the 5300 block Minerva avenue yesterday suffering a fractured right leg.

MAN SEIZES YOUNG WOMAN, TAKING HER PURSE AND $75

Assailant Strikes Victim When She Screams and Disappears in Vacant Lot.

Miss Laura Tavis, 25 years old, of 4950 Cote Brilliante avenue, was robbed of her purse and $75 by a young man, who seized her on the sidewalk near her home as she walked from a street car at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

The man deliberately collided with her, then grasped her arm with one hand and snatched the purse with the other. Miss Tavis screamed, grasping the man's overcoat, but he struck her on the neck with his fist and broke loose. He ran across the street disappearing in a vacant lot.

HUNG JURY IN TRIAL OF MYERS AT KIRKSVILLE

Had Been Charged With Accepting Money in Insolvent Gorin Bank.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 23.—The jury in the case against Roy T. Myers, charged with accepting deposits in the Citizens Trust Co at Gorin, after he knew that the bank was in an insolvent condition, was unable to reach a verdict after more than six hours' deliberation, and was discharged by Judge Cooley Saturday morning. The case was given to the jury at 10 o'clock Friday night and it deliberated most of the night.

The main contention in the case seemed to hinge on whether Myers was in Gorin on July 8, 1924, the date A. L. Leslie stated that he made a deposit in the bank and which he said was received by Myers. Myers contended that he was in Kansas City and St. Louis on that day and proved by one witness that he had been seen in Kansas City on noon of that day and by another witness that he stopped at a hotel in Kansas City on the night of July 7.

The State contended that Myers was in Gorin on July 8 and produced a book from the bank in which was kept a record of the meetings held by the directors. This showed a meeting was held on July 8 and was sworn to by Miss Anna Monroe and acknowledged by Roy T. Myers as notary public. Myers and Miss Monroe stated that the minutes were not written up until July 30, when the bank was closed and that the minutes were written up to show a meeting on that date, the date a meeting should have been held.

Miss Monroe testified that she received Leslie's deposit and was corroborated in her statement by Mrs. Myers, who was in the bank that day.

It was rumored that nine of the jurymen held out for conviction.

Myers has a number of other cases of similar nature, brought here from Scotland County, awaiting trial, but they will not be tried at this term of court: He was convicted on one charge last August and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, but the case was appealed.

The failure of the Citizens' Trust Co. at Gorin was one of the largest bank crashes in this part of the State and reacted in a big loss to the depositors who have never received a dividend from the defunct institution. According to the statement issued by the bank on June 30, 1924, there were assets of more than $425,000, but it was proven by the bank's books that this statement was false in several particulars, and there was practically nothing left for the depositors when it closed.

Myers Encouraged Depositors.

From the testimony it appeared that the institution made loans and received deposits from men in all parts of the country. It was stated in the pleadings and referred to in the examination that Myers was interested in a silver mine in Old Mexico and a box factory in Kansas City. After the closing of the bank Myers told the depositors that they would all get their money as he would be able to get it out of the silver mine in Mexico.

Myers left for his mine in Mexico but was finally persuaded to return to Missouri to testify when Frank C. Millspaugh was tried in connection with the bank failure. Myers was then arrested. Millspaugh, former Congressmna, was at that time State Finance Commissioner. He was dismissed by the Governor upon the expose of the situation but was never convicted of wrongdoing.

DENY THAT IOWA DEMOCRATS ARE SOLID FOR M'ADOO

National and State Committeemen Say Meredith's View Is Only His Personal Opinion.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 23.—A Westerner after the pattern of William Jennings Bryan, who can unite all factions of the party is the hope of Iowa Democracy, in the opinion of Clyde L. Herring, Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa.

Referring to the statement that E. T. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, made in New York that Iowa Democrats are dry and pro-McAdoo, Herring declared last night that "the great majority of Iowa Democrats are not aligned behind any particular candidate or issue at present.

"Meredith was mistaken when he said Iowa Democrats are overwhelmingly dry and pro-McAdoo," Herring said. "Although Smith and McAdoo have enthusiastic followers in the State as they have throughout the country, neither has very great strength in Iowa at this time.

"The number of Western Progressive Democrats in Iowa and the Middlewest has become dominant lately through failure of the Republican administration to accomplish anything constructive for the farmer, and the Midwest. The champion of their cause, who will come from the West to unite all sections, has not yet appeared."

By the Associated Press.

FORT DODGE, Ia., Nov. 23. —J. Ray Files, chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Iowa, has issued a statement saying that when E. T. Meredith declared in New York last week that Iowa Democrats were in favor of William G. McAdoo for the presidential nomination, he was voicing a personal opinion and not expressing the viewpoint of the Iowa Democratic organization."

Sheriff-Elect Names His Aids.

Sheriff-elect Otto Herman of Madison County, who will take office Dec. 6, yesterday announced his appointments as follows: Chief Deputy, Ben Wood of Edwardsville; Deputies, Frank Spindler, Charles Miller, Robert C. Lyons and H. G. Hildreth; jailers, Charles Haggard and Thomas Flynn; bailiffs, Thomas Waugh, Zeph Shaffer, Philip Liebler, Sidney Cross, William Slocum and Robert Schmidt, and superitendent of maintenance, Don Metcalf.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 23.—Ernestine Walton, 16 years old, of Dana, took poison last night because she was afraid her father, John R. Walton, would whip her for attending a moving picture theater.

The girl drank the poison at the home of a relative and died while on the way to a hospital.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Weakness.

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

MAYOR WANTS ACTION ON BRIDGE EXCHANGE

Proposes Legislation Unless Terminal and Manufacturers' Lines Get Together Quickly.

Mayor Miller today said that unless there was issue soon to the discussions between the Terminal Railroad and the Manufacturers' Railway to compose their differences in the ordinance proposing the exchange of uses of Eads and Municipal bridges between the city and the Terminal, he would undertake to solve the controversy with new legislation.

The public, he added, should disabuse its mind of the idea that it could force the Terminal to use the Municipal Bridge on the city's terms. The city does not possess any weapon to make coercion effective, the Mayor explains.

He was convinced, he said, that the railroads could apply to the Secretary of War at any time and obtain an order directing that they be permitted to use the Municipal Bridge and that later the Interstate Commerce Commission would make a binding order as to the terms of its use. "There is no question in my mind," the Mayor said, "that is the situation that confronts us.

"The only way to combat the Terminal," he continued, "is to build up a competitor belt line out of the Manufacturers' Railway and that would cost $100,000,000 to $150,000,000. And make no mistake, the public eventually would pay that cost. Besides, I doubt that any competitor of the Terminal could find acreage for the physical layout necessary for successful competition.

"I am in favor of building the southern approach to the bridge as provided in the bond issue, but I am opposed to spending the necessary $1,500,000 unless there is assurance that the approach would be useful.

"I have been endeavoring for some time to get a written agreement from the Manufacturers Railway that it would use the approach if the city should build it, but so far have failed.

"Something must be done. Of that, there can be no doubt in the mind of any citizen. The bridge is deteriorating. Its rails are rusting. We must make some move at once."

GENE TUNNEY EXPLAINS HIS REMARKS ON SHAW'S NOVEL

Not Intended for Literary Criticism, Champion Heavyweight Boxer Says.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 22.—Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, did not mean to tell George Bernard Shaw how to write a book, he said yesterday in explaining his recent comments on the English writer's novel, "Cashel Byron's Profession." Tunney declared he was misunderstood when his remarks were interpreted as a literary criticism. Shaw, in a statement in London, declared that if Tunney could rewrite the novel, which has been condisered for adaptation to the screen, and do a better job of it, that nothing prevented his attempting it.

"I never criticised the book's literary merit, for I feel I am unqualified," Tunney said. "But I did say that the story would have to be changed somewhat for modern screen adaptation.

"I think Shaw one of the greatest literary minds of the day. I would not attempt to advise him how to finish a work of literature any more than I would expect him to advise me how to box an opponent."

UNION ELECTRIC OPENS NEW OFFICES IN BLAZE OF COLOR

Profusion of Lamps, Huge Baskets of Flowers and Electrical Devices Fill Big Rooms.

The newly-enlarged and decorated offices on the first three floors of the Union Electric Light and Power Company's building at Twelfth boulevard and Locust street were opened to the public yesterday in a blaze of color, huge baskets of chrysanthemums and roses vying in tint with the lights from a profusion of lamps—bridge lamps, table lamps, floor lamps, junior lamps and novelty lamps—massed throughout the rooms.

There was also nearly every kind of electrical household appliance on display, from curling irons to refrigerators. An entire end of the first floor is occupied by electrical cooking apparatus. The first floor also contains the cashiers' department, now in the center, instead of on the Locust street side, as formerly. The alterations have taken about six months.

DIVORCES NAGGING DEAF MUTE

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—James Handy, 63 years old, a deaf mute, obtained a divorce here when he testified in the sign language that his wife, Mrs. Johanna Handy, of St. Louis, also a deaf mute, had nagged and cursed him in the silent language. Two deaf mutes, former roomers at the Handy home, corroborated his testimony.

"NEWS IS THE THING," MOONEY'S LIFE MOTTO

Memphis Editor, Who Will Be Buried Tomorrow, Always Kept That Precept.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 23.—Charles Patrick Joseph Mooney, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, one of the most widely known of Southern newspapers, who was stricken with apoplexy in his office yesterday and died a few minutes later at his desk, will be buried tomorrow morning. Funeral services will be held in St. Peter's Catholic Church. Pallbearers will be 12 members of the editorial staff of the Commercial Appeal.

Mr. Mooney, who was 61 years old, had suffered from a severe cold and went to work yesterday against the wishes of his wife, but none of those who talked to him a few minutes before he was stricken suspected his vigorous life was so near the end. He had worked harder than ever in the last few days, preparing for publication, beginning Dec. 1, of the Memphis Evening Appeal, which is to be put in the field by the Commercial Publishing Co., of which Mr. Mooney was president, and friends believed this strain had told on him.

Only last Friday night he attended the annual Gridiron dinner of Memphis newspaper men and laughed as his own mannerisms and sayings were burlesqued before a gathering of 500 that included many prominent business men and leaders of the city.

Mr. Mooney was born at Beardstown Junction, Kentucky, and started out as a telegraph operator at the age of 14. Then he taught school and worked in Arkansas, finally coming to Memphis as a reporter and later city editor. After that he went to New York as managing editor and editorial writer on the New York Daily News an later was managing editor of the Chicago Examiner. In 1908 he returned to Memphis to become managing editor of the Commercial Appeal and began to make his personality felt through the columns of that paper. He recently served as a vice president of the Associated Press.

An Exponent of Fundamentalism.

In matters of journalism and in religion too, he was an exponent of fundamentalism. In announcing last week his plans for the Evening Appeal, the new afternoon paper, he expressed his stand by saying that, despite the trend toward "features," it would be first of all a newspaper. "News first, and then if there is room, features and pictures," he said.

With a vision which marked for success, Mr. Mooney gave liberal space to reports of agricultural activities. His editorial columns were his pulpit, from which he preached a gospel of diversification. Farm problems received his untiring attention and farmers his co-operative counsel, and he worked to forward industrial progress and was outspoken in his political beliefs, in which he preached the principles of Andrew Jackson.

A champion of old-fashined moral standards and orthodox beliefs, he denounced modern tendencies when he thought these sought to undermine the home and deny the influence of religious teaching. In the last editorial he wrote, he said the modernist tried to "create the impression that the fundamentalist was an ignorant reactionary."

An Unparalleled Experience.

On Wednesday, April 8, 1862, the Memphis Appeal, whose readers had been anxiously awaiting news of the distant rumblings away to the east, printed a complete list by regiments and by companies of the Memphis dead who fell "last Easter morning in a clash of arms between the commands of Johnston and Grant in the neighborhood of Shiloh Church."

This clash turned out to be the first great battle fought in the western hemisphere.

It turned out, also, to be the beginning of a newspaper experience unparalleled in the history of American journalism. Two months later Grant rode into Memphis at the head of a division of cavalry. His approach was not unexpected; but it was most inopportune, especially to the editors of the Appeal. Grant came to the front door, so the Appeal decided to go out the back.

Twenty-four hours before the city fell the Appeal, lock, stock and barrel, was loaded on a freight car headed south. Three days later it was regularly issued at Grenada, Miss. Sherman came along and the Appeal went to Jackson. Things got hot at Jackson and it went to Atlanta. It was a sort of house organ for the Confederacy until Hood lost Atlanta, and finally the Appeal wound up at Montgomery, with its presses thrown in the Alabama river and its type pied. That was in the spring of 1865.

During all its wanderings it had not missed more than a dozen issues, and it never changed its name.

The Heritage of Mooney.

This is the background to show the heritage that was C. P. J. Mooney's when, in 1896, he first became managing editor of the Commercial Appeal.

The paper was ripe for Mr. Mooney and Mr. Mooney was ripe for the paper. In the fall of 1865 its intrepid editors had started it up again in Memphis. Better edited than managed, it went along, kept its head high enough above water to absorb a competitor in 1890, but got on the down-grade and was picked up in 1894 by the snappy young Commercial under the editorship of Ed Carmack.

Mr. Mooney was young then, but terribly in earnest. About 30 years before he had made his initial bow up in the Salt River Valley of Bullitt County, Kentucky. He got his Greek, his Latin and his mathematics at St. Joseph's College near by, and a year or so later was helping survey the Louisville & Nashville Railroad down through In 1890 he came to Memphis. to Corbin. A little telegraphy he had learned meanwhile to good advantage by the

$6 Complete with fire-safe, art steel traveling case

Little Sunbeam

Every woman needs a Little Sunbeam for lingerie, handkerchiefs, laces, baby clothes and all other small pieces. Its 3 lbs. is ample weight to do nice work but not enough to tire you. Has the same 30 year all-over heating unit as the famous $7.50 Sunbeam. Also Little Sunbeam is the first, perfect traveling iron. In its patented, art-steel case it nestles away into bag or trunk unnoticed. The simple sturdy locking device makes it impossible for the iron to move about or jar loose in the case. Ask to see this wonderful little iron. You will adore it.

Big Sunbeam

For your large pieces, you can't buy a finer iron than Sunbeam, the famous 30 year iron. Its wonderful all-over heating element heats the entire bottom right out to the edges and point. This steady, even heat reduces the need of arm-pressure so thousands of women who use the Sunbeam do most of their ironing sitting down—the restful, healthful way. Endorsed by Good Housekeeping Institute. $7.50 for the Sunbeam iron—$1.00 more for the patented, art-steel, fire-safe case approved by the Natl. Board of Fire Underwriters.

Sunbeam Patented Toaster $8

The patented Sunbeam toaster is unlike any other. It toasts bread while it lies flat — the scientific way. All the heat rises directly against the bread which quickly changes into piping hot, crisp, evenly browned toast — crunchy outside, tender as cake within. The turn-over eliminates turning the bread by hand; no need to burn fingers. Special under-slung tray prevents crumbs dropping on the table. Classic Greek design, extra high polish. $8 complete.

Purse Gone, He Chases Suspect.

Boarding a westbound Washington avenue bus at Seventh street, at 5:30 p. m. yesterday, Clayton G. Moerrer of 81 Arundel place felt his purse being lifted from his hip pocket. He chased a young man until, at Broadway, Traffic Policeman Morard collared the fugitive. The youth did not have Moerrer's purse, which contained $10, although Moerrer insisted he was the man who took it.

TRADE COMMISSION LOSES IN TEST SUIT

Supreme Court Denies Body May Curtail Acquisition of Competitor Companies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The Federal Trade Commission lost its main contention today in a fight before the United States Supreme Court to curtail the purchase of additional packing plants by Swift & Co. in Alabama and Georgia.

The decision was hailed as a victory for those manufacturers and others who have been vigorously disputing the claim of the commission that it had authority to prevent them from acquiring properties of concerns engaged in the same line of business when the commission considered such acquisition would restrict competition.

Involved in the decision also were the rights of the Thatcher Manufacturing Co. to sell the Essex and other plants manufacturing milk bottles in New York State and the Western Meat Co. to dispose of the plant of the Nevada Packing Co.

The Court ruled, however, that the Western Meat Co. must dispose of the Nevada plant under the commission's order because it was obtained while the Western Meat Co. had stock control of the Nevada company. The lower court's order, which had set aside the commission's order, was reversed.

In the other two cases where the properties were purchased without any stock interest in the companies the Court sustained the purchase and reversed the lower courts.

Justice Holmes, Brandeis and Stone dissented, contending that the commission had the authority to compel corporations to dispose of the physical property of competitors obtained by purchase.

BIRGER DECLARES HE KNOWS WHO SHOT UP U. S. OFFICER

Illinois Gang Leader Denies That His Men or Shelton Followers Did It.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Nov. 23.—Denial that either the Birger or Shelton gangs was responsible for shooting into the office of Deputy United States Marshal Zach Leitsch here Saturday night and Sunday night, and that the attacks could be traced to the activities of the illicit liquor traffic, were developed here last night after an all day investigation.

Late Saturday night Leitsch's office was fired into five times by unidentified gunmen who drove past in an automobile while Leitsch was talking with his brother and his business partner. The attack was repeated Sunday night, although only one shot was fired. Leitsch ran out and returned the fire, but without apparent effect.

Charley Birger, leader of the faction opposed to the Shelton brothers, who are held in jail at Peoria and Bloomington on the Collinsville mail robbery charges, declared that his gang was not responsible for the shooting and said that he did not believe the Sheltons had done it, either. He declared he knew who did the shooting and would help apprehend them.

"NEWS IS THE THING" LIFE MOTTO OF EDITOR MOONEY

Then came a couple of years of teaching school in Hardin County, and then to Arkansas. In Pine Bluff he got his first newspaper experience as a newspaper reporter and editor. It was a weekly, but it was a newspaper, and in those days Jefferson County, Arkansas, had its own kind of politics and its own kind of civilization. He was uncommonly aggressive and keenly alert. He went forward rapidly, so rapidly that in 1896 he was managing editor of the Commercial-Appeal.

"News Is the Thing."

His driving force, manifest on the day he took charge back in 1896, was bound up in a single precept—the news is the thing. And Mr. Mooney proceeded to get the news.

This idea—the news is the thing—served the Commercial-Appeal to tremendous advantage in 1898. The Spanish War was coming on. Mr. Mooney put in a leased wire to New York and reserved page one for war news. Through this connection, the Commercial-Appeal "scooped" the South on the details of Dewey's victory at Manila.

The Commercial-Appeal got its footing then and there. It did not, therefore, require much effort for Mr. Mooney in 1908, after six years in New York and Chicago with Munsey and Hearst. He came back to put the Commercial-Appeal back into shape and straighten it out again on the course he had charted 10 years before.

Things have changed some. Sixteen years ago Mr. Mooney sat in at a staff meeting at 1:30 in the afternoon and rode the "owl car" home at half-past three the next morning. He gave up the hours only when forced to do so by pressure of time. At the time of his death he was a member of the board of governors of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, a trustee of the University of Tennessee and the owner of that farm that knew him first up in the Salt River Valley of Kentucky.

PLOTTERS TRIED TO LIBERATE LEOPOLD, LAWYER ASSERTS

Convicts on Trial for Murder Say His Hands Were Freed, But Cell Key Was Lacking.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 23. — The name of Nathan Leopold Jr., one of two slayers of "Bobby" Franks in Chicago, has been linked with the prison break plot directed by six convicts on trial here for the killing of Deputy Warden Klein during their escape last May.

Leopold pleaded in court yesterday that penitentiary ethics forbade his testifying about activities of other convicts, but the men on trial were not so reticent and described to their attorney efforts they said they made to release the Chicagoan. According to their story, Leopold's hands actually were freed, but no key could be found to his solitary cell.

Klein was killed in the solitary house and the convicts insisted, the attorney said, that the only reason they invaded that part of the prison was to free Leopold.

Leopold was in solitary confinement for theft of sugar, and early in the investigation of the penitentiary break it was hinted he might have had himself sent there for a purpose. The defense has been seeking to link Leopold with the plot through two weeks of trial.

When summoned before the jury, Leopold declared he could not answer because "it is contrary to the ethics of the prison for me to answer such a question."

He told the court he knew nothing whatever of the matter and was excused, to be hurried back to Stateville prison after his first absence from the prison in two years. With Richard Loeb he is serving a life sentence for the Franks murder.

GERMAN LIQUOR SHIP SEIZED WHEN 140 MILES AT SEA

Vessel, With 100,000 Cases of Whisky, Carried Crew of 16, Was in Distress From Lack of Food.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The German Barkentine Carmen, said to have a $5,000,000 cargo of liquor, lay at anchor in New York harbor today after a mysterious seizure 140 miles at sea.

Coast guard officials refuse to disclose the reason for the seizure, but a man who boarded the vessel said he thought the vessel was in distress for lack of food and that by orders from Washington provisions had been sent out. He said the Germans were given their first square meal in several days when the coast guard destroyer McCall put a prize crew aboard Friday.

The Carmen was brought into port Sunday night and the secrecy of her captors gave rise to rumors in the harbor. Then a Government agent discloses she had 100,000 cases of Scotch whisky aboard. Others said there were not only Scotch, but liqueurs, cordials, champagnes, and even five-gallon cans of alcohol.

GANGSTER UNDER INDICTMENT WHEN FREED FROM BOND

Tangle of Red Tape Made Possible the Unusual Circumstances in Case of Joseph Simon, Cuckoo.

How Joseph Simon, Cuckoo gangster, managed to remain at large without bond from Sept. 14 until yesterday, in spite of indictment in the $14,000 robbery of a Union-Easton Trust Co. messenger last June 22, was pieced together today from the tangle of red tape which made possible the unusual circumstances.

After spending a night in jail, Simon was released this afternoon on a $25,000 bond signed by John Keegan and John Kelly, professional bondsmen, and Vito Giannola, a reputed leader of the Italian faction lately at war with the Cuckoos. Judge Landwehr, who had tried since Nov. 1 to get Simon back into jail without letting him know he was not under bond, insisted on more surety than the bondsmen could offer, and the Italian leader was produced.

Simon, with five others, was indicted July 24 while at St. Mary's Hospital suffering with a bullet wound inflicted by police in arresting him. A bench warrant issued by Judge Landwehr was executed by the Sheriff Aug. 16 and Simon was transferred to the city jail.

Taken to Wrong Court.

Five days later two professional bondsmen, Sam Dino and Tony Sansone, appeared before Sheriff Schuler. They wanted Simon taken to court for bond, and Deputy Sheriff Charles Broadhead was given an order on the jailer, with which he got the prisoner.

Broadhead should have taken the prisoner to the court where the indictment was returnable. But instead he went with the bondsmen to Judge Gayer's division of the Court of Criminal Correction, where Judge Gayer accepted a $20,000 common law bond, returnable Sept. 14, to answer any charge which might be brought against him.

Judge Gayer does not recall the circumstances clearly, but he does not remember knowing anything about the indictment and he thinks he was told that the bond was wanted in order to transfer Simon from City Hospital. Anyway, Simon was released.

Indictment Was Overlooked.

On Sept. 14, in line with custom, Sheriff Schuler sent returnable common law bonds to Circuit Attorney Sidener's office for checking. Notations show that Miss Florence Weigel, Assistant Circuit Attorney, and William Geist, Chief Clerk, checked the bond against the record of warrants issued, and, finding none, recommended dismissal of the bonds. They failed, apparently, to check against the grand jury indictments.

Judge Gayer dismissed the bond without investigation, and it was on Nov. 1, when the case was called for trial, that Judge Landwehr realized Simon had no bond. Simon was absent and Judge Landwehr kept silent, continuing the case until Nov. 15. Simon was absent again, and it developed that Gus Joseph, 17-year-old star witness for the State, had disappeared. Frank Silsby, another defendant, now in jail, had warned him to leave, police declared.

Sheriff Takes Responsibility.

Whether Simon realized what had happened to his bond is not known. Being a gangster, he was not talkative when he walked in and surrendered yesterday. Sheriff Schuler declared today he would take full responsibility for the occurrence. "My deputy made a mistake in not taking his prisoner to the court where the indictment was returnable," he declared. "I am investigating to determine if the fault was entirely his, or if his instructions were wrong. The outcome will determine what action I take." Broadhead would make no statement.

EDITOR DECLARES FRANCE FIGHTS TO ESCAPE INFLATION

Apparent Prosperity Is Financial Intoxication, Necessarily Fleeting, Lauzanne Says.

MUST PEG FRANC AT ABOUT 30 to $1

Parisian Journalist Asserts America Is Not Odious, but That the War Debt Claims Are.

(This is another of a series of articles dealing with economic conditions in Great Britain and continental Europe).

By EDWARD PRICE BELL,
Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1926.)

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Stephane Lauzanne, editor in chief of Le Matin, says, "Undoubtedly we are heavily laden, we Europeans. We do our best each day and lie down to await the morning with such assurance as we can command. History, it seems, let men do what they will, is disposed to write with its own pen."

The remark was apropos the Dawes plan, debts, economic and financial condition, European neighbors, and the peace of the world.

"What do you think of the Dawes plan?" he was asked.

"That ultimately it will disappear in some general liquidation."

"Would France agree to the abrogation of the plan on the basis of all-around debt cancellation?" "I think so."

"What is the explanation of the apparent prosperity in France?" "Inflation."

Inflation Fraught With Peril.

"You do not believe in inflation?"

"Certainly not," replied Lauzanne. "If it has temporary advantages, if it is sometimes inevitable, it is finally disastrous. Inflation is financial intoxication. It quickens the industrial and commercial pulse, flushes the social omplexion, imparts a deceptive ense of well-being and strength, but is really fraught with depresion and collapse. Inflation necesarily is fleeting; it either ends in stabilization or wipes out active capital, leaving a nation economically prostrate.

"France's most ardent desire," he continued, "is to escape from inflation. All the efforts of our Government and people are direct d to that end. We shall peg the ranc—at precisely what figure I do not know, but probably somewhere near 30 to the dollar.

"Naturally, we wish to stabilize with as little loss to our individual and national capital as possible. Our treasury is all right, having sufficient dollars and sterling for its needs. If there be any doubt about our forthcoming position relative to exchange, the doubt affects our commercial men, but their problem doubtless will be met successfully.

"Universal relief from unstable currencies is the prime need of Europe, for they not only complicate industrial and commercial relationships, but militate against neighborly sentiment. Nations resent foreign prosperity from depreciating currencies, with their momentary bonus upon exports."

Economic Vacuum Exists.

"France has 3,000,000 foreign workers within her borders," the interviewer asked.

"Yes; and virtually no unemployment—facts due to our low birthrate, to the loss of 3.5 per cent of our population in the war, and to the inflation forced upon us by overwhelming financial needs while we were confronted by colossal imperative tasks of reconstruc ion, and while reparation pay ents from Germany were not rthcoming. Our social and eco omic vacuum exercised upon ad acent peoples differently circum tanced an irresistible suction."

"Do you think France ought to pay her debts?"

"Our so-called war debts, no. We feel we were immolated for a liberty which is the heritage of the world and particularly of that part of the world belonging to our creditors, the United States and England. Upon the ruins of France, we feel, the liberty and the security of the United States and England, not less than the liberty and the security of ourselves, were builded. We do not like claims for money in such a con ection. And, conceiving such claims to be morally repugnant, we re not a doubt that they are onomically unwise.

"Do you think France ought to pay her debts?"

"Our so-called war debts, no. We feel we were immolated for a liberty which is the heritage of the world and particularly of that part of the world belonging to our creditors, the United States and England. Upon the ruins of France, we feel, the liberty and the security of the United States and England, not less than the liberty and the security of ourselves, were builded. We do not like claims for money in such a connection. And, conceiving such claims to be morally repugnant, we have not a doubt that they are economically unwise.

"But I am not, and Le Matin is not, against the proposed settlements with America and England. We are for them. We believe them be politically prudent. We believe them, from our point of view, to promise financial aid toward stabilzation."

"Has America become odious to the French?" was the next question.

"No. Creditors, of course, are never too popular. But America is not odious to France. France admires America, wonders at her brilliant deeds, and rejoices in them, but Frenchmen do not like America's claims for money spent for liberty.

"Such claims seem to her unlike and unworthy of America. Frenchmen say about this matter, 'Why, America gave her boys freely. She was ready to give any number of them without thought of charge. It is inexplicable that she should charge for her money.' So runs the feeling, but America is not, and never will be, odious to France. 'Odious' is too strong a word to describe French sentiment with reference to either America or England. France respects and is grateful to both."

"What is the solution of the raw materials problem?" "Statesmanlike handling on the theory of the interdependence of nations."

"How about disarmament?" "Armaments are a deadweight that must be resolved—another call for statesmanship."

"Is Europe tending to embark upon a policy of economic balance of power against the United States?" "Against the United States, no. We must get rid of this idea of 'against.' If Europe can consolidate itself economically, and become prosperous, America will benefit as the rest of us benefit."

KING GEORGE PAYS HIS WAY WHEN HE GOES TO THEATER

Members of British Royal Family Accept No Free Seats; Won't Be Patronized.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—When King George goes to the theater, he buys tickets the same as any one else. The King and Queen, as well as the Prince of Wales and others of the royal family, take great care not to put themselves under obligation to any individual or organization. Since King George has been on the throne he has declined free seats at all kinds of entertainments.

The King and Queen go to the theater frequently, usually on recommendation from the Prince of Wales or the Princess Royal, the King's eldest sister. Princess Louise also is fond of the theater.

Reservations for the royal family are made by the Lord Chamberlain through a booking agency, a check going with the order. Some years ago a theater manager returned one of the checks. But the check went back to him again, in a hurry, along with a sharp note to the effect that the King and Queen did not care to be patronized.

BARE NEW REICHSWEHR PLOT FOR GERMAN CIVILIAN ARMY

Republican Papers Charge That War Minister Gessler Was Aware of Movement.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Republican papers throughout Germany are rallying to the attack on a new alleged plot of Reichswehr officers to organize a civilian army under the guise of sport and special training clubs. The scheme was exposed by the Berlin Tageblatt.

It is charged that Minister of War Gessler was informed by the new movement in a secret memorandum last March from Mahraun, a leader of young Nationalists. According to this memorandum, the nature of which has become known, the former army officers who have organized civilian clubs and given the members military drill under the guise of physical training, have been given military offices in Reischswehr barracks and even clerical assistants from army personnel.

The memorandum explains that the Reichswehr alone is not sufficient to establish a Nationalist dictatorship and that an additional organization is needed.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS INSTALLED IN THE CAPITAL OF TIBET

Natives Regard the Engineers as Being in League With the Evil One.

By the Associated Press.

DELHI, Nov. 23.—Messages of mysterious happenings in Lhasa, the capital of Tibet, have been percolating through the wild passes of Southern Tibet into Northern Ihdia. A report brought by shaggy-haired and primitive Tibetan muleteers states that "somebody who is in league with the Evil One has succeeded in creating lights which outshine the sun at noon."

The explanation seems to be that R. D. Ringang, a young Tibetan nobleman, who has been studying electrical engineering in England, has reached the goal of his ambition: To electrify the "Forbidden City" of Lhasa.

Several months ago Ringang took a shipment of electric light appliances out from England, but nothing had been heard of him since. His purpose was to harness a waterfall near Lhasa and introduce electricity into his native city.

Duel Fatal to Mexican Senator.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—Senator Enrique Henshaw of San Luis Potosi, wounded in a pistol battle early this month with Senator Luis Espinoza of Chiapas, died yesterday. Senator Espinoza was killed outright in the exchange of shots, which occurred immediately after the Senate had adjourned on Nov. 9.

CITES BENEFITS TO FARMER OF WATER TRANSPORTATION

Brigadier Gen. T. Q. Ashburn Says Mid-West Grain Prices Are Largely Set by Barge Service.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT

Says Government Projects Can Be Completed for Much Less Than Rail Expansion Would Cost.

Brigadier-General T. Q. Ashburn, executive of the Inland Waterways Corporation, in his address before the Mississippi Valley Association, at Hotel Statler today, compared the cost of waterway development with that of railroad expansion, saying:

"It will cost less than $200,000,000 to carry through to completion all projects approved by Congress to utilize our vast possibilities of water transportation. It will cost the railways $10,000,000,000 to expand their facilities to meet the increasing demands of our interior commerce in the next 10 years, if they alone are to meet these needs."

James E. Smith, veteran of the waterways movement, and president of the Mississippi Valley Association, made the other principal address at the morning session. It was his annual report, this being the eighth annual convention of the present organization. The meeting this afternoon continues with informal discussion, resolutions and election of officers. Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis, leader of the House waterways bloc, presided at the morning session.

Barge Profit This Year.

Gen. Ashburn spoke of the Inland Waterways Corporation, operating the Mississippi-Warrior barge service, as "your corporation and my corporation." He cited figures showing actual returns for the first 8 months of 1926, and estimated returns for the remaining 4 months, to show a net profit for the year of $347,632, over all expenses and depreciation charges. For each of the years 1923, 1924 and 1925, a loss was shown, the loss decreasing from $955,392 in 1923 to $34,519 last year. A decrease in overhead expenses for 1926, as compared with 1923, was shown to have been coincident with the large increase in business.

"We offer all-water rates as low as 25 per cent below all-rail rates," Gen. Ashburn said, "and we offer to the people of 42 states, through our operation of 2500 miles of improved waterways, and more or less satisfactory relations with 165 railroads, a saving of 20 cents of evedy roads, a saving of 20 cents of every dollar that would be paid for all-rail freight rates parallelling our services. We not only offer this, but we are actually carrying millions of tons of freight on this basis and doing it at a profit."

The speaker said that the farmers naturally seek cheaper transportation, and that because much money has been spent in developing navigable streams, without appreciable advantage to the farmers, they sometimes think the money has been wasted. On the contrary, he said, the farmers' salvation depends on completion of waterways to navigable states." The price of grain today in the Mid-west, he said, "is largely set by the cheap transportation facilities operated on the Mississippi-Warrior rivers by our corporation."

Effect on Grain Prices.

Records of the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange, he said, would show that, when the barge line functioned as at present, with its average haul of 1,000,000 bushels of grain a month, the farmer actually received 2½ to 3 cents a bushel more than he would otherwise. The water rate, he added, sets the price at which the entire export crops sells through the Middle West.

Gen. Ashburn told also of the plans for regular service on the Upper Mississippi, to begin next spring. The railroads have not concurred in the desired co-operative plans thus far, he said, and an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission is being sought by the barge line management.

Achievements of Past Year Outlined by President Smith.

President Smith of the association, in his annual address, said that the attitude of Congress had been changed from one of opposition or indifference to support of waterways plans. He said the past year's achievements were of more importance and value than those of the five years previous. His outline of the past year's achievements was:

"1. The passage of a bill appropriating $50,000,000 for carrying on the work of improvement and maintenance upon the rivers and harbors of the country, the amount obtained being $10,000,000 greater than was recommended by the Director of the Budget, who had cut down the appropriation asked for by the army engineers, calling for $54,000,000, to the sum of $40,000,000.

"2. The passage in the House of bill H. R. 11,616, which carries an appropriation of about $40,000,000 and provides for the authorization of a number of new waterway projects, some of which are located in the Mississippi Valley, with the definite assurance that this bill will be passed by the Senate early in December and at once become effective.

"3. The greatest victory we have won, however, was in the declaration of the administration of the adoption of a definite five-year program which provides for the completion of all of the adopted waterway projects in the Mississippi Valley within the next five years. This is the goal we have been striving for for the past 10 years. The proper solution of the great transportation problem of the vast Mississippi Valley territory has not been definitely settled.

"The inhabitants of our great valley owe a debt of gratitude to President Coolidge. This great victory, however, imposes a serious obligation."

Smith set forth the need for construction of modern local terminals at river ports. He expressed the thanks of the organization to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who spoke at yesterday's session, Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine. He said the Mississippi Valley Association was to serve as the clearing house for the commercial and agricultural interests of the valley states. The association, he said, supports all waterway projects, in whatever part of the country, which have received the approval of the United States army engineers, and members of Congress from the valley states have supported such projects.

REED COUNSEL IN FORD SUIT

Directing Defense in Attorney's Claim for $1,000,000 for Libel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—From his office, Senator James A. Reed is directing an army of assistants in the preparation of defense of one of the biggest law suits ever brought in American courts. Already hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent and literally wagonloads of testimony taken—and the trial of the suit is more than three months away.

Aaron Sapiro, Chicago lawyer and organizer of co-operative marketing associations is suing Henry Ford for $1,000,000. Sapiro says Henry Ford's weekly, the Dearborn Independent, libeled him and the Jewish race when, in a series of articles in 1924, Ford's magazine charged Sapiro with heading a Jewish conspiracy in the exploit of the farmers of America. The case is to go to trial in Detroit March 7. The lawyers under Reed have been and are still going to every nook and corner for evidence which may defend Ford. Reed will not discuss the preparation of the case. Frequently, it has been said, his retainer in the case was $150,000, but that as often has been denied.

POWERS URGED TO CO-OPERATE

British Foreign Secretary's Plan to Bolster League of Nation.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Co-operation between the four great Powers in the League of Nations until that organization was strong enough to impose its will or judgment on any recalcitrant state was advocated last night by Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary. He was addressing a meeting of the League of Nations Parliamentary Committee at the House of Commons.

Sir Austen also emphasized the need of exhaustive preparation before anything so ambitious as a World conference on disarmament was actually convened.

VOTE OF ONE COUNTY RE-ELECTED WATSON

Indiana Democrats Investigate Senator's 12,464 Plurality in Lake.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 23.—Lake County, the heavily populated industrial beehive on the shores of Lake Michigan, re-elected Senator James E. Watson, Republican, to the United States Senate, according to the official count of the vote in Indiana's recent election. Watson's official majority in the State over Albert Stump, Democrat, was 11,383.

Lake County, where the Republicans have maintained an air-tight organization for several years, gave the senior Senator a majority of 12,464 over Stump. If this vote had divided according to the ratio that pertained in nearly all the other counties, Stump might easily have won.

Because of the great disparity between the votes of Watson and Stump in Lake County the Democratic State Committee is conducting an investigation. R. Earl Peters, Democratic State Chairman, says if proof of irregularities in the voting is found, the facts will be laid before the United States Senate and an effort made to contest Senator Watson's election.

Lake County's Vote in 1922.

In 1922, when Senator Samuel M. Ralston, Democrat, defeated Albert J. Beveridge, Ralston lost Lake County by only 5000 votes.

The official count shows also that the farmers of Indiana voted for the Democratic candidates for Senator, Stump against Watson and Evans Woollen against Senator Arthur R. Robinson.

Stump carried 50 of the 92 counties, while Woollen carried 40. Stump carried many of the hitherto rock-ribbed Republican agricultural counties.

An analysis of the vote shows that Woollen carried Marion County, his home and the home of Senator Robinson, by nearly 1000 majority, while Watson nosed Stump out by 500 votes. Stump and Watson broke about even in the big cities, Watson carrying Evansville and Terre Haute by substantial majorities, Winnipeg by a slight margin in Muncie and Richmond, while Stump carried Fort Wayne and South Bend by big pluralities and Kokomo by a small margin. In addition, Stump carried seven of the 13 congressional districts, even winning Senator Watson's home district, the Sixth, by a substantial lead.

Ran Behind Ticket.

Senator Robinson's plurality over Woollen was 22,861. There were 18,350 more votes cast for the two candidates for senior Senator than there were for the junior aspirants. Senator Watson, although his plurality was much smaller, received 3436 more votes than did Robinson.

That both Watson and Robinson were the targets of dissatisfied voters is shown by the fact that Charles Remy, Republican candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, received a majority of 70,000 and Frederick E. Schortemeier, Republican candidate for Secretary of State, 61,000. All of the Republican State candidates were re-elected with majorities ranging from 70,000 to 30,000.

Lloyd-George Quits Newspapers.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Cleavage between the Conservative and Progressive wings in the once powerful Liberal party now has involved their newspapers. Lloyd George has abandoned his controlling interest in a group of newspapers headed by the Liberal Daily Chronicle, one of London's leading news organs. Marquis of Reading, former Viceroy of India, now heads the group, which has taken over Lloyd George's interest in these newspapers.

SENATE FILIBUSTER ATTACK ON RIVERS BILL FORECAST

Newton Tells Conference He Is Informed 16 Senators Have 400 Amendments to Impede Progress.

A filibuster in the United States Senate, at its coming session, against the Rivers and Harbors bill, was predicted by Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis, in an address at yesterday afternoon's session of the Mississippi Valley Association, at Hotel Statler.

The pending Rivers and Harbors bill is the first step in carrying out the administration's program of completing major waterways in five years. It provides, more adequately than any previous measure, for the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois Rivers improvement.

Newton, leader of the House waterways bloc, charged that opposition to the bill was fostered by power interests in the Niagara and St. Lawrence regions, chiefly in Canada, which desire to keep the Illinois-Mississippi waterway from getting the 10,000 cubic feet of water per second now being diverted from Lake Michigan at Chicago. The water is not needed for navigation in the St. Lawrence, Newton said, but it would be of great value to the power interests, seven-eighths of which are in Canada.

"Representatives of the power interests met in Buffalo recently," Newton said. "And now I am informed 16 Senators have prepared 400 amendments to the Rivers and Harbors bill, to be offered after the Senate convenes Dec. 14. They have prepared a filibuster that may last until the adjournment in March.

Predicts a Boomerang.

"I believe," Newton continued, "that anybody who sits down with the representatives of a foreign Government, and who puts his pocketbook before his country, is not a good American." He predicted the tactics used against the Rivers and Harbors bill would arouse sentiment in its favor.

Newton said that, in future, the Canadian Government would not permit power generated in Canada to be transmitted to the United States, so that factories using Canadian power would have to be located in Canada. He said the power interests were spreading propaganda among the people of the Great Lakes region, leading them to believe the lakes were in danger of being drained.

The fact is, he said, that the lowering of lake levels, from diversion of water at Chicago, occurred 20 years ago, and that if the diversion continues forever, it will cause no further lowering. More recent lowering of the lake levels, he said, has been due to lack of raintall and other causes not connected with the Illinois waterway. Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in his speech earlier in the day, said practically the same thing as to the matter of diversion and lake lowering.

The work of Maj. John C. Gotwals of the Army Engineering Corps, who has been in charge of the recent work on the channel between St. Louis and Cairo, was praised highly by Newton. "Last year," Newton said, "we got $3,000,000 for the channel between here and Cairo, and Maj. Gotwals has cleared the channel for 100 miles south of St. Louis. In two years more, with the same appropriation, he will finish the channel to Cairo. And yet engineers told us it would take $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 to fix that channel to Cairo.

Introduced as Greatest Advocate.

Newton, who is to retire from Congress next March, was introduced by James E. Smith, president of the association, as the greatest advocate of waterways whom the Mississippi Valley has produced. An informal reception to Newton followed his speech, which closed the afternoon session.

Congressman S. Wallace Dempsey of Lockport, N. Y., chairman of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, made an argument for the all-American waterway, a proposed canal across New York State from Lake Ontario to the Hudson, in preference to participation by this country in improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway.

Dempsey, arguing against the St. Lawrence waterway, said it would not relieve congestion of freight in this country any more than it is now relieved by Canada's overdeveloped railroad system. While the St. Lawrence route would serve for European trade, he said, the all-American route is essential to domestic transportation and to the trade with South and Central America, the West Indies and the Orient. Iceberg perils and high marine insurance rates were mentioned as a further consideration against the St. Lawrence route.

Dempsey cited L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, and head of the new southwestern system created by consolidation of the M.-K.-T., Cotton Belt and Kansas City Southern, as a supporter of the canal plan. Loree, he said, is an exception among railroad executives, most of whom "seem to believe it in their interest to look unfavorably on waterway development."

Maj.-Gen. Jadwin Tells of Plans.

Another speaker yesterday was Major-General Edgar Jadwin, Chief of Engineers, who outlined the various projects composing the War Department's program for improvement of harbors and navigable waterways.

"While our plans must be comprehensive," Gen. Jadwin said, "it is entirely out of the question for the Government to assume at one time the enormous financial burde nthat would be thrown upon it if we attempted to improve all waterways at once. It is essential that we use every effort and every dollar available to complete existing systems, such as your great Mississippi trunk line, with its most important tributaries. My department is now making studies and surveys with a view to reporting to Congress upon improvements totaling in cost mort than a billion dollars. The economic situation must govern in each case. Some are not sound investments and some must await their turn and give way to others for which there is a pressing demand. In the final analysis, the decision of Congress must govern in each case.

"Existing authorizations call for a channel 9 feet in depth to Cairo, thence eight feet to St. Louis, with six feet to the Twin Cities. The Department has recommended to Congress, and there is included in the pending river and harbor bill, authorization for a nine-foot channel from the mouth of the Illinois River to Lake Michigan. In order to complete this nine-foot trunk line from Chicago to the Gulf, the gap between the mouth of the Illinois River and Cairo must be further improved.

"We allotted $3,000,000 to this work this year with a view to pushing it as rapidly as consistent with a reasonable cost of work. Studies and surveys looking toward determination of the most economical means of accomplishing further improvement are now being made, and as soon as the correct solution is apparent appropriate recommendations will be made to Congress. Work upon the six-foot channel to the Twin Cities is progressing satisfactorily

$2,000,000 a Year on Missouri.

"The Government is expending about $2,000,000 annually upon the Missouri from Kansas City to the mouth. In addition, local interests are contributing several hundred thousand dollars annually for this work, in order to hasten its completion and obtain the immediate benefits from the protective works. There is at present practically no through navigation on the Missouri. I understand that a transportation company, composed largely of Kansas City business men, stands ready to provide the necessary equipment and begin the service as soon as a reasonably dependable channel is secured.

"Within the limits of available appropriations, work will be pushed upon the lower Missouri at the maximum rate consistent with the proper utilization of plant and equipment available for this kind of work. I wish I could give you an answer now as the probable decision of the Department in regard to its recommendations upon the Upper Missouri. These studies and surveys are nearing completion, but until they can be analyzed no decision as to our recommendation can be reached."

Gen. Jadwin and Chairman Dempsey both said — "Get your barges ready" to those who intend new lines on the Missouri and upper Mississippi.

"Wheat will be coming down the Missouri River, at a saving of three cents a bushel in freight rates, in two years," they predicted. To those who would take advantage of the prospect, Gen. Jadwin said "Take the gamble — I'll do my part."

SENATOR M'NARY TO INTRODUCE NEW FARM RELIEF BILL

Measure Will Be Modified Form of That Rejected—Will Call for $250,000,000 Appropriation.

FIVE CROPS TO BE INCLUDED IN BILL.

Representative Dickinson of Iowa Says Treasury Surplus Can Be Used for Farm Relief.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, this time in a somewhat simplified form, again will knock at the door of Congress.

Senator McNary of Oregon, who will be chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, proposes to introduce a redrafted measure on the first day of the approaching session and speed it to a final vote.

The new bill will embody the same principal as the old, he said, and, although the final draft is not complete, he proposes to ask for an appropriation of $250,000,000 to set up the export machinery which the measure would create to handle surplus crops.

Senator McNary expects to confer with a number of farm leaders, but in announcing his intention again to bring the bill before Congress, he asserted the principal change to be made in the new measure would be in the administrative machinery.

Provisions of Bill.

He believes the bill, defeated last year, will draw more support at the coming session.

The new measure will provide for a board appointed by the President from the 12 Federal Land Bank districts, each member to receive a salary of $10,000 a year. They would be required to devote their whole time to the business of the board.

Crops to be included in the scope of the measure will be wheat, corn, cotton, swine and rice, the last named appearing for the first time in connection with such legislation

The Government would not stand to lose anything under his plan, he said, as the money would be paid back out of an equalization fee assessed against producers.

Assurances of support the Senator said, have been given to him by a number of Senate and House members.

Capper for Bill.

Senator Capper, Rep., of Kansas, said yesterday that Congress should immediately adopt the McNary-Haugen or some similar plan, while Representative Dickenson, Rep., Iowa, a House agricultural spokesman, saw a way to relieve the farmers through the surplus in the treasury.

"I believe the agricultural forces of the West and South will be stronger than ever for the McNary-Haugen bill, for low prices for farm products are causing more talk than ever before," Capper asserted, adding that the farmers were keenly interested in development of inland waterways to provide cheaper transportation.

Disapproving the administration proposal for a tax credit, Representative Dickinson said existence of the surplus would stop one of the principal arguments against farm relief, namely, that revenues would not permit the necessary expenditures.

He predicted the political future of any party would be in jeopardy if it did not favor consistently a plan to aid both the farmers and business.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Liberty's Guardian.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DANIEL WEBSTER said: "All is not lost while we have a single newspaper that is free. Given a free press, and we may defy open or insidious enemies of liberty." To these words of profound truth the Post-Dispatch can answer, "Here!" The constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press is not worth the time taken in the writing thereof, unless this freedom is used for the perpetuation of liberty. The first act of a tyrant, upon gaining power, is to silence the press, for its power can make his throne his bier.

In calling attention to the fact that decision after decision rendered by the U. S. Supreme Court, has been at the cost of constitutional government, you serve liberty to a degree far beyond that of the average newspaper. The complete indifference displayed by the press regarding decisions by this court, which shake constitutional government to its very foundations, strikes the thoughtful dumb with terror. It almost seems that should this court declare the Constitution as unconstitutional, the decision would not evoke unfavorable editorial comment. Time and again majority opinions of this court have been of a nature to stir the country to a change of its personnel, yet, these opinions leave the nation unconcerned. The Constitution, in many of its portions, is not beyond understanding, save by astute lawyers; still, its simple guarantees of liberty are annulled without wrathful protest from the entire nation. Freedom has lost its voice in America, for it never shrieks at grievous outrage.

It is rank error to say that this court "knows its business." This statement could not be true, as its own members are often not in agreement. So we have members of this court protesting the abrogation of constitutional rights, while the people accept the abrogation without protest. How strange! Some of our masters more concerned regarding our rights than we ourselves. And these rights written with human blood!

The flame of liberty burns low, but may a fearless press raise the wick.

Compulsory Vaccination.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YES, Russell, our oldest son is dead and buried. I haven't even a picture of him, because of our house having burned down a few months ago. He was never sick until one morning about two weeks after he was vaccinated (Friday, Oct. 15) at school. Then Friday morning, Oct. 29, he laid in bed, saying he didn't want to go to school as his arm ached and so did his head and stomach. the second morning lockjaw set in and he never spoke nor ate again, but died at the hospital Nov. 8, 1926.

I wish we had known sooner what an awful thing vaccination is! My mother had 10 children, none of us were ever vaccinated and we were a happy, healthy bunch. I never dreamed vaccination was so dangerous. Why can't they stop it in schools? I am writing this in hopes the right people will read it and take steps to have it stopped before there are more dreadful results.

MR. AND MRS. A. SKYLES.

Service on Union Car Line.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN answer to a letter published in your paper Nov. 20 signed Miss Minnie Freedman, a high school pupil, which we read with appreciation, I would like to explain why we have had delays on the cars of the Union line during the recent cold spell and causing the school children, especially on cold mornings, to be late for school.

In this case the overcrowding and delays to the Union line cars were undoubtedly due to the fact that many thousands of people, who are in the habit of using their motor cars to ride to and from work in fair weather, decided to leave their machines in garages safe from the cold, while they relied on street cars for service. This happens often in bad weather and the sudden rush of these additional patrons at the last moment is the best explanation we can make for the delay.

Respectfully we think that there must be some error in your report that the cars on the Union line were delayed 15 or 20 minutes. Our regular schedule on this line between 7 a. m. and 8 a. m. provides that all cars shall run 2.9 minutes apart, and between 8 and 9 a. m. 5 minutes apart.

We are watching this particular line, however, with the purpose of making an improvement in the service, as suggested by you, if one can be made.

R. C. ROGERS,
Director of Publicity, United Railways Co. of St. Louis.

Democracy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"DEMOCRACY A FAILURE," debated by highbrows. How can it be a failure when it never existed. That is a Simple Simon who asserts that we have democracy in this country, where the high thief only has to "resign" his office or position, while the common one goes to jail.

SIDNEY AVERILL.

ACTION IS THE WORD.

Mr. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, is the efficiency expert of the administration. There is not a Big Business in the country, we suppose, but would be glad to avail itself of his services. He has a flock of qualities, any one of which would make him an outstanding figure in the industrial world. He is an engineer, with a professional record of eminence. He is an administrator of the first flight. He is a top-notch executive. When a man of such caliber discusses a business project he knows the facts. He knows whether or not it is practical. He knows whether or not it will pay.

Mr. Hoover tells the country that the development of our waterways is imperative. It is an economic necessity. In our Mississippi system and the Great Lakes we have 12,000 miles of waterways. These waterways penetrate more than 20 states. Scores of cities watch their flow. They pulse through the heart of agricultural America.

They must be developed in order to care for the country's imminent transportation needs. The project will cost $120,000,000. That is not a formidable sum. Further, in the words of President Coolidge, quoted by Mr. Hoover, this enterprise "is not incompatible with economy, for their nature does not require so much a public expenditure as a capital investment which will be productive."

The correct plan of development was outlined. The wasteful piecemeal policy of the past must be junked. We must undertake it on a big scale, with the completed system as the end in sight. When the thing has been done, say, in six years, the farmer will be infinitely better off. Every industry will benefit, including the railroads. The country as a whole will be wonderfully served; it will not only have adequate and cheap transportation, but its industrial equilibrium now being disturbed by the removal of industries from the Middle West to the seaboards will be restored. Finally, we shall witness the greatest water improvement ever undertaken in history—"the entry of ocean ships into the heart of a continent."

That is the substance of Mr. Hoover's speech. It is not a new vision. It is a repetition largely of his Seattle speech of last summer. It is an amplification of his still earlier Kansas City speech. The speech is decidedly worth repeating. We submit, however, that the time for action has come. In support of that demand we may cite the fact that the Post-Dispatch has been preaching waterways development for more than 25 years.

Let us get going. And in this spirit we suggest that the rivers which we have developed partially and are operating now ought to be utilized to their fullest capacity.

That is not being done. Take the Mississippi barge line, for example. It will show a profit of approximately $350,000 this year. But it has not had a square deal and is not getting a square deal. Its earnings for this year, so the men in charge of it say, would have been much greater if it had more boats. It suffers from inadequate plant and equipment. It needs larger and modernized terminal facilities, just as it needs more boats. It needs better connections and better rate arrangements with the railroads.

The barge line, in our opinion, also needs different management. It is a Government project, operated by army men. We believe Gen. Ashburn and his associates have done excellent work—have done as well as could be done under the rigorous red-tape requirements of military practice. But no business bound in red-tape fetters can enjoy the normal growth of free industry. It can't render the service it is capable of. It can't deliver the goods when questions have to drag through the routine of official gradation.

The problems of business mostly have to be solved on the spot. The boss must be the boss, with the authority to decide promptly. That is the kind of boss the barge line ought to have.

Action is the word. Action is the talisman. The argument for the rivers has been won.

ALBERT, FOCH, THE SCAPEGOAT.

The King of the Belgians and a Marshal of France have pigeonholed their blotters and sheathed their pens. The impasse which raised the question of veracity as between the high contradicting parties has been resolved. The cause of it all, an article by the French editor, Stephane Lauzanne, has been extinguished. It never was. "I have granted interviews to no journalist," avers Marshal Foch in response to the royal challenge. Thus endeth the correspondence. Finis la guerre.

But what about Monsieur Lauzanne? Will he uncomplainingly accept the role of scapegoat, which many a fellow-craftsman has played because of a great man's indiscretion? Surely, we may count on that much from the French journalist. Surely, too, we counted on a good deal more from Marshal Foch.

THE PUBLIC'S TORPOR.

For the second time within two months a former member of President Harding's Cabinet stands before the bar of justice on a criminal charge. Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney-General, was the first. Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, is the second. Daugherty escaped a possible term in the penitentiary when the jury disagreed. He will be tried again, according to the present plans of the Government. Fall awaits his fate.

If the public is shocked it gives no sign. The newspapers gave much space to the Daugherty trial, and will report fully the trial of Fall. Fraud upon the Government, however, is not an exciting subject these days. Both Fall and Daugherty cases involve intricate transactions whose details are not easy to master. They cannot be reduced to the simple lingo of sex crimes and kidnaping cases.

However, the main fact is clear, namely, that Fall and Daugherty, a few years ago honored high officials, are now charged with criminal offenses. That shows how the tone of our public life has been lowered. In other times, it would cause the keenest public discussion. The Fall and Daugherty cases once would have been celebrated causes.

Now they are eclipsed by pig women, half-wits and back-alley murders.

"BIRDIE" WALMSLEY'S WILD WARBLING.

"Birdie" Walmsley of Kansas City again has been doing some wild warbling. He charged in a letter to Senator Norris that the owners of the Kansas City street car company had paid either to the Democratic campaign fund or to the members of the City Council from $250,000 to $750,000 for use in the recent election. He asked for an investigation by the Senate committee.

Senator Reed, chairman of the Senate investigating committee, promptly started an investigation and Mr. Walmsley was the first witness. Although Senator Reed said he would submit the charges to the full committee and would retire from the investigation if the committee decided to carry it on, it is probable that Mr. Walmsley will be the last witness. He was the worst witness that ever attempted to testify before any investigating committee. He knew nothing about the charges he had made. He had not a single fact to offer, nor another witness who knew anything about it to suggest. He said his charges were based on "common gossip," that he himself was ignorant of anything bearing on the payment of money in the campaign fund or elsewhere, or of anyone who knew anything about the payment of money.

Mr. Walmsley earned his cognomen of "Birdie" by his irresponsible warbling in the State Legislature. It seems to be a habit with him. His mouth needs a guardian. It is a serious matter to bring charges of corruption involving the election of a United States Senator, a Supreme Judge and a Superintendent of Schools. When they are brought without a shadow of evidence the offense on the part of the author of the charges is more serious. It is libelous.

In view of the confessed ignorance of the author of the charges, we presume the investigation will not proceed. So far, whatever shame and humiliation attaches to the matter rests with Mr. Walmsley.

SPEED IN THE AIR.

The spectacular victory of the "flying Fascist," Maj. Mario de Bernardi, in the Schneider seaplane speed race, not only is an indication of the progressiveness with which Italy is carrying on its air development but, negatively, a discouraging sign that the United States is beginning to lag in its development of speed ships.

To the layman, of course, the Schneider Cup event, and the three-kilometer speed trials in which De Bernardi set another world's record, mean only so much more speed. But to the men in the air service Bernardi's victory signifies that another country has better and faster pursuit planes than the United States, that the best fighting ship we can now put out could be outdistanced, and probably outmaneuvered, in an aerial fight.

While the United States was for several years supreme in the establishment of air records, both for speed, endurance and weight carrying, most of its records have been taken by flyers of other countries in the past 18 months. Outstanding among them is the speed record once held by Lieut. Alford Williams of the navy, but now held by Adjt. Bonnet of France.

Maj. de Bernardi is going after that record with his Macchi-Fiat within a few weeks and may set a new mark. Meanwhile, the air services of this country should be provided with sufficient funds to rush the development of speed aircraft, for the speedy pursuit ship, all other things being equal, is the very backbone of a good air defense.

Incidentally, the fact that De Bernardi set his records with a monoplane, while the United States has worked almost exclusively with biplanes should cause our engineers to do some intensive work on one-wing models.

AN INTERESTING RUMOR.

They say Butler of Massachusetts, who has lost his seat in the Senate, is now to be replaced as chairman of the Republican National Committee. That is an interesting rumor. Mr. Butler is Mr. Coolidge's chairman. Mr. Butler would favor a third term for Cal. In national politics the third term is as deadly as the third rail. The Republicans dearly love Cal, but they love success more. It looks as though they are beginning to ditch third-term Cal for first-term somebody else.

PITY POOR PEDESTRIANS.

What is done for the pedestrian? Nothing! For whom are the streets torn up? For the automobilist and the public service companies!! Does the pedestrian ever have anything done for him? (Loud burst of cynical laughter and applause.) Of course not! Is it a crime to be a pedestrian? No, but it is either unusual or a misfortune. Realizing that the pedestrian is a downtrodden minority, this department, ever ready to defend minorities against tyranny, rushes to his defense. The authorities will retort that nothing can be done for the pedestrian; that they welcome suggestions. Then, gentlemen, here is one. We do not object to sidewalks having lovely, saucer-shaped depressions to catch and hold rain water. We make no protest about the material in pavements. But we object most strenuously to pavements having ledges, traps, bunkers, hazards or what you will, to catch the toe of the unwary walker, and cause him to lose his temper, his balance and his self-respect; which make him break his spectacles and the commandments. Walking is sufficient of a glorious adventure without the additional annoyance of tripping it on the far from fantastic toe. It is your custom, gentlemen, to tear up miles of streets on the slightest provocation or none at all; then you relay the street. Could you not tear up a few yards of pavement and relay it without any depressions? The race of pedestrians is passing, the ranks of the noble army of those who think legs were made for locomotion grow thinner year by year. Before we all have passed into the pale realms of shade whence no pedestrian ever returns, do something for us, gentlemen!! Relay a few yards of pavement!! Such a course would be a pleasing novelty in the excavation business and would make walking safer.

PERILS OF MODERN SURGERY.

Not so very long ago a man from this city underwent an operation and while the nurse was holding his pulse and massaging his face as he was coming out from under the influence of the anesthetic, he looked dreamily at the nurse and whispered: "I'll go out with you some evening." His wife, who was standing by, was considerably shocked at such a remark, and the man will spend the balance of his day in an attempt to explain his irresponsible talk. —Sikeston (Mo.) Standard.

IF WINTER COMES.

"If you want to do some good in the world," observed a member of the sport staff, "say something about furnace pipes." "What about furnace pipes, besides asbestos?" we asked. "Don't you ever go down in the cellar?" he demanded. "No," we answered, "we keep it upstairs." "Well, go down in the cellar tonight," he said mysteriously. We followed his orders. We went, we saw, we nearly had our skull fractured. Say something about furnace pipes? Not in this paper. We started to walk to the front of the cellar, and entirely without provocation, a pipe caught us between the eyes. We backed up, and another pipe tapped our sconce when we were not looking. Bewildered, we turned around and ten pipes assaulted us from ambush. We stooped, not to conquer, but to get out of the cellar alive. Why are the furnace pipes so close to the floor? Little wonder apartments are becoming popular; the rooms may be small, but there are no furnace pipes to assault and batter one. Is a race of pygmies presumed to bank the fire, or does a man lower himself by attending to the furnace? Nothing can be done with houses already built, but architects who, in the future, construct, or dig, cellars in which human beings can walk erect without being wrecked should score a distinct success. Campaign slogan: "No furnace pipe was made to crack a man's skull!"

NOTES FROM PARIS.

The Arc de Triomphe is a nice little bridge, but there's no sense having it standing there perfectly idle. It could be used for some of the heavy traffic across the Seine.

The Place de la Concorde is rather nice but seems an awful waste of space considering that real estate is so valuable thereabouts.

The Rue de la Paix is misnamed. There never will be peace in any family as long as the better halves patronize Worth, Cartier, and other dress-making and jewelry establishments on that street.

The franc is admittedly low, but no jeweler would have you think he is low enough to think in terms of francs.

THE WORLD'S WORST POEM.

Sir: My entry for the world's worst poem is Browning's

Song.

The year's at the spring,
And day's at the morn;
Morning's at seven;
The hill-side's dew pearled;
The lark's on the wing;
The snail's on the thorn;
God's in His heaven—

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

"ILLINOIS NEEDS A CONSCIENCE"

From the Christopher (Ill.) Progress.

ANY Governor is powerless whose people cannot look him straight in the face, knowing that at least the public conscience is clear. Such a people now constitute the great State of Illinois. Len Small does not necessarily need to be a cynic to laugh at the predicament in which the people of Illinois find themselves. He knows his own evil deeds, and he knows that the people know them and knew them before the Governor's chair was lowered to his plane. He would indeed be devoid of humor if he did not laugh because retribution has reached them before himself.

While State Treasurer, Len Small betrayed his trust to the amount of approximately $1,000,000. This was made known to the people and they twice approved his official life by overwhelming majorities. The Harding-Coolidge administrations were and are covered with crimson stains which were made white as snow by the people of the State of Illinois by a majority approximating 1,000,000. Frank L. Smith debauched the State Commerce Commission. It was made known by his own admission, and he was approved and elevated to the place of Douglas and Lewis by a very substantial majority. Some of the churches which have stood for centuries as the defenders of public and private morals have placed their stamp of approval on a political criminal. They have repudiated the Great I AM and are following after the gods of Dagon.

William J. Bryan said: "The Government will become honest when the people become honest." The Post-Dispatch is right; Illinois does need a Governor. But more than that, Illinois needs a conscience, and needs one which is not blunted by greed and intolerance.

"GUSHERS" AND "DUSTERS."

From the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

UNCLE SAM has been counting oil well holes, and finds that one of each five drillings for gas or oil has been a failure. That is a far better record than we had imagined and far better than was the average some years ago, when oil geology was less well understood than today. An increased percentage of results nowadays is essential because wildcatting to a depth of a few hundred feet, as was done 20 years ago, was a very different proposition from wildcatting to a mile or even farther. The company indulging in the latter kind of test-well sinking must have tremendous resources behind it and therefore is able to secure the very finest geological and technical advice the world affords. From the first really commercial oil drilling in 1859 to 1924, as nearly as has been determined, 661,679 wells have been drilled, of which 20 per cent were "dusters," averaging the results for the entire period.

VOLSTEADISM'S WASTEFULNESS.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

DRYS must agree with wets that there's a queer logical inconsistency between laws ordering the destruction of good, aged whisky and a pronouncement of Enforcer Andrews that more medical liquor must be distilled now to allow for five years aging before the present stock gives out. A gallon saved is two gallons earned, unless we are much mistaken.

NEPHEW OF ANDREW CARNEGIE BUYS 500 ACRES IN KENTUCKY

Price for Summer Home Site Near Lexington Understood to Have Been $200,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 23.—W. C. Carnegie of New York, nephew of the late Andrew Carnegie, has become the owner of the John D. Marshall farm of approximately 500 acres, on the Bryan Station road, about five miles east of this city. While no price was announced by Marshall, who has owned the property for a number of years, it was said to be approximately $600 an acre.

The tract purchased by Carnegie is not far from the historic Bryan Station spring, where the women of the pioneer fort of that name risked their lives in procuring water from the spring for the defenders of the stockade, which the Indians were besieging. A stone memorial, erected by the local D. A. R. Chapter, now marks the spring. The land is a part of the oirginal 1200 acres, known for years as the "Tom Muir farm," owned at one time by the late James B. Haggin, also of New York and of which Harry Payne Whitney, New York sportsman, Dr. Marius E. Johnston and H. Burdette Walton later purchased a slice.

It is understood here that Carnegie plans to establish a summer home in Kentucky, on the estate, and expects to make extensive improvements there after the first of the year. His kinsman, Dr. Marius F. Johnston, has a fine country home nearby.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

TEACHERS' UNION GRATIFIED OVER DECISION FOR FLURY

Organization in Washington Says Unceasing Interest Necessary on Part of Citizens.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The Teachers' Union of Washington has written to Dr. Frank W. Ballou, Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Education, expressing its gratification at the stand taken by them regarding the criticism hurled at Henry Flury, high-school teacher, here recently by Gen. Amos A. Fries, who took exception to Flury's definition of socialism in a monthly magazine.

"The Teachers' Union agrees with the Board of Education and the Superintendent of Schools that a teacher has a right to his own political, religious and economic views, provided he does not promulgate his views in his classroom," the letter said.

"An abridgement of such rights is a denial of privileges guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

"Furthermore, the Teachers' Union believes that intelligent and unceasing interest in political questions on the part of each individual citizen is necessary for the welfare of the country.

"Finally, the Teachers' Union deprecates propaganda of any kind in the public schools.

"This action of the Board of Education and the Superintendent of Schools strengthens the belief of the Teachers' Union that the Board of Education and the Superintendent of Schools will protect the constitutional rights of Washington teachers."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch was the first newspaper to publish the fact that Gen. Fries had demanded that the Washington School Board discharge Flury.

The formal opening yesterday of the new building and display rooms of the Union Electric Light & Power Co., Twelfth and Locust streets, is a convincing symbol of the fact that another milestone of progress has been achieved by our community.

Behind the great industries and natural resources of St. Louis, is the miracle of electricity, working day and night to increase our health, happiness and comfort. And the purpose of these splendid showrooms is to make possible a complete display of those electrical devices which mean so much to the comfort and convenience of modern home life.

It is particularly gratifying to us that Kelvinator has been chosen by Union Electric as the Electric Refrigerator of their preference, because of its intrinsic merit and excellent performance record in more than three thousand homes in St. Louis. You are perhaps considering the purchase of an electric refrigerator. We invite you to inspect the many styles and sizes you will find in the Kelvinator Section of Union Electric's New Store.

THE MILLER COMPANY
MERIDEN, CONN.

An Open Letter to the Customers of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.

On the opening of the splendid New Store of the Union Electric Light and Power Co., we send our congratulations to that progressive Company and to the customers it serves.

To the Company because such a store exemplifies the desire to render better public service; to you, its customers, because your increasing patronage and good will has made the store possible.

A business relationship, dating from the time the Union Electric Light and Power Co. first began selling electric appliances, impells us to send this friendly message. From that first sale of Miller Portable Lamps ten years ago, grew the idea of a buying syndicate of electric companies. Every year since, a few choice lamps designed by our artists have been purchased by these companies and offered to you at extremely attractive prices, heretofore impossible.

It is particularly fitting that at this time, the Union Electric Light and Power Co. will open its beautiful New Store with a sale of New Miller Portable Lamps. Inspect these lamps while you are enjoying the perfection of the store itself. You will agree, we believe, that for beauty of design, warmth of coloring and reasonable prices, no such lamps have ever been offered for sale in St. Louis.

Cordially yours,

THE MILLER COMPANY

NEW YORK, Nov 23.—Re-election of Representative F. H. La Guardia, Republican, of the Twentieth Congressional District, has been ordered certified to the Secretary of State. In signing the order Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel vacated a stay granted last week to La Guardia's Democratic opponent, H. Warren Hubbard. The official canvass gives La Guardia victory by 54 votes.

The Heart of the City—

—Beats in the mighty generators which supply electric energy to St. Louis.

As the life stream flows in the arteries of man, so does the energy of cities flow in the mighty transmission lines which bring light and power to its homes and industries.

St. Louis may well be congratulated on the growth of the Union Electric Light and Power Company as reflected by the opening of its beautiful new store. This indeed is healthy growth; a growth that would not be possible except thru the expansion and development of the body it serves.

Westinghouse is proud of its share in this development. It has been our privilege to serve the Union Electric Light and Power Company and the people of St. Louis through many years. In every process from the generation to the distribution and finally to the utilization of electrical energy, Westinghouse equipment is doing its silent part in the task of keeping a steady beat in the "heart of the City".

We join with the Union Electric Light and Power Company in their invitation to visit the new offices where we are displaying the appliances which we have designed for your comfort and convenience.

ZINOVIEFF QUITS HELM OF RED INTERNATIONAL

Resigns Presidency, Held Since 1919, Following Clashes With Stalin.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—Gregory Zinovieff today resigned the presidency of the Communist Internationale, which post he had occupied since its establishment in 1919. The resignation was a foregone conclusion after the central and control committees of the Russian party declared it impossible for him to do further work in the internationale.

Zinovieff asked to be freed "generally from work in the Internationale at the present time.

The resignation was unanimously accepted.

Leon Trotzky, only recently ousted from the Communist Central Bureau because of his extreme Communist views, was removed today from the presidency of the scientific and technical department attached to the Supreme Economic Council.

Zinovieff is one of the group, including Trotzky, which has opposed the policies of Stalin and the other leaders in the Communist party.

For sending secret proclamations and other documents in code to various branches of the Communist party in an alleged effort to undermine the Central Executive Committee, of which Stalin is the guiding spirit, Zinovieff was expelled from the Executive Committee's political Bureau last July.

At the Communist party conference early this month, a vote of censure was passed against Zinovieff, Trotzky, Kameneff and other rebellious leaders for their factional activities.

Zinovieff's real name is Apfelbaum. He is known as "Lenine's Boswell," having written the only intimate biography of the father of bolshevism. He was with Lenine in exile in Switzerland and France. Returning to Russia in the spring of 1917, he directed soviet affairs in Petrograd while Lenine was hiding in Finland just prior to the soviet revolution in October, 1917.

GIRL REPUDIATES STORY ACCUSING FIVE OF MURDERS

Prosecutor, However, Refuses to Release Her Relatives, Held in Two Missouri Killings.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 23.—Audrey Eno, 12 years old, has repudiated her story linking her father, two uncles and two grandparents with two murders, one here and the other at Dadeville, Mo., authorities announce.

While declaring officials had abandoned the attempt to connect the five suspects with the slaying of Charles F. Landers, cashier of the Crisp Prairie State bank of Dadeville, July 6, last, Robert Mason, county attorney of Cherokee county, Kansas, in charge of the investigation, said he was still attempting definitely to connect those held with the killing of J. F. Laster, Joplin chief of detectives, on Aug. 24, last.

The girl's repudiation followed a visit to the Cherokee county jail at Columbus, Kan., where her mother, Gertrude Eno, is under sentence on a charge of passing worthless checks. After her return to Baxter Springs, Kan., where she is a ward of a Juvenile court, the girl told officers she had concocted her story. Mason intimated he still placed some credence in it. He said it was unreasonable that a 12-year-old girl could have fabricated such a story, adding that he was "not through with the case" in so far as it applies to the killing of Laster.

The five suspects were still being held today. No charges have been placed against them.

MILWAUKEE ROAD MINORITY TO GO TO SUPREME COURT

Way Paved, Representative Says, By Fourth Judge's Refusal to Halt Sale.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—As the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway was being sold at auction in Butte, Mont., yesterday for $140,000,000, the way was being paved in Chicago for further litigation by the dissatisfied Jameson group, holders of $18,000,000 in the road's junior obligations. In a last minute effort to halt the sale and obtain the right of intervention in the proposed reorganization, representatives of the group headed by E. C. Jameson, president of a New York insurance company, appeared before Judge Evan A. Evans of the Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Evans declined to entertain either petition as had Federal Judges Alschuler, Anderson and Page, last Saturday.

The fourth Judge's declination paved the way for an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, said Robert Golding. He said Nathan L. Miller, former Governor of New York and chief counsel for the Jameson committee, would go before the Supreme Court in an effort to be represented in the reorganization which, it was estimated, will require some three months more.

The next step in Chicago will be presentation Dec. 13 to Federal Judge Wilkerson of the report of the sale and the plan of reorganization of the successful bidders.

Three $750 Swans Stolen.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Peter Nielsen, superintendent of Beverly Cemetery, today reported that three of the fat, imported swans brought from Germany at a cost of $750 each, to swim on the cemetery's artificial pond, had been stolen. "And it's not the first time, either," he explained. Last year, around Thanksgiving, two of the birds disappeared.

MISSOURI WATER LACKS IODINE, SURVEY REVEALS

Content Is So Low in Certain Localities as to Increase Prevalence of Simple Goiter.

MARYVILLE ONLY CITY ABOVE DANGER POINT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROLLA, Mo., Nov. 23.—The analysis of representative samples of water from cities in various parts of Missouri, made by Dr. W. T. Schrenk, associate professor of chemistry, and E. C. Hunze, at the School of Mines and Metallurgy here, working in co-operation with the State Board of Health of Missouri, show that many of the waters of Missouri have a low iodine content, which would indicate a high goitrous incidence in certain localities of the State.

Dr. Schrenk and Hunze have analyzed so far in the investigation samples of water from 21 cities and springs in the State and only in one instance, the water from Maryville, have they found an iodine content above that recommended as a safe protection from simple goiter.

The thyroid gland serves as a storage base and distributing system for the iodine in the body, said Dr. Schrenk, in explaining the results of the investigation. It is an established fact that when the body receives iodine in some form, either from the food or drink, the thyroid gland remains in a normal condition, administering properly its bodily function. However, when the food and drink of a certain region do not contain the proper amount of iodine, abnormalities develop. The thyroid, not finding sufficient iodine in the blood stream to meet current demands, adjusts itself to the new condition by increasing in size. This abnormal growth is termed simple goiter.

All Kinds of Water Tests.

The fact that iodine does play a specific part in this malady has been amply proved by experimentation on animals and man. The experimenters in each case have concluded that the lack of iodine in some form is either the direct cause or that iodine is the specific. Also, investigators have shown, in other districts, that those districts having a water low in iodine indicate a high goitrous region, and that there is an inverse ratio between the goiter in a given district and the iodine content of natural waters. It also has been demonstrated that the regions in which waters are low in iodine also produce cereals and vegetables of low iodine value due to the very small amount of iodine in soil.

In the study of Missouri waters, samples have been obtained from localities in various parts of the State, ranging from Maryville in the extreme northwestern part of the State to Kennett in Southeast Missouri. Surface, spring, well and treated waters were examined. All, with one exception when compared with 10 parts iodine per billion parts water, regarded as normal, were low in iodine content.

The average iodine content, omitting the single analysis from Maryville, is 1.93 parts per billion. This is .21 of a part per billion less than the average of waters analyzed in Massachusetts where city waters are being studied to determine whether iodine treatment will be necessary. In fact, many of the waters analyzed in Missouri show iodine content below that of cities treating water supplies for iodine deficiencies. Cleveland, O.; Seattle, Wash.; Rochester, N. Y.; Anaconda, Mont.; Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., and many other cities in the United States either treat their water supplies for iodine deficiencies or supply iodides in tablet form to the school children, as children from 10 to 20 years of age are most likely to be affected.

Treated in Other States.

The iodine content in waters analyzed in Michigan show from zero to plus 5 parts; Massachusetts, zero to 6.3; New Jersey, zero to 8; Pennsylvania, zero to 6, and the whole of Missouri, zero to 7.4, excepting Maryville.

In all of the States named above, excepting Missouri, water is being treated by various cities. The northern half of Missouri showed a higher average than did the lower half. The average of those below the 10 parts recommended was 2.94, while the average for the southern portion was but 1.37 parts per billion, both decidedly below the 10 parts per billion regarded as normal.

Dr. Schrenk and Hunze state that methods of supplying the deficiency in iodine are comparatively simple and inexpensive. The methods are divided into three groups. First, iodine administered as medicine, such as iodized pills and chocolate candy; second, iodizing essential foods, such as salt or bread; and third, iodizing the water supply.

For the cities, the most effective method would seem to be the iodizing of the water supply, as the indifference of the average citizen to such matters is likely to result in

100 MINERS QUIT OVER WAGE DISPUTE WITH NEW LESSEE

Force Shutdown of Coal Mine at Edwardsville Operated by St. Louisan.

Operation of a coal mine of the Madison County Mining Co., on the western city limits of Edwardsville, ceased yesterday when 100 union miners employed there refused to work because of failure of the present leaseholder, O. L. Winkle of St. Louis, to pay immediately $8500 for back wages.

An indebtedness of $12,000 to the miners was incurred three years ago by a former operator of the mine, Thomas Harris of St. Louis.

This indebtedness was reduced to $8500 by Frank Lannae of Worden, Ill., by payment of 5 cents a ton for all coal mined as back pay for the last two years. Lannae turned over the lease to Winkle last week and, although Winkle agreed to set aside 10 cents a ton for each ton of coal mined to take care of the obligation, the miners refused to work.

The mine has a capacity of about 400 tons daily and has been operated for 24 years.

ACCUSED OF KILLING BRIDE, 16

By the Associated Press.

SHERMAN, Tex., Nov. 23.—G. D. Ball, 28 years old, is under arrest, charged with beating his 16-year-old bride to death with an iron bar while buggy riding Sunday night. He has confessed, the authorities say, declaring he killed her after she had threatened to poison him.

When taken into custody, he declared she was injured when thrown under the heels of the horse in a runaway.

FIRE LEAVES 125 MEN IDLE

Destruction by fire of a fan house at the Superior mine of the West Virginia Coal Co. of Missouri, near the St. Clair Country Club at Belleville, yesterday, throws 125 miners out of work, temporarily. The origin of the fire is undetermined but it is thought that crossed wires caused it. The loss is estimated at $5000.

Funeral of Francis S. Chenot.

The funeral of Francis Semont Chenot, 79 years old, a miller who died last night at his home in Waterloo, Ill., will be Thursday morning. Burial will be in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery in Waterloo. He was born and raised in St. Louis, moving to Illinois in 1878.

a lack of consistent attention to other methods. Iodization of city water supplies to furnish the deficiencies of iodine has been practiced for several years by certain cities. Rochester, N. Y., was a leader of this method and reports satisfactory results. This process is the most efficient, in that every individual receives treatment. It is also inexpensive, being estimated at various cities practicing this method at from one and one-half to five cents per capita per year. For the individual family, the use of iodized table salt, which usually can be obtained at any grocery store at a price but slightly higher than that paid for ordinary table salt, is a simple and economical method.

Dr. Schrenk and Hunze presented a preliminary report of their findings at the meeting of the Missouri Conference on Water Purification at Jefferson City last Saturday. The investigation will be continued, with the analysis of additional waters and an endeavor to ascertain comparative figures for the occurrence of goiter in Missouri.

Miracles Are Performed

Here is one performed on John W. Bachus of Chicago, Illinois. Just think of a man having six doctors, two operations, seven years of misery, practically crippled with stomach trouble, unable to work. No money, no hope of ever getting well.

This man's trouble was Gas and Indigestion. So bad that he was loaded with a systemic acid poison, making him a nervous wreck, bloated, belching, gas pains so severe unable to sleep, weak stomach, vomiting spells, loss of appetite, bad breath and bad taste.

This man's life was unquestionably saved through Dr. Duplantis' Gas and Indigestion Tablets. They have removed that acid poison from his stomach, brought back a normal digestion, removed all gas pains, disturbances and pressure around his heart, removed that feeling of a nervous wreck.

He is now a well and happy man enjoying a lovely appetite, and holds a lovely position as traveling salesman, and all that for only a few boxes of Dr. Duplantis' Gas and Indigestion Tablets.

"THE GRAY PHANTOM'S ROMANCE"

A Mystery Story to Baffle the Shrewdest

By HERMAN LANGDON

Adventure--Thrills--Suspense--Surprises

Synopsis of Preceding Installments.

The GRAY PHANTOM, hero of many near-criminal adventures, is astonished to read at his retreat on Long Island that he is wanted for the brutal murder of

SYLVANUS GAGE, recluse tobacco dealer, with whom he had once quarreled over a small jade cross. The old man had received a threatening letter signed "Gray Phantom" and had gasped that name with his dying breath to

OFFICER PINTO, who had discovered the murder. Realizing that he has been framed and that the police will spend all their energies looking for him, the Gray Phantom goes to New York himself to seek out the true culprit. But the real motive behind the Phantom's bold stroke is to clear his name in the eyes of HELEN HARDWICK.

Disguised behind a newly grown beard, he visits the scene of the crime, is recognized by Officer Pinto and is locked in the same small room in which the murder was committed. Desperate and at bay, the Gray Phantom discovered a secret exit leading into a tunnel which connects with the laboratory of DOCTOR BIMBLE, eccentric criminal psychologist. There he is astounded to find Helen Hardwick. Before explanations can be made the police arrive to search the house, and Helen and the Gray Phantom are hastily concealed in a closet.

Just as their hiding place is about to be discovered, the police give up the search, for a newsboy outside is crying, "Gray Phantom Captured." Angrily, Dr. Bimble accuses the Phantom of being an impostor. Completely mystified, the Phantom accepts Dr. Bimble's hospitality for the night.

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN.

The conclusion was clear. The revolving door could not be operated from the outside; hence the murderer of Sylvanus Gage could not have entered the room through the tunnel. Again the Phantom's mind reverted to the inevitable deduction that no one but Officer Pinto could have committed the crime.

His lungs, which had been straining for air for the last quarter of an hour, felt as though they were on the point of bursting, and he was about to release his foothold and start back through the tunnel when a faint tapping sound caught his ears. He could not tell how long it had been going on, for until now his whole attention had been focused on the problem before him. For all he knew it might just have begun, or it might have started long before he entered the tunnel.

He pressed his ear against the side of the frame and listened. The sounds, quick and sharp, were coming in rapid succession, and at first he wondered whether some one was trying to attract his attention. Then he noticed that the sounds skipped and jumped, as if the tapping covered a considerable area, and his next surmise was that the person on the other side was making a systematic search for something.

"For what?" he wondered; and in the next moment the answer flashed through his mind. He remembered how, while he was imprisoned in the bedroom, momentarily expecting the police to force the door and pounce upon him, he had looked to the window as the only possible means of escape, and how finally he had discovered the nail that proved his salvation. Evidently the person on the other side was now doing the very thing the Phantom himself had been doing a few hours ago.

But who could it be? As far as he knew, no one but Helen, Dr. Bimble and himself was aware of the existence of the revolving door and the tunnel. It did not seem likely that any one should be searching at random for an opening. And who could be prowling about the Gage house at such an hour? Again he put his ear to the frame. The tapping had ceased, but now he heard another and different sound that caused him to quiver with excitement. A slight metallic noise, like that produced by the contact of two objects of steel, told him that the person on the inside had found the nail.

In a twinkling he had forgotten his cramped position, the dank air and the sickening smell of moist earth. All his seenses were centered on the sounds coming from the other side, so slight that his keen ears could scarcely detect them.

Something told him that in a few minutes he would make a discovery of tremendous importance in relation to the Gage murder mystery. Everything depended upon whether the person on the other side would give the nail the proper twist.

Minutes dragged by on leaden feet. The Phantom felt his heart pound chokingly against his ribs, its loud beats almost drowning the slight metallic sounds coming from the other side. After what seemed hours of nerve-racking suspense, a sharp and sudden click caused him to start violently, and he almost lost his insecure footing.

Then the window frame began to turn. A glare of light struck his eyes as the opening wedge widened. With great, eager gulps he drank in the air coming from the aperture. A minute passed, and then a face, strained and ashen, was thrust into the opening.

It was Mrs. Trippe, the housekeeper. For an instant she stared into the Phantom's startled eyes.

"He's killing me!" she cried. "He's afraid I'll tell! He locked me in"——

She jerked her head to one side. Slight though she was, she almost filled the narrow opening, and he could see only a small strip of the room at her back. Suddenly a shiver coursed down her spine. A hand was projected beyond the wall, and he caught a glimpse of steel flashing in the light. Then, in quick succession, came a scream and a thud, and the woman slid from the window sill.

It had happened so quickly that the Phantom had not time to utter a word or raise a hand. Now, before he could move a muscle, the window frame slammed shut. He heard a click, signifying that the frame was caught in the steel clutches of the mechanism. He pressed his shoulders against it, but to no avail, and he knew from his previous attempt that the effort was useless. Filled with horror at what he had just seen, he slid down the incline between the walls and began to work back toward the cellar.

Finally, after endless jerks and twistings, he reached the end of the tunnel, and there a fresh shock awaited him. His feet brought up against a solid obstruction. Shove against it as he might, the little door would not yield to his frenzied pressure. For a little he laid still on his back, thinking. His mind was heavy and his thoughts flitted about in circles, but finally it came to him that while he was at the other end of the tunnel some one must have placed a heavy weight against the door.

He was trapped.

Once More at Bay.

Only one thought stood out clearly in the Phantom's mind as he lay on his back in the tunnel breathing the suffocating fumes of the damp earth, and surrounded by a silence and a darkness so profound that he felt as if a vast void was separating him from the world of the living. His senses were numbed and his brain had ceased to function, but somehow his mind grasped the realization that this was the end of the Gray Phantom's career.

The fate awaiting him seemed as inexorable as the darkness that surrounded him. He had faced great dangers and had found himself in fearful predicaments before, but never had death appeared as certain and inevitable as now. Through his dazed consciousness filtered a resolution to meet death, even in this hideous form, with the same unconcern and stoicism with which he had accepted the favors destiny had strewn in his path. The thought brought a feeble smile to his lips, and he hoped the end would come before the thought faded away. He wanted the world in general and Helen Hardwick in particular to know he had died smiling.

Something, he did not know what, stirred faintly in his mind. Instinctively his thoughts groped for a memory that seemed dim and far away, a memory that caused his body to vibrate with a reawakening desire to live. Slowly, out of the whirling chaos in his mind, it came to him. He could not—must not—die! He could not pass out into oblivion with a foul crime staining his name. He must live in order to revive and vindicate the faith Helen Hardwick had once reposed in him.

The resolve buoyed him a little, causing his body to throb with a renascent life impulse. Already his mind felt a little clearer, and his nerves and sinews were beginning to resound to the driving force of his will. If his parched lungs could only get a little air!

Again he placed his feet against the door and pushed with all the strength he could summon. He might as well have tried to dislodge a mountain. The implements in his pocket case had helped him out of many a tight dilemma in the past, but they were of no avail now. He still had the pistol he had taken from Helen's hand while they stood in the closet, and for an instant it occurred to him that the report of a shot might penetrate the roof of the tunnel and bring him assistance. A moment later he reconsidered bitterly. If the shot were heard, it would more than likely bring the police; besides, the fumes released by the explosion might smother him to death in a few minutes.

With a great effort he crawled away from the door, thinking the air might be not so stifling toward the center of the tunnel. He moved only two or three paces when the terrific pounding of his heart and the protest of his tortured lungs forced him to lie still and rest. For several minutes he lay motionless, save for the heaving of his chest, matching his wits against the hardest problem he had ever faced.

Of a sudden something chill and wet fell upon his face. It was a mere drop of moisture, but it felt like ice to his parched skin, causing every nerve to quiver. The contact acted like an electric stimulant on his mind.

He lay rigid, expectant, wondering why the trivial occurrence should affect him so strangely, and presently another drop of moisture splashed against his forehead, sending an icy shiver down his spine.

Suddenly he jerked up his head, striking it against the roof of the tunnel. In a twinkling he had grasped the significance of the dropping moisture. There must be a leak in the vault of the passage, and the soil above was probably soft and porous, enabling the tiny globules of water to percolate.

The deduction jolted the last remnant of stupor out of his body. He was still weak, but the play of his wits kindled his nervous energy. He ran his hand along the roof, locating the point where the moisture was seeping through. The arched vault was supported by boards running in a longitudinal direction and braced at intervals by diagonal props. He gave a hoarse shout of elation as he noticed that the boards were rotting from infiltration of moisture.

He had forgotten the agonized straining of his lungs for air. His exploring fingers found a point where the ends of two boards came together. Taking a tool from the metal case, he inserted it in the joint and pried. After a few vigorous wrenches the board bent downward. Now he gripped its edges with his fingers and, lifting himself from the floor of the tunnel, forced it down by the sheer weight of his body. It snapped, and he pushed it down the passage, then attacked the next board. It gave more easily than the first, and now he began to claw and scratch his way through the damp earth. Remembering the length of the incline at the farther end of the passage, he judged that the layer of soil could not be more than four or five feet deep.

More than once he felt on the point of utter exhaustion, but the prospect of ultimate release fortified him. Clump after clump of dirt fell at his feet, and now and then he struck a stratum of gravelly soil that yielded more easily to his efforts. From time to time he had to stop digging and brush aside the accumulation at his feet. A wall of dirt was gradually forming on each side of him, cutting down the scant supply of humid air that had so far sustained him, but he kept at his work with the frenzied persistence of one battling for his life. There was a dull roaring in his head and a burning torment in his lungs, and there came moments of despair when he wondered whether his strength would last until he had clawed through the remaining layer of earth.

Then, after what seemed hours of agonizing toil, a cascade of small stones and loose dirt tumbled down over his head and shoulders. Momentarily blinded, he could scarcely realize that his hand had thrust through the obstruction and was now clutching at empty air.

The suspense over, he felt suddenly limp and shaky. His legs doubled up under him and he sank back against the wall of the tunnel, greedily sucking in the fresh air that poured down through the opening. For a time he was content to do nothing but rest his racked limbs and drink in huge lungfuls of air.

COURT ASKED TO RECONSIDER RULING ON M'CLINTOCK WILL

Fiance of Late "Millionaire Orphan" Fights Decision Admitting Testament to Probate.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 23.—The State Supreme Court has been petitioned to reconsider its decision admitting to probate the will of young William Nelson McClintock "Millionaire Orphan," in which William Darling Shepherd, Chicago attorney, who was tried for the murder of the youth and acquitted, was made the chief beneficiary.

The petition was filed in behalf of Miss Isabelle Pope, who was engaged to McClintock when he died of typhoid fever, and in behalf of several relatives. They intend to sue to break the will should the Supreme Court again decide in Shepherd's favor.

Miss Pope testified in Shepherd's murder trial that she had an arrangement with several of McClintock's cousins.

EAST ST. LOUIS WILL FIGHT HIGH WATER RATE

Council Adopts Resolution Presented by Mayor—Aid of Other Cities to Be Sought.

The City Council of East St. Louis yesterday passed a resolution presented by Mayor Stephens protesting against a proposed 25 per cent increase in water rates by the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co., and instructing Corporation Counsel Gustin to oppose the advance before the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Gustin announced that he would solicit aid of city attorneys representing nine other East Side municipalities affected and would seek to raise a fund to pay engineering experts necessary in constructing the case against the company.

The proposed increase is based on an amended schedule before the commission and supported by evidence placing valuation of the company at $11,936,000. Following the filing of the amended schedule, which does not provide an increase for the maximum user, corporations in the district withdrew opposition, leaving the fight to the minimum and moderate consumer.

Large Consumers Withdraw.

In a written statement to the Council, Gustin said that if the testimony compiled by the water company in defense of the new valuation is allowed to stand uncontradicted, the commission will place a valuation on the property of several million dollars in excess of its actual value and allow an increased rate sufficient to produce an income on that excessive value.

"I have been informed," Gustin stated, "that the water company has made certain concessions to those interests (the maximum consumers) and that they instructed their attorneys to withdraw from the case."

C. E. Pope, attorney representing the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce before the commission, believes that $7,000,000 would be a fair valuation for the water company's investment. "Officials of the company say they are unable to sell bonds because they cannot show a fair return.

May Seek Further Increase.

"Yet they offered to compromise on a rate that would yield them $600,000 or five per cent net return on the new valuation," Pope said. "To show this return would not be a factor aiding them to sell their bonds, since it is commonly necessary to show an investment that would yield double the amount of the interest offered." The water company advertises their securities as a 7 per cent investment.

The present net return of the company as reported by its officials, Pope pointed out, is $436,000 and they ask a net return of $600,000 which is an increase of 37 per cent, while their rate increase to the consumer is purported to be a 25 per cent advance.

"There is no assurance, either, that if the new valuation is permitted to be established without opposition on a 5 per cent return basis, that the water company will not apply again shortly for another increase," Pope stated. "The commission holds that 7 or 7½ per cent is a fair return and if the new valuation is established, any Federal or State court would grant an additional increase on appeal from the commission in case it was denied by that body."

WIFE OF PUBLISHER WHO WED AFTER MEXICAN DIVORCE SUES

Seeks $200,000, Alleging Plot of Husband and Bride to Defraud Her of Property.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Alleging conspiracy to destroy her marital status, Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster yesterday brought suit in Supreme Court to recover $200,000 damages from her husband, Eugene V. Brewster and Corliss Palmer, the beauty contest winner whom he recently married after a Mexican divorce, and with whom he is said now to be in California.

Supreme Court Justice Delehanty, upon the application of Mrs. Brewster's attorney, issued an attachment for $50,000 against the Brewster Publications Inc., publishers of motion picture magazines, of which Brewster is the principal stockholder. Mrs. Brewster obtained a judgment of $200,000 against Miss Palmer last March in a suit for alienation, which Miss Palmer failed to defend. The judgment has not been collected.

The present suit is unusual in that the basis of the action is an alleged conspiracy to injure Mrs. Brewster in her marital rights and status. Brewster is said to own a large amount of property, and the purpose of the conspiracy was said to be to defraud Mrs. Brewster of her interest in this property.

JAMES J. BUTLER PAROLED ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Judge Wurdeman Holds State's Case in Killing of Girl on Auto Ride Was Weak.

A parole, releasing him from service of a sentence of from one year in the St. Louis County Jail for manslaughter growing out of an automobile accident, was granted to James J. Butler grandson of the late Col. Ed. Butler wealthy Democratic political boss, in Circuit Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton yesterday.

At the same time Butler paid a fine of $100 and $276.50 costs. He had pleaded guilty on Oct. 30 and received the sentence of fine and jail service, but Judge Wurdeman expressed the opinion that the State's case was weak, and it was indicated then that Butler would be paroled.

Butler was charged with manslaughter in the fourth degree in the death of Miss Ardith Friederich, 19 years old, of 6744 Chamberlain avenue ,a passenger in his machine when it overturned on Denny road on Nov. 27, 1925. The charge was unusual in view of the fact that Miss Friederich was riding in the car. The inquest verdict had held that Butler was "driving carelessly and recklessly in an intoixcated condition."

For the next two years Butler must make periodical reports as to his conduct to the County Parole Board, comprising the two Circuit Judges and the Circuit Clerk.

Mrs. Ada Tombrdge, 32 years old, of 5500 Michigan avenue, was seized by a young man who attempted unwarranted liberties at the door of her home at 9:15 p. m. yesterday. The man, described as about 22 years old, followed her from a Bellefontaine street car at Virginia and Fassen avenues. He threw his arms about her as she approached her door and tried to drag her across the lawn.

Mrs. Trombridge resisted and her screams attracted her husband, Albert, who ran from the house. The assailant fled west on Fassen avenue, outdistancing Trombridge in a chase of several blocks.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

LIENS FILED AGAINST GREYSTONE BUILDING

The recent failure of G. L. Miller & Co., New York real estate mortgage concern with branch offices in St. Louis and 17 other cities, is causing embarrassment to the Greystone Investment Co., which promoted the 14-story Greystone Apartment building at the northeast corner of Newstead and McPherson avenues.

Firms which supplied labor and material toward erection of the apartment structure and have not been paid, are filing mechanics' liens to obtain priority over other creditors. Roy F. Britton, president of the Greystone Investment Co., estimates the liens will amount to $70,000 or $80,000.

No Loss Looked for.

The entire $525,000 first mortgage bond issue on the building was purchased by Miller & Co. and resold by it to an insurance company. Miller & Co. contracted to pay the Greystone Co. as construction proceeded, when it got into difficulties on two monthly payments amounting to $100,000. Without this $100,000, the Greystone Co. could not pay all its construction bills on schedule, hence the liens.

The Greystone Co.'s claim against Miller & Co. now is pending before Lawrence Berenson, receiver for the latter. Britton has hopes the $100,000 will be paid in full when the Miller Co.'s assets are liquidated. In addition, he hopes to recover interest and damages.

No one will lose anything, Britton says, unless it be the Greystone stockholders, and even they will not if present hopes materialize. The Greystone Co. stock is held largely by officers, Britton, who is president; Harry C. Barker, vice president, and Robert F. Britton, secretary-treasurer.

Co-operative Idea Dropped.

Originally it was intended to make the Greystone a co-operative apartment, each of the 39 apartments to be sold for approximately $25,000. The co-operative idea, however, has not met with success in St. Louis, probably because there is no lack of land here as in Manhattan, where co-operative apartments are popular. The Greystone is being rented on long-term leases. Fifteen of the apartments are already under lease, according to Britton, who said this is satisfactory considering that they were not ready until late in the fall.

The Hampden Hall Apartments at the southwest corner of Newstead and McPherson, also were financed by Miller & Co. to the extent of $550,000, but the structure had been completed and all payments made by Miller & Co. before the receivership.

WASHINGTON U. AND OXFORD TO DEBATE ON PROHIBITION

British Orators Will Oppose Adoption of Dry Policy for All English-Speaking Nations.

The second of a series of three international debates between Washington University team and teams from foreign universities will be held Dec. 2 in the Graham Memorial Chapel at the university against the University of Oxford, England. The resolution will be "That prohibition should be adopted as a policy for the English-speaking countries," with Washington speaking in its favor and Oxford opposed.

The first debate of the series was held in the chapel Nov. 5, with the University of Sydney, Australia, "split teams," each composed of men from both schools, being employed. The resolution, "That Democracy is a failure," lost in an audience vote 171 to 56. The third meeting will be Dec. 17, with the University of Cambridge, Eng. Members of the Oxford team are Gyles Isham, Patrick Monkhouse and Michael A E. Franklin. A. E. Margolin, Stuart Britt and Edward Stimson compose the Washington University team.

CONCRETE COVERS FOR WATER STORAGE BASINS APPROVED

Board of Public Service Again Acts on $600,000 Project Six Times Rejected by Estimate Body.

The Board of Public Service today, for the seventh time within recent years, approved an ordinance for construction of concrete covers over the four waterworks storage basins at Bissell's Point and the one at Baden, the total cost to be $600,000, from waterworks revenue. Previous ordinances have failed to obtain approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The United States Public Health Service has recommended the covering of the basins, to keep impurities out of the water, which has been filtered at the Chain of Rocks before being pumped into the basins. At Bissell's Point, much refuse is blown upon the water from passing trains, including cattle and hog trains bound for the East Side.

SIX MEN CAUGHT IN MINE BLAST

COLEMAN, Alberta, Nov. 23.—Six men were entombed this morning in the McGillivray Coal and Coke Co.'s mine, near here, following an explosion of gas and dust.

An official statement by the company this afternoon said nine of the 15 men in the mine at the time of the blast escaped to the surface uninjured. Officials expressed belief that the six imprisoned men would be rescued.

DRUNKEN DRIVER GETS 30-DAY WORKHOUSE TERM, FINED $100

Ralph Mahan's Car Struck Another on Broadway, Admitted He Had Been Drinking.

A 30-day Workhouse sentence and a fine of $100 were assessed today by Police Judge Beck against Ralph Mahan, 28 years old, a moulder, of St. Louis County, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Mahan, who appealed, was arrested Oct. 23 after an automobile he was driving south in Broadway on the wrong side of the street collided with another machine in the 7600 block of North Broadway.

A policeman testified the defendant, following his arrest, said he had been drinking home brew.

TORN BILL IDENTIFIES EX-CONVICT AS ROBBER

Said He "Wanted to Go Straight," but Police Catch Him Crooked.

A torn $1 bill pasted together with four trading stamps and the idle curiosity of Michael Lahart, ex-convict, last night occasioned some quick work by city detectives.

The bill was stolen with $47 by two robbers in the saloon of Charles H. Jones at 4800 Page boulevard, at 10:30. Half an hour later, Lahart was standing in front of 1241 Walton avenue watching the transfer of an invalid to an ambulance, when three detectives recognized him. They arrested him as a suspect.

At Dayton Street Station, it developed that Lahart had $40, including a bill such as Jones described among the holdup loot. barkeeper also identified Lahart as a robber, although he denied the charge. Lahart was in prison from May, 1923, until Sept. 30, last, under a five-year sentence for robbery. Last Sunday he called on Assistant Chief of Detectives McCarthy and asked that police stop arresting him as a suspect because he "wanted to go straight."

Two Negroes, one armed with a knife, held up Gerst Weldt, grocer, 2901 Dayton street, in his store last night, and escaped with $30 from the cash register.

A man, with a rusty revolver, held up the filling station at Missouri and Russell boulevards, escaping with $5 from the cash register.

Two men with revolvers held up three customers and a Kroger manager in the store at 4355 Delmar boulevard, escaping with $56.

O'FARRELL AWARDED "MOST VALUABLE PLAYER TROPHY" FOR 192

Ballot for Cardinal Catcher Within One Of Being Unanimous

Seven National League Committeemen Place Him First and One Second—Award Carries $1000 and a Certificate.

By Herman Wecke.

Robert A. O'Farrell, 30 years old, citizen of Waukegan, Ill., and "iron man" catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1926 pennant race and world series, has been named the "most valuable man to his team in the National League" for the campaign which brought to this city its first pennant in 38 years, it became known today.

O'Farrell gained this honor over a field of 24 players voted upon by the eight members of the National League commission composed of eight baseball writers, one in each National League city, and in winning the Cardinals' star poled a total of 79 votes out of a possible 80. His closest rival was Hugh Critz, second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, who landed second with 60 and who was the only other player who was named on each of the ballots.

That O'Farrell, because of his sensational work not only during the hectic pennant race in the Heydler circuit, but in the world series, stood out is evinced by the fact that on seven of the eight ballots he was named first, while the other placed him second.

The victory for O'Farrell in the competition gives St. Louis its second successive "most valuable" player in the National League in two years, Manager Rogers Hornsby having been awarded the trophy in 1925. O'Farrell also in St. Louis' third "most valuable" star, as George Sisler was honored by the American League in 1922.

Vance First to Win Award.

O'Farrell takes his place with Dazzy Vance, the Brooklyn pitcher, who was named in 1924 over Hornsby, in spite of the fact that the Cardinal star enjoyed his greatest batting season and Hornsby as the National League's winners since the competition was inaugurated.

As a result, O'Farrell next summer will receive a diploma from the National League, as well as a cash award of $1000

It is the first time in the N. L. competition that a player on a pennant-winning club has been voted "most valuable." In the years that Vance and Hornsby were named, their respective teams failed to land the championship. It also is the first time that a catcher has been honored. This holds true not only in the National but also in the American League.

That the Cardinal catcher well deserves the honor voted him by the members of the commission is shown by the great record he established during the year. The receiver was in 146 of the 156 games played by the men of Hornsby in landing the flag, and then he finished by working behind the plate in every inning of the world series. That gives him a record of catching 153 games—one less than a complete major league schedule—in a single campaign. It's a real "iron man" stunt, but the foremost citizen of Waukegan was going strong at the finish.

Records for the season show that O'Farrell missed only 10 complete battles throughout the year. This means 90 innings. In the 146 tilts in which he participated, he was out of but 60 rounds. Thus the figures show that one of the Cardinal second-string receivers was on duty in, but 150 innings, showing that O'Farrell, from the opening day of the season until the close, was out of enough innings to average but 16 2-3 games. This probably is one of the greatest records ever established by a catcher in the majors.

O'Farrell's Vote Larger Than For Previous Winners

IN winning the National League's most valuable player award, Bob O'Farrell drew a larger vote than either Dazzy Vance or Rogers Hornsby, the other victors.

O'Farrell drew 79 out of a possible 80. Vance in his 1924 victory received 74 and last season Hornsby received 73.

"Most Valuable"

BOB O'FARRELL,
The Cardinals' catcher, who has been voted the most valuable player to his team for the year 1926.

Manager Hornsby During Season Said O'Farrell Was His Most Valuable Man

When the season opened, Manager Hornsby announced that he "would win or lose" with O'Farrell behind the bat. The Cardinal leader more than once during the year asserted that "O'Farrell is the most valuable player on my team."

And delving through the records of the 1926 campaign, it is found that the Cardinals were a different club with O'Farrell behind the plate than when he was sitting on the bench. The truth of this statement is found in the following: Of the 10 games in which either Warwick or Vick labored behind the plate, the Cardinals won but three and lost seven for a percentage of .300. With O'Farrell working, the men of Hornsby won 86, lost 58 and tied two for a winning percentage of .597. The Cardinals, as pennant winners, finished with a mark of .578, so O'Farrell's catching record was 19 percentage points better than that of his team. Which brings out forcibly O'Farrell's great worth.

O'Farrell finished the campaign with a batting percentage of .293 and was a wonder on defense. He followed with a .304 swat figure in the world's series and a 1.000 fielding percentage. It must be remembered that O'Farrell brought the series to a close with one of the greatest throws to second base to catch Babe Ruth stealing ever seen in the title games.

Best When the Pinch Was Hardest.

The greatest work for the Cardinal receiver came during those trying days of August and September, when victory meant much to the Cardinals. It was in the days when the Cardinals woke up one morning leading the procession and then the next would be third. Here's the place when O'Farrell proved that he was a real "iron man."

Hornsby's men played a double-header on Aug. 7. O'Farrell was given a rest in the second game. The Cardinals lost. And then Bob got down to real work. The Cardinals played 24 more games in August, and he was in each inning. His labors did not end there. The race was closer than ever in September and O'Farrell could not be spared. So he caught each inning of the first 14 games in the month, giving him a record of 38 straight games in which he did not get as much as a single round's respite.

During this stretch, the mask and pad star caught six double-headers. These games were played on Aug. 24, Aug. 30, Aug. 31, Sept. 2, Sept. 6 and Sept. 11.

This "iron man" accomplishment brought the Cardinals down to Sept 16. The Cardinals were playing the Phillies. A double-header was booked Sept. 16. O'Farrell was given breathing spells in both games, because it was in that Phillie series in which the Cardinals showed a return to batting power and gained a long early lead. But even this late, O'Farrell was taken out only when the game was "in the bag" or hopelessly lost. He was behind the bat in the contest on Sept. 24 when the Cardinals clinched the pennant and then with nothing depending on the result of the remaining two, he was allowed to "rest up" for the world's series.

The catcher's record for the season, which will go down as one of the best in history, is as follows:

April—Worked in 16 straight games.

May—Caught 29 out of 31 games with 25 innings of rest.

June—Worked in 23 of 25 games with 20 innings rest.

July—Caught 26 of 29 games, getting 62 innings of rest.

August—Caught 30 of 31 games with but 12 innings rest.

September—Caught in 23 of 25 games, with 31 innings rest.

In putting over a .293 batting average for the season, O'Farrell made 142 hits in 487 trips to the plate and scored 62 runs. Of his safeties, 30 were doubles, nine were triples and seven home runs. He was credited with 15 sacrifice hits and swiped two bases.

That O'Farrell was a real star is evidenced by a statement made by "Babe" Ruth during the world's series. Just previously Ruth had picked his All-Star team on which he selected Bubbles Hargrave of the Cincinnati club as his catcher. But after watching O'Farrell work in the world's title battles, Ruth said: "I made a mistake. O'Farrell is the greatest catcher in baseball today.' That coming from a star in a rival league, is high praise for a player.

But O'Farrell deserved it. His work was one of the features of the Cardinals' play. He had a steadying influence on the St. Louis pitchers. He literally caught "rings around" Hank Severeid, former Brownie, who was behind the bat for the Yankees, outshining his rival both in batting and on the defense. Urban Shocker, former Brownie twirler, after the series said that O'Farrell's throw which ended the series was "the greatest he had ever seen in a pinch." It arrived in Hornsby's glove yards ahead of Ruth, who was making a last desperate effort to get into scoring position.

O'Farrell, who was born Oct. 19, 1896, started his professional baseball career with the Waukegan club in 1915, so the past was his eleventh in the ranks of organized baseball. He played two games with the Cubs in 1915 and one in 1916 and then was sent to Milwaukee. But he did not wear the uniform of the A. A. club, being shipped to Peoria for further seasoning. He was with the Cubs again at the start of 1917, but sent back to Peoria. With the club in the Three-Eye he hit .318 and when the nine transferred to the Central he swatted .283. He came back to the Cubs in 1918 and remained with the Cubs until May 23, 1925, when he was traded to the Cardinals for Mike Gonzales and Howard Freigau.

Overlooked by the Cubs.

The catcher was a regular with the Bruins until the season of 1924. That was when Gabby Hartnett came to the fore as a home run hitter. The Cubs, at that time, had a convenient left field fence and Hartnett had a habit of dropping drives over the fence. So O'Farrell was forced to rust on the bench. This despite the fact that Bill Killefer, Cardinal coach, then manager of the Chicago Nationals, knew that O'Farrell was the better receiver—the more valuable man to his club. But the owners ruled otherwise and Hartnett caught.

That O'Farrell was the better man is shown by the records since he came to the Cardinals as compared to the work of Hartnett. Hartnett did not receive a vote.

In four seasons during his major league career, O'Farrell caught more than 100 games. In 1922 he worked 128 and came back the following year with 131. He caught but 71 with the Cubs in 1924, but came back with 111 in 1925 and then came his 146 this season, his greatest in any single campaign.

In addition to O'Farrell's victory, the National League trophy competition during the year was a great one for the pennant and world's championship winning Cardinals. Tommy Thevenow, star shortstop and world's series hero, was fourth with 30 votes; Lester Bell received 24, Flint Rhem 20, Manager Hornsby 7 and Southworth and Alexander 5 each.

The competition showed that but two managers—Hornsby and Bancroft—to be among the players receiving votes. Pitchers were most popular, six being in the list. In addition there were two catchers, three first basemen, two second sackers, three shortstop, three third basemen and five outfielders.

While seven Cardinals received votes, the other clubs were represented as follows: Cincinnati 5, Pittsburg 3, Chicago 2, New York 2, Brooklyn 2, Boston 2 and Philadelphia 1.

Just how fast a man can fade in baseball is shown in the case of Dazzy Vance. In 1924 he was voted the "most valuable." For 1926 he did not receive a single vote.

Webster Favored To Beat Clayton

Maplewood vs. Kirkwood and Normandy vs. Wellston Other Games Thursday.

In order to maintain its hold on first place, Webster will have to defeat Clayton, Thanksgiving, in the final game of the County High School League football race. Other contests arranged for the holiday will see Maplewood playing Kirkwood at Kirkwood, and Normandy meeting Wellston at Wellston. The Webster-Clayton battle will be on Webster Field.

If Webster loses, the second place University City aggregation will be elevated to first position by virtue of its having won more games than Webster, while only losing one. It is not expected that the materially weakened Clayton eleven will supply the leaders with much opposition. If Webster is victorious it will mark the second straight championship for the school.

As Maplewood has been the doormat for all other contenders in the County League, the records concede Kirkwood victor by a safe margin. Normandy and Wellston are evenly matched.

Interclub Bouts On Amateur Ring Program Tonight

Eddie Burke and Frank Bilka Paired in One of Three Specials.

Eddie Burke, Western A. A. U. featherweight champion, and three of his strongest rivals in the local amateur ranks, are scheduled to appear in special bouts featuring a boxing tourney to be held tonight at the South Broadway A. Bilka rose to near-championship heights in local district last season when he defeated Sam Lifton of Sherman Park.

Merz is cently chalked up his eighth successive victory when he outpointed Al Meyer at the South Side arena. He has been boxing two years and has not lost a decision. Stein compiled a fairly impressive record last season and is recognized as a tough customer when properly conditioned.

Four Washington Men Play Final Game, Thursday

Mahan, Hayes, McDonald and Burch Will Be Absent Next Year.

The final scrimmage practice of the Washington U. football season will be held this afternoon, when Coach Bob Higgins will put the final touches to an intensive preparation for the visit of the Quantico Marines Thursday. Light limbering-up exercises will comprise the Bear schedule tomorrow. The Marines also are expected to take a workout.

Three squads of Bear players were sent through a series of drills on formations and defense work yesterday. While the athletes were working out, efforts were being made to clear Francis Field.

The Marines will arrive in time for a parade through the city tomorrow, Dr. Bill Edmunds, athletic director, announced.

When the elevens line up Thursday, two Washington U. first-string men will be playing their final game. They are Capt. Robert Mahan and Al Hayes, the two backfield stars of the squad.

Another of the veterans who will probably be used for the last time is Jack McDonald, halfback. Oscar Burch, aggressive fullback, will also be lost to the squad.

Preparations for the accompanying military touches to the game have been completed, Edmunds states. The huge blimp from Scott Field will again circle over Francis Field with a football wrapped in the Washington colors, while on Francis Field the four bands will parade in front of the sections reserved for the local military groups, Washington students and fans.

Ingram Works Varsity Until Well Into Night — Field at Chicago Is Protected by Huge Canvas.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Snow blanketed Soldiers Field Stadium today, but it brought no pause in the activity of the army of workmen swarming over the tiers of seats about the oval where Army and Navy will renew their ancient gridiron warfare four days hence.

While a heavy canvas shielded the playing field from snow flurries and freezing winds, carpenters and brick masons manned the outer battlements, adding the final touches to the field to which three times the 100,000 holding tickets are clamoring for admission.

Against the gray of Lake Michigan a giant scoreboard took its place with the columns atop the stadium walls. A few hundred feet outside the stadium walls workmen started construction of a machine by which a newspaper will reproduce the game and give luckless thousands the benefit of the cheers from within the bowl.

Police Officials Busy.

Police officials busied themselves with plans for handling the mass of traffic that will pour into Chicago's front yard for the first service game west of the Alleghanies, and dozens of extra squads were listed for duty in and around the field.

A special detail of patrolmen will be assigned to convoy the Navy men from the South Side hotel to Stagg Fi of the University of Chicago for a practice session Friday, following their arrival Thursday. The Army squad also will arrive Thursday, a day before the student bodies of the two schools.

Official Chicago labored with lines of march and the combinations of bunting that will line the pathway of the parading cadets and midshipmen.

Close Game Predicted.

By the Associated Press

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 23.—"The closest and hardest fought Army-Navy game of the past 10 years," is Coach Biff Jones' sole prediction as to what will happen in Chicago Saturday.

"Nobody could predict the winner and keep a straight face while doing it," Jones added. "The Navy has one of the best teams in the country this year. It has looked good in every game."

The excitement of the Navy game, gripping the Cadets as no other contest of the season, expressed itself in roaring cheers as the student body gathered about the eleven in practice.

There was no real scrimmage for the regulars, just a dummy workout against Navy formations combined with much kicking and passing.

With winter arriving early to the plains, the drill was held under the glare of flood lights and the players for the first time this season were allowed to dine later than the rest of the corps in order to prolong the workout.

The football party, about 70 in number, will depart tomorrow for Chicago in two special cars. On arrival Thursday, the team will make its headquarters at the Cold Spring Country Club.

Hard Work for Navy.

By the Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 23.—Arc lights and patrolling guards play an important part in Navy's last days of practice preliminary to departure for Chicago.

Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram, who has brought his first year as coach at the Naval Academy to within one step of absolute success, has shown no signs of letting his charges grow stale. Practice yesterday extended from early afternoon until late into the night, with Farragut Field flooded with spotlights.

All sessions are private, and Middies, silent unless a passerby broaches a question as to Navy's chances Saturday, ward off all those interested in final preparations.

Coach Ingram has formed an "Army" team, drilled with West Point tactics, and has devoted much time to instructing each member of his undefeated eleven with what he is to expect from the man he faces this week-end.

The squad has been relieved of regulation academy drill for the remainder of the season.

Veteran De Oro Outscores Hoppe

Leads Rival, 84 to 81, After First Two Blocks in Handicap 3-Cushion Match.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Alfredo de Oro conquered Willie Hoppe former ruler of the balk line players 42 to 35 in the opening block of their handicap three cushion match at the Strand Academy yesterday afternoon. De Oro ended the match in the fifty-second inning with an unfinished [illegible] of five.

It was the second victory of the [illegible] that the veteran Cuban registered over Hoppe.

Before play started, Hoppe insisted that the conditions call for 720 points against 540 in blocks of 60 against 45. After considerable argument Hoppe agreed to play a total of 720 points to De Oro's 540 in blocks of 60 against 42.

Outside of a high run of ten, Hoppe made a five near the close of the game.

De Oro also won the [illegible] block 42 to 46 in 57 innings, giving him a total of 84 points for the day to his rival's 81.

Missouri May Play Nebraska Next Turkey Day

Oklahoma Also Considered for Holiday Feature; Several Contracts Expire.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 23.— football contracts with Washington University, Iowa State and Tulane expiring this year, the University of Missouri will go to the Missouri Valley conference schedule meeting at Des Moines, Dec. 3, with three open dates to fill, C. L. Brewer, Missouri athletic director, said today in discussing Missouri's 1927 football outlook.

Existing contracts will take Missouri to Dallas, Tex., to play Southern Methodist University and to Lawrence, Kan., to meet the University of Kansas, while West Virginia, Oklahoma, the Kansas Aggies and Nebraska will come to Columbia, Brewer said.

Tentative dates of Oct. 22 for the Southern Methodist game, and Nov. 5 for the West Virginia game have been arranged, while the contract for the Kansas game calls for a meeting with the Jayhawkers, Nov. 19.

It is probable that the Missouri-Ames relations will continue, and that a new two-year contract with the Iowa school will be made.

Should games be scheduled with Washington and Ames, the Missouri schedule would be filled. Iowa State would come to Columbia, giving the Tigers four conference games and the major intersectional contest with West Virginia on the home gridiron. The Kansas-Aggies will fill the date left by the expiration of the contract with Tulane.

Possibility of a Thanksgiving game for Missouri are regarded as bright, and it is understood that either Nebraska or Oklahoma would be welcomed on that date, which is just five days after the contracted date for the game with Kansas at Lawrence.

HARVARD OFFICIALS TO INVESTIGATE BREAK WITH PRINCETON TIGER

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—The Board of Harvard Overseers yesterday took official notice of the break in athletics between Harvard and Princeton by naming a committee to confer with the athletic committee and the Student Council "with regard to the present situation as it affects the university and alumni." The committee will report at the next meeting of the board.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 23.—A committee of five to meet with a like body for a discussion of the severance of athletic relations between Princeton and Harvard was named by the Princeton Senior Council, undergraduate governing body. No date has been set for the conference, which is to take place in New Haven.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—The Harvard Lampoon, whose issue on the eve of the Harvard-Princeton football game was criticised and apologized for, yesterday appeared again, with the declaration that in the future "Lampy will shun the mountains and pounce on the mole-hills; and if, perchance some unwary mole should be caught in the attack, he will tickle him in the ribs and tell him to go on his way unmolested. He will leave to his crusading contemporary, The Crimson, all matters to which the least importance could be attached" . . .

Rockne Will Use Strongest Lineup

Carnegie Tech Will Not Face Notre Dame Substitute as Reported.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23.—Knute Rockne will send his best team on the field when Notre Dame meets Carnegie Tech, at Forbes Field here next Saturday.

Rumors that Notre Dame's first string men would be kept on the sidelines in order to save them for the contest the following week with the University of Southern California, brought vigorous denial from Rockne in a telegram to Carnegie Tech officials.

"We are pointing for your game and will give you all we have," the telegram said.

The Notre Dame coach himself may not be able to attend because of a meeting on that day of the Western Conference Schedule Committee. He said, however, that if the meeting was finished early he would hurry here for the game.

Blind Man Gets Army-Navy Ticket; Will Attend Game

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—MORRIS I. LEVIN, is one of the Chicagoans lucky enough to have a ticket for the Army-Navy football game Saturday, but he won't be able to see it.

He is going, though, even if he is blind, and expects to enjoy the service battle as much as anybody.

Football Titles And Prestige Are Not Goal at Yale

By the Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 23.—The Yale News disapproves the suggestion that an association of Eastern College football teams be formed to include tentatively, Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Brown, Syracuse, Virginia and possibly Army and Navy. Football already is over emphasized, it says.

The proposal was presented in a letter received here by Russell Lee Post, chairman of the editorial board of the Yale News and president of the Yale College Student Council, from Clifford E. Nobes, editor of the Columbia University Spectator. Similar letters were sent also to "several other representative editors."

"The daily Princetonian and the Columbia Spectator have fallen in line with the New York newspaper writers who have advocated the formation of an Eastern intercollegiate football league," the News will say tomorrow. "Both claim the honor of initiating the idea, but before it gains headway on the assumption that other colleges and universities will favor it, we oppose the scheme on the general principle that it must inevitably contaminate and commercialize intercollegiate football. It may be adopted by other institutions, but we hope and believe that Yale will not enter any such league.

"Championships and prestige are not the goal of Yale football. Victory is as dear to the hearts of Yale enthusiasts as it is to other university men, but we do not court public favor through the medium of football success. Yale has traditional rivals whom she lives to defeat in football. * * * Outside the select group we have no interest in our relative football prestige."

Eight Stars to Play Last Game For Cleveland

All Will Figure in Effort to Clinch High School Title Thursday.

Cleveland's hopes of clinching the city league championship on Thanksgiving day by defeating the only remaining obstacle, Soldan High, were further brightened yesterday by the return to practice of Joe Hahn, 190-pound tackle, whose injuries suffered in the Central game two weeks ago, were thought serious enough to keep this valuable lineman inactive for the rest of the season. Hahn will replace Groetke at right tackle.

Thursday's game will mark the final appearance of eight members of Cleveland's 1926 team. Hahn, Coover, Graham, Worheide, Groetke, Weingardt, Hornsby and Risse will all have graduated before next season. Joe Mowry, whose work at left end this season has been the feature of Cleveland's victories, will return next year.

Coach Fenenga gave his squad its first outdoor workout in a week yesterday when the Cleveland eleven was sent through the paces on the snow-covered campus. With the exception of Capt. George Coover, who suffered a broken collarbone in scrimmage recently, the entire squad was out and in good shape.

Soldan to Show Its Best Front.

Soldan will lineup against the league leaders in full strength. Coach Cook's team having used a two-weeks' layoff to good advantage in recovering from minor injuries incurred in the last league game with Central, wherein the Brown and Gold eleven surprised by holding Walker's team to a scoreless tie.

Beaumont is warming up for Central minus the services of its most valuable lineman, Capt. Neil, who is out for the rest of the season. Coach Lewis is working Rost at this position. The North Siders seem destined to another season in the cellar as Central is favored to subdue its Thanksgiving day opponent.

Which tobacco would you use?

THIS TOBACCO IS RIPE

THIS TOBACCO IS OVER-RIPE

IF YOU were in the cigar business and you wanted to make a fine cigar, there's only one kind of tobacco you'd use . . . ripe tobacco.

You'd discard that under-ripe tobacco which gives a cigar a bitter taste and you'd discard that over-ripe tobacco which makes a cigar flat because it won't cure properly. You'd use only those finely ripened, perfectly matured leaves from the middle of the plant.

That's exactly what we do in the Mapacuba cigar and that's one reason why it is such a smooth, mellow, satisfying smoke. For Mapacuba is made only of carefully selected ripe tobacco!

Remember that fact the next time you step up to the counter to buy a cigar. Decide to try at least one Mapacuba. You'll know then that ripe tobacco does make a difference in the pleasure you get out of smoking.

MY LIFE AND FIGHTING CAREER —By Gene Tunney, New Heavyweight Champio

Bout With Delaney, Battle Of Brittle Hands, Called "Fine Shadow Boxing"

Observation Made by Benny Leonard, Who Was in Tunney's Corner—Working Up to the Heavyweight Division.

By Gene Tunney.
World's Heavyweight Champion.
CHAPTER XX.

AFTER I had regained the American Light Heavyweight Championship from Harry Greb, Billy Gibson said to me:

"Your victory over Greb indicates that you are the best man in a division abounding with brilliant boxers. But you must not look on that title as the fulfillment of your ambitions. Look ahead; always ahead.

"Endeavor to put 10 pounds on your frame so that when you meet Jack Dempsey—as you will eventually—you will be his physical equal. Make the heavyweight championship your goal and stop short of nothing less."

Diligently I began to build up. Weight, however, was slow in accumulating. I gained by ounces. Not until two months before the Carpentier fight did I realize that I was at last a legitimate heavyweight.

Two months after I had beaten Greb, I returned to the ring to dispose of Jack Clifford by a knockout in eight rounds. That battle was in Detroit, May 7, 1923. My victory was a costly one, however. I again hurt my hands. When I met Jimmy Delaney in Chicago a week later, I actually suffered pain when I wrapped the bandages about my swollen fists.

Shadow Boxing Contest.

DELANEY, too, had poor hands, but I didn't know that until after the bout. This contest between brittle knuckles was not a crowd pleaser. We looked vicious enough, but we both feinted and mauled about in the clinches too often. In that bout, my illustrious stablemate, Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, was in my corner. What a masterly boxer that man, now retired, was. I've never seen his equal in the ring and never expect to do so. When the fight, a no-decision affair, was over, Benny said to me:

"I never saw better shadow boxing than you did tonight."

It required 10 weeks for me to nurse my bruised knuckles back into passable condition. Then I sorely harmed them once again. My opponent was Dan O'Dowd, who had been my adversary in the first contest in which I engaged after my discharge from the Marines. I hammered O'Dowd for 10 rounds and succeeded only in breaking the bones of my hands and not hurting the Bostonian overmuch. I then took a layoff for several months, interrupting my rest only to meet Greb for a third time in the Garden.

Harry fought desperately that night—Dec. 10, 1923—in an effort to regain the title which he had won from me and then had given back. I beat him decisively and at the end of 15 rounds won the decision.

Feeling that my hands were not yet strong enough for a haphazard attack, I went against Greb this third time with a plan of disregarding any and all of his punches and to hammer the softer regions of his hard body. I did not deviate from this course. In the early rounds, the Pittsburg Windmill hurled enough gloves at me to fill a warehouse. But toward the last, the body punching had dimmed his ardor.

About this time, a hue and cry went up about my apparent placidity and "kindliness" in the ring. It was said: "Tunney is not a killer. That kind of fighter never will give a Dempsey a workout. He's not brutal enough."

Boxing and Brutality.

THAT boxing is or should be cruel to any man is not my belief. Of course, you will give and take punishment, as witness my having been close to slaughter at the hands of Harry Greb in our first fight, and my having pummeled the faces of Carpentier and Dempsey. But a man who boxes need not be a brute.

John Ruskin once said that railroads would "ruin England." His logic was that railroads would discourage stage coaches; that with stage coaches gone, there would be no demand for horses; that the passing of the horse trade would ruin the farmers" on whom England's prosperity depended. If such a great mind as Ruskin could go astray on railroads vs. horses we cannot wonder why some well-meaning but misinformed persons believe that boxing is a synonym for bestiality.

In my next chapter, I am going to tell some inside things about the Italian heavyweight, Ermino Spalla. My meeting with Spalla was just another instance which seems to prove that Fate as well as my own perseverance had a great deal to do with my rise to the championship.

1924, and it was a most memorable year as well as a most important one to me. It was during this year that I first came to be mentioned with some degree of seriousness as a potential contender for the heavyweight championship. It was in 1924 that I knocked out two internationally prominent heavies, gave Harry Greb a fourth battle and a severe whipping; defeated Martin Burke and floored for the first time in his long and honored ring career the splendid veteran, Jeff Smith. That year 1924, clinched my belief that I was to be champion.

Brown Expects Hard Game From Colgate Eleven

Only Light Drills for Teams in Preparation for Final Tilts of Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Gruelling drives that marked early season preparation for major conflicts are absent this week as many ancient foes jog through workouts for final battles of the Eastern football season, Thanksgiving day. Coaching staffs have the feeling today that peak condition, if not already acquired, cannot be gained in last-minute workouts and time for the learning of fundamentals passed.

Brown's iron men are talking over the strategy to be used against Colgate on the holiday morning. Brown expects its hardest struggle of the year in the final conflict, but dummy scrimmage alone and final polishing of the offense from the schedules for remaining workouts. Colgate has taken its last heavy scrimmage drill against Brown plays.

The regulars in the Penn lineup who will start against Cornell at Philadelphia have had their last scrimmage of the year. Five minutes was allotted a man. Then the charge of each lineman was examined and overhauled. The duty of each back on each play was rehearsed, and the season's practice was over. Passing and kicking feature the light drills of Cornell where the eleven men who staged the astonishing last quarter struggle to victory over Dartmouth are being primed.

The finishing touches are being lightly applied at Columbia for the Syracuse clash. Syracuse has had its last drill against Columbia plays and will depart for New York tomorrow. "Whippet" Carr, Syracuse backfield star, is ready for action, but will be held in abeyance until a scoring opportunity presents itself.

The triple threats of the Penn State backfield, Pinchura, Lundgren and Roepke, all have shown improvement this week in their kicking and passing, forecasting an interesting day for Pittsburg on Thanksgiving. The husky Pitt warriors are polishing a rugged offense.

ROOKIE RULE ABOLISHED BY THREE-EYE LEAGUE

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 23.—Elimination of the rookie rule, adoption of a 15-player limit, including manager and adoption of a constitution and by-laws, featured the annual meeting of the Three-I League which was held here yesterday.

L. J. Wylie, Decatur, was re-elected president-treasurer. Other officers selected were: Secretary, Ross C. Harriott, Terre Haute; vice president, John C. Ryan, Peoria.

The club presidents voted to open their 1927 season on April 28 and close on Sept. 11, again playing a 140-game schedule.

3 Billikens Will End Careers in Thursday's Game

South Dakota Contest Marks Final Play of Kahle, Stampfli and Braechel.

Only three varsity players will be lost to the St. Louis University squad by graduation next June. They are Capt. Kahle, Braechel and Stampfli, all of whom play their last game Thursday afternoon against the powerful South Dakota State College eleven, champions of the North Central Conference.

This numerically small loss is in direct contrast to the array of stars who graduated last June and left Coach Mathews a flock of sophomores with which to make a varsity eleven in his first year on the job here. Providing the exceptional freshmen squad does not encounter too many "flunks" between now and next fall, the Billiken squad of 1927 will be far above the average. It is no secret that the frosh team right now can give the varsity cards and spades.

More Breakers Ahead.

Next season the freshmen, far from feeling strange to varsity positions, will be ready to go at top speed immediately, as they have been coached in the same manner throughout the present season and are thoroughly familiar with the Mathews style. It will be a good varsity man who can keep his job next year.

Thursday's contest is hardly likely to prove a victorious one for the Billikens. The locals are still sore from the beating at Norman, Ok., last Saturday, and may not have Eddie Jordan, quarterback, in the lineup, due to a knee injury.

Only three victories have crowned the efforts of the Billikens this season, which is two more than Coach Mathews expected. The Loyola game was lost by a small margin and the remainder of the games were in the nature of trimmings. Throughout, however, the players have showed a disposition to plug away at top speed in the last quarter even with a 50-point lead on their backs.

If Jordan is unable to start against South Dakota, his place will probably be filled by Grimes, who has worked quite satisfactorily in the past two games. Stampfli will undoubtedly start at center with Braechel at one of the tackles and Kahle at end.

Frosh Play Wesleyan.

Yesterday Mathews staged a hybrid scrimmage in the mud, the game being a combination of football, soccer, basketball. The freshmen went through the same sort of workout in preparation for their closing contest Thanksgiving morning at St. Louis U. field against Ozark Wesleyan, which last Saturday defeated Miami (Ok.) School of Mines, 33 to 0. The frosh are undefeated to date.

Oklahoma Aggie Stars Injured

Maulbetsch Eliminates Scrimmage Because of Condition of Players.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—Seven Missouri Valley football squads were preparing for their final game of the 1926 season yesterday while three others, Missouri, Kansas and Kansas Aggies had already turned in their suits.

Iowa State, which Saturday termed the biggest upset of the day with a 3-to-2 defeat of the Kansas Aggies, spent the day traveling, as did the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Ames will meet the University of California, Southern branch, at Los Angeles, Saturday. Nebraska will face an opponent from the opposite coast in the University of Washington at Seattle Thursday.

Of the two remaining games in conference play, the Turkey day clash between Oklahoma A. and M. and Oklahoma University at Stillwater holds the spotlight. Grinnell meets Drake in the annual conflict at Des Moines in the other title match. Playing on their own field with the conference title at stake and an ancient grudge to pay off, the A. and M. team is expected to play inspired football.

Coach Maulbetsch issued orders for the omission of scrimmage during the remaining practice sessions at Stillwater when two regulars were reported in the doubtful column from injuries.

The Aggie team is considered somewhat of a "dark horse" in the Valley race and must register a decisive win to prove its mettle. The team has won but one game from a first division team and two from second division teams. The Sooners, in spite of two losses, are considered among the class of the Valley.

Drake and Grinnell practiced under adverse weather conditions. Drake's game fight against the superior skill and speed of Notre Dame Saturday gave indications of real power.

FRIEDMAN WILL NOT JOIN PROFESSIONALS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 22.—Benny Friedman, captain of the Michigan football team, will not enter the ranks of professional football, he announced today.

WRAY'S COLUMN

To the Right Man.

THE National League trophy committee made no mistake awarding the "most valuable player" trophy to Bob O'Farrell, catcher for the Cardinals.

O'Farrell's efforts, in the opinion of all Cardinal players, during the season, was the man who deserved the award.

There will be no hard feeling on the part of Bell, Thevenow and other members of the world's champions who were mentioned in the ballots.

A catcher at all times is a valuable man to his club. He is the eye of the defense. The plot of the game unfolds before him.

His duties are many and constant. The actual backstopping of the hurler's thrusts are the least of his duties, although he must have the technique to handle his pitcher.

He must also have the brains and knowledge of batsmen to enable him to call the right pitch.

He must think a step ahead of the base runners.

He must be able to lay a throw right on the bag in advance of the oncoming base runner.

He must have a perfect arm, eye and brain.

O'Farrell had all of these. In addition, he had that asset the absence of which usually militates catchers in most valuable player awards—stamina, ability to work day after day, all season long.

The catcher is something akin to a center rush. Fans accept him as a necessary piece of furniture when as a matter of fact each is the hub about which the entire play revolves.

For once the catcher has come into his own.

He Is Needed.

WHATEVER the bitterness that attended the naming of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis to the baseball commissionership and its $50,000 annual salary, during the years that have followed some of the events that transpired have led to believe that the fundamental idea of a commissionership is good.

Landis in his position has been able to serve as no national commission of the past was able to do. The Judge may or may not have been the best man for the post. He may or may not be re-elected at the joint meeting in Chicago. It may be true that the only way he can be re-elected is through a single friendly vote in the American League. The fact remains that the commissioner idea has proved a good one. It has come to stay.

Action Will Be Taken.

LANDIS' contract will expire between meetings. Possibly action will be taken at Chicago on this subject, next Dec. 16. If it is, Landis will be chosen again by virtue of eight National League votes and at least one American League ballot.

There is no chance that Ban Johnson can unseat his rival, and there is every chance that more than one American League vote will support the National League's stand.

Perhaps a mistake was made in the past when the Judge was FORCED on the American League. At that time the most able man in baseball and the only man fitted for the job was Byron Bancroft Johnson.

Landis made some funny slips, at first, but since that time has ironed out the wrinkles and today is pretty well on top of the game.

More harm than good might come from unseating him and putting in his place one strange to the duties of the office. Johnson is still the best man in the business for the job. But he could not be put over.

Therefore, it is highly probable that the reign of Landis will be extended another term, perhaps of seven years.

Let's Go.

ALL the preparatory schools in St. Louis County and the St. Louis district are members of the State High School Association. The St. Louis City high schools are included.

All are eligible to compete for State titles held under the auspices of the State-wide Association at Columbia. The county high and preparatory schools will take advantage of this and send teams to basketball and other competitions.

But the St. Louis high schools must stay in their own back yards and look over the fence at their neighbors having the fun.

The school board won't allow them to play in anybody else's yard.

There is a board precedent which holds that our city teams may not play any schools at distances beyond 25 miles.

If the State High School Association should name St. Louis as the site for one of its annual championships our high school teams would not be permitted to compete. For teams coming here from distances greater than 25 miles are not eligible to play with our boys!

Where other schools have the United States for their field, St. Louis High Schools are walled within the school board's pill box district.

That seems fair neither to the boys nor to St. Louis. It is one way to help keep down the quality of our play and to keep the name of St. Louis out of the news columns.

Kansas City, it may be noted, misses no opportunity for publicity through the medium of its high schools, which go wherever the game calls.

Why not St. Louis?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieves constipation because it is 100% BRAN

Mr. McEnery tried part-bran substitutes — but only ALL-BRAN brought complete relief. Here's what he says:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . About two years ago I tried out mixed bran and corn flakes but did not get much relief. Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of any laxative medicine of any description."

WET AUTOS AND BOATS MAY BE TURNED OVER TO U. S.

Supreme Court Rules That States Without Confiscation Law May Impound Carriers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Deciding the celebrated Ray of Block Island case from Rhode Island, the Supreme Court held today that boats and automobiles seized by State prohibition authorities can legally be turned over to the Federal Government when the State in question has no confiscation law of its own.

The decision upheld the right of the Providence police to turn over to Federal prohibition agents the motor boat Ray of Block Island, which they had seized with liquor aboard.

The legality of that course had been questioned because the Federal officers had not, themselves, detected a violation of the law.

The Court held that Federal prohibition officers can at all times take such vehicles and hold them for forfeiture whenever the evidence produced by the State officers is sufficient to obtain a conviction under the prohibition law.

NAME SIX JUSTICES OF PEACE AS RESULT OF GENTRY RULING

Attorney-General Contradicts St. Louis County Counselor's Opinion Places Are Elective.

Acting on an opinion received today from Attorney-General Gentry, contradicting a recent opinion of County Counselor Nolan, the St. Louis County Court today appointed six Justices o fthe Peace for various districts. The Attorney-General held that succession of appointive justices is by appointment, and not by general election as Nolan maintained.

The Justices appointed were Emory W. Chase, to serve at Ferguson; Charles A. Weaver, West Walnut Manor; J. C. Pitman, Meramec Township; William A. Withrow, Brentwood; John S. Sidebotham, Central Township, and Fred W. Brand, Overland.

The Attorney-General held that the term of an appointive Justice expires at the time of the general elction every two yeears, and that the County Court must reappoint them if they are to remain in office. The county also has 16 elective Justices, whose places are filled by the voters every four years.

COLLEGE OUSTS GAY STUDENTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Harold Trounzell, 21 years old, of Iron Mountain, Mich., and Carl Ek, 23 years old, of Goshen, N. Y., were expelled last night from Lake Forest College, when officials convinced themselves of the truth of the charges that the two youths took two girl companions to their dormitory room Sunday night.

Trounzell was president of the sophomore class and Ek was active in campus literary circles. G. H. Leverton, dean of men, said they gave liquor to two girls, not students, who visited their rooms.

"Well," remarked the pair, as they quit the campus they had been given 24 hours to leave, "Shelley and Keats were canned and they lived to write many on ode—and so will we."

Opponents of American adherence to the protocol are ready to restrict action in the crowded short session, but Senator Borah anticipates a vote before March.

High Blood Pressure

Nature's warning of chronic disease—its cause and treatment with vital natural food

HEALTH authorities now agree that malnutrition is the basic cause of all chronic disease, particularly disturbances formerly considered inherent in the blood, kidneys, stomach, liver, intestines, pancreas, heart and other organs of the body. Now it is known that these maladies are but local manifestations of faulty nutrition. Therefore the only right way to cure sickness is to correct malnutrition by supplying, through natural food every needed tissue-building element. For a properly nourished body is a healthy body and cannot harbor disease.

HIGH blood pressure is a danger signal, the forerunner of serious disease, such as diabetes, Bright's disease, and other functional disorders. Health authorities now agree that this condition is a result of malnutrition. Not a lack of food, but a deficiency of vital elements in food—vitamines, organic minerals and natural yeasts. And they agree on one remedy—diet. Supply the essential substances, they say, and health will return.

Unfortunately, the ordinary corrective diet is usually not strong enough to turn the tide. Even an exclusive diet of whole grains, milk, nuts, fresh fruits and vegetables often will not produce quick results. But there is a food, which, because of its remarkable qualities, produces quick and permanent results. This food is called Agmel, and is the concentrated sap of the Mexican Maguey plant. Maguey sap has been used for centuries in Mexico to treat disease. Now a process of cold evaporation makes it available in this country for the first time.

Agmel is so rich in vitamines, organic minerals and natural yeasts that it makes a powerfully corrective diet of ordinary foods. It causes all foods to digest quickly and thoroughly. Gently but surely the bowels regain tone and regularity. Kidneys are strengthened and regulated. Stagnant poisons are eliminated which have been seeping into the blood from inactive eliminative organs and causing hardening of the arteries. Blood pressure drops to normal and the whole physical organism regains its health balance. Proof is not lacking of permanent relief brought in hundreds of cases. Physicians prescribe and endorse Agmel.

For convenience of doctors and users, Agmel may now be obtained at leading druggists. Complete information and free literature also available there; or write to Agmel, 815 Hollingsworth Bldg., Dept. Z, Los Angeles, Calif. Please state trouble.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

DAILY READER.—Perhaps your fur is losing the hair because it is so old. Much fur sold in recent years has been made attractive by dyeing and other treatments, with the result that the wearing quality has been decreased. You should have the neckpiece examined by a furrier to determine whether anything can be done to renovate it.

MRS. B.—To make anise seed cakes beat 8 eggs and 1 pound of sugar together for 30 minutes, then add 1 tablespoon of anise seeds, and 1 scant pound of flour that has been mixed with 1 teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt. When dough is well mixed turn it out on board and roll thin. Cut with fancy cookie cutters and bake on flat, greased tins in a quick oven.

G. H.—To make bread assemble the following ingredients: Two cups boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon lard, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2½ teaspoons salt, ½ yeast cake dissolved in ¼ cup lukewarm water, and 6 cups sifted flour. Put butter, lard, sugar and salt in large bowl, add boiling water; when lukewarm add yeast mixture, and 5 cups flour; then stir all until thoroughly mixed, using a knife or mixing spoon. Add remaining flour, mix, and turn out on floured board, leaving bowl clean. Knead dough until smooth and elastic to touch, when bubbles may be seen to form under the surface. The kneading should be done quickly and may take some practice to do properly. Return dough to bowl, cover with a clean cloth and let it rise over night in a temperature of 65 degrees. Cut down in the morning by slicing through dough and turning dough with a case knife to check fermentation for a while. Toss dough on slightly floured board and knead again. Shape into loaves or buns and place in pans that have been greased. Do not fill pan more than half full because the dough rises again to double quantity. Pans should be covered during this last rising and should be placed in a hot oven when the loaf has doubled in size. Brush over the loaf top with milk or butter to make dark crust. To bake use a hot oven so that bread will continue rising for 15 minutes and then begin to brown. Let loaf brown for about 20 minutes and then diminish the heat while the loaf continues baking for 15 minutes. Well-baked bread will not cling to the pan and is easily removed. After removing loaves from the oven place them on their sides on a wire cooler. The crust will be crisp if the bread cools without being covered and will be soft if a cloth cover prolongs the cooling process. After bread has cooled place it in a tin box or stone jar and cover closely. Do not wrap the bread in a cloth at any time, because the bread will dry out and acquire an unpleasant taste. This recipe is for two loaves of bread and a pan of rolls.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

Mrs. N.—Your husband does not need a chauffeur's license to drive your automobile for you.

IGNORAMUS. — You will not have to pay personal property taxes to Nebraska for 1926 as you moved out of the state in April.

M. A. C. — The correspondence school can sue you for the unpaid balance due on the contract you signed.

INQUISITIVE.—The police will probably let you raffle the radio. There is no such thing as a permit for a raffle.

DAN.—There could be no prosecution under the Mann Act ruling if there was no immoral purpose or act for or during the motor trip you describe.

G. L. S.—They can sue you for whatever balance they are out, and can garnish your wages. You should settle with them on the best terms you can get.

Mrs. H. L.—Your children should provide for your old age under the circumstances but there is no law in Missouri that can compel them to do so.

A. R.—It is advisable for you to obtain a license to act as a watchman. You should secure a letter of introduction from the company employing you and present it at Police Headquarters when applying for the license.

Mrs. J.—There is no regulation applying to bathrooms such as you ask about. The city health department might issue special regulations if a complaint about conditions in the rooming house was made.

E. T.—A marriage license does not have to be obtained in the county in which the bride-to-be resides. Both parties must apply for the license in person and must be accompanied by their parents if either one is under legal age.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

POST READER.—The cause or causes of such a condition of the toe are: Wounds, bruises or injuries of some kind or an infection of some nature. The feet are inhabited normally by very active and virulent bacteria and it is by infection from such germs that even fatal results occur. When a corn is trimmed close and the skin broken an infection occurs. You should consult a regular physician for relief.

WORRIED. — Such dreams are not unusual and may be caused by worrying over the subject. Try taking 2 teaspoons of elixir of the bromide of potash in a wine glass of water three times a day, after or between meals. The dose may be slightly increased if necessary, but should be decreased as soon as possible as improvement takes place. Abstain from all stimulants, such as tea, coffee, alcoholics, rich foods; correct constipation and take systematic outdoor exercise. A hot bath at bedtime will also benefit you.

G. B.—Many persons receive 606 injections without any bad effect, regardless of the number of treatments they take. There are no records of persons dying from the effects of the first 606 treatment or subsequent treatments, to our knowledge. When properly administered by physicians skilled in its use, 606 is a safe form of treatment. If you suspect the sores to be of syphilis origin you should have a Wasserman blood test made immediately and have the sores examined by an expert in that line of medical practice. You may have the examination made free of charge at the Venereal Clinic, Room 35, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

Music
as you never before heard it reproduced!

RCA Loudspeaker 104, complete, $275

Operates on 50-60 cycle, 110 volt A.C. lighting circuit. Eliminates the "B" batteries of most sets. With RCA Radiola 25 or 28, it is particularly fine, and, with an adapter, it eliminates all batteries.

RCA has added a radio speaker to the list of fine musical instruments! The Loudspeaker 104 has made radio music in the home truer and more perfect than reproduced music ever was before.

With the cooperation of RCA, the principles of this power speaker have been adopted into phonographs, too. It was the pioneer—far ahead of its time—and now still ahead in tried and perfected performance.

It is clear at a whisper—clear at the volume of an orchestra . . . real, always!

SHARP SETBACK TO WHEAT IN LATE CHICAGO TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Wheat seemed to be unable to make much progress either up od down today. On dips shorts weer ready to reduce their commitments while the bulges brought out pressure from houses with Northwest connections.

The trade was a see-saw affair during most of the day because of this brand of dealing. Short covering was responsible for the strength shown at times. At midday December was $1.35⅝; May, $1.38¾; July, $1.32¼.

Wheat had a sharp setback in the last hour when early buyers tried to unload and found that shorts had completed covering and buying power had given out. Closing prices were 1c to 1⅛c lower. December, $1.34⅝ to $1.34⅞; May, $1.37½ to $1.37⅝; July, $1.31⅛. Corn closed ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower; December, 69⅞c to 80c; May, 79c; July, 82⅛c. Local cash sales were 29,000 bushels of wheat, 12,1000 of corn, 50,000 of oats, 8000 of barley. Oats were ⅛c to ⅝c lower; December, 30⅝c; May, 45½c; July, 45¼c. Lard closed 5c higher to 2½c lower; bellies, 25c lower.

Local mills say that demand for flour is of a hand-to-mouth character with buyers showing a lack of confidence in the future. Liverpool closed unchanged to 1¼d higher, due to good continent buying. Buenos Aires was 1¼c lower during session.

Primary receipts are gradualy dropping off. Canadian visible supply increased 3,148,000 bushels for the week and the total is now more than 9,000,000 over last year's stock. The seaboard reported a small but general export business.

Corn showed little change in price, being affected by the action of wheat. Locals sold and there was buying by a house with country connections. At midday December was 69¾c; May, 78⅞c; July, 82c. Adverse weather is interfering with picking the new crop. Shipping sales were small.

Oats still felt the effect of yesterday's liquidation as there was still much undigested grain in the pit. At midday December, 40¾c; May, 45⅝c; July, 48⅝c. Shipping sales were moderate.

Liquidation because of the weakness in hogs sent provisions lower. At midday lard was 7¼c to 10c lower.

Chicago Grain Carlots.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Car lot receipts: Wheat, 43; corn, 133; oats, 49; rye, 16; barley, 10.

They cost more—yet cost less

HERE is how it figures out. A 45-volt Eveready Heavy-Duty "B" Battery costs a little more than the smaller 45-volt Light-Duty Eveready No. 772. But Heavy-Duty batteries last twice as long as the smaller batteries on the same set and under the same conditions, so that these Heavy-Duty "B" batteries really cost less.

If you are buying a new set, insist on getting Eveready Heavy-Duty "B" Batteries as original "B" battery equipment.

The exclusive construction of Eveready Layerbilt No. 486 makes it the longest lived and most economical of all Heavy-Duty batteries.

STOCK PRICE MOVEMENTS CONTINUE UP

Satisfactory Credit Conditions and Further Forced Covering by Traders Who Had Sold for a Decline Factors in Market.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Stocks continued to work higher in more active trading on the stock market today in response to satisfactory credit condition and continued enforced covering by traders who had sold for a decline. Specialties and some of the standard industrials attracted most attention, Commercial Solvent being one of the features with a sensational spurt to a new peak and Baldwin rising briskly after an early setback. The bond market agin ruled strong, with foreign issues and Government bonds in good demand.

Pool Activity Spreads.

"Prospects of continued ease in credit conditions, reflected in a gradual recession in time rates, stimulated pool activity in a broader group of specialties and encouraged speculators for the rise to resume pressure against traders on the short side. Several new high records were recorded in many usually inactive issues, while some of the motor shares rose when shorts attempted to cover their commitments. Standard industrials developed some irregularity, the movement in Baldwin Locomotive losing force when profit-taking increased in volume on the statement credited to the president that no new developments in the company's realty holdings were anticipated. Ease in money rates were emphasized by the relatively small increase in loans to brokers here reported by the Federal Reserve Bank in spite of greater speculative activity in the last week or 10 days. Many in the financial district had expected a gain of decidedly more than $6,000,000.

Oils Also Higher.

"In spite of the setback in Baldwin most of the equipment stocks were in rather good demand, while U. S. Steel rallied further and copper shares developed a firmer tone. Oils joined in the upward movement, although a weekly production estimate indicated a new high record in output had been reached last week as the result of heavier production in the Seminole field in Oklahoma and in the Hunting Beach district of California. Railroad stocks began again to reflect expectations of higher earnings as October statements came to light. Frisco and Rock Island attracted attention in this group. A few stocks showed a tendency to slip back, however, new low levels being recorded in Moon Motors and New York Canners.

Franc and Lira Reactionary.

"With French francs and lire again reactionary, interest was lacking in the foreign exchange market and the volume of business was smaller. Rates on Paris broke through the 3½c level to 3.47, while lire fell about 4 points and Norwegian exchange again slipped back. Sterling remained steady. Brazilian exchange rallied.

Cotton Lower, Sugar Up.

"Prices of the principal commodities lacked a definite trend, cotton sagging under the weight of increased Southern selling, but holding up better than many in the trade had anticipated in view of the large crop estimate issued yesterday. Wheat drifted lower, losing about a cent a bushel, while corn received better support and was virtually unchanged at the close. A new high record for the year was reached in raw sugar.

BROADER TRADE ON THE CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Displaying pronounced broadening from the beginning of business, price movements on the curb market today included the making of new high records again in a large number of stocks. Although some issues were in supply at declines, their movements were due altogether to special reasons that did not apply to other stocks. Fluctuations at times covered a wide range as in Realty Associates, which, after advancing over 4 points to above 257, a new high record, had a quick reaction to 250. Rand Kardex reached new high ground, as also did Victor Talking Machine, when it rose 7 points to 113. Rickenbacker was one of the lower features, ranging from $1 to 88 cents a share, making a new low record.

The market for oil stocks maintained its strong tone, many issues moving up to higher levels, although the report of production of crude oil showed the highest volume of the year. Continental made a further gain and advances were recorded in a number of other stocks, including Ohio Oil, Vacuum and Creole. Tidewater and Tidal Osage were among the weak features in this group. Standard Oil of Indiana was steady and without special change.

Nearly all the industrial issues were in increased demand at advances. A feature of the trading, Translux Pictures, in which dealings were on a larger scale, carrying that stock up over a point. General Baking issues weer actively traded within a narrow range and Gillette Safety Razor wa sin good demand at a fractional advance. Ford Motor of Canada made a further gain of 5 points to 405.

Utilities shared in the general improvement. American Light and Traction moved up 4 points and moderate gains weer made in Electric Bond and Share and several other issues. United Gas Improvement was one of the active features, advancing over 2 points from its low level of the early trading.

COTTON PRICE RANGE AT NEW YORK NOT WIDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 1 to 3 points, active months showing net losses of 5 to 7 points under a little Southern hedge selling and near-month liquidation in preparation for possible December notices tomorrow. Spot house brokers were buyers of December against sales of later deliveries, however, while the Southern offerings here were light. After selling off to 12.53c for January, prices rallied a few points on covering.

Private cables said trade calling and continental buying had been offset by liquidation and hedging in Liverpool and that yesterday's big crop figures were checking business in cotton goods at Manchester.

Prices eased during the middle of the morning under some commission house liquidation and a little further Southern selling, with active months showing net losses of about 10 to 12 points. At 12.49c for January, however, there was a little more trade buying or covering, which checked the demand, and the market at midday was quiet but steady at rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

No fresh trading feature developed and prices continued to move within a narrow range during the early afternoon. At 2 o'clock January was holding around 12.52 with the general market about 7 to 10 points net lower.

Your Cross, Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from stomach and bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" if irritable, bilious or feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

OFFICER IDENTIFIES MAN FOUND MURDERED

Open Verdict of Homicide in Case of Dominick Leone, Eccentric.

The body of the man found murdered Friday in a plowed field at Ashby and St. Charles roads, St. Louis County, was identified yesterday afternoon as that of Dominick Leone, about 35 years old, brother of Louis B. Leone, former Wellston restaurant proprietor.

The identification was made by an acquaintance, Deputy Sheriff Charles Thompson, who looked at the body at Bopp's undertaking establisment in Kirkwood while there on another matter. Thompson said Dominick had worked in his brother's restaurant and was considered eccentric. The brother later conducted a potato chip business at 1917 Franklin avenue.

Leone had been shot twice in the head. His pockets were turned inside out. A Coroner's jury returned an open verdict of homicide.

Mrs. Louis B. Leone, of 5747 Cote Brilliante avenue, sister-in-law of the slain man, today said her husband, now employed as a waiter in an Olive Street road roadhouse, last saw his brother several weeks ago when Dominick quite his job as cook at the Franklin avenue place because of poor business. The place later was closed.

Dominick, according to Mrs. Leone, was a hard-working bachelor, not connected with bootleggers and gangsters, who drank heavily and hid away from relatives when on a spree. She thinks he may have been robbed and killed while intoxicated.

SEARCH OF HUNTERS WITHOUT WARRANT IS DECLARED VALID

Missouri Supreme Court Reverses Benton County Circuit Court Ruling in Two Cases.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 23.—Constitutionality of a law enabling Missouri game wardens without a search warrant to search hunters to determine if they have exceeded the game killing limits fixed by law was sustained today in a decision by the State Supreme Court en banc. The Court reversed a ruling of the Benton County Circuit Court which quashed informations filed in two cases brought at Warsaw by the State Game and Fish Department, and remanded the cases for trial.

The lower court had quashed the informations on the ground a search by game wardens without a warrant was unconstitutional. Prosecutions were instituted against W. O. Bennett and J. S. Savage of Warsaw, after they refused to allow deputy game wardens to search them and count the quail they had killed, because the wardens did not have a warrant.

The attempted search was under section 5645 of the State law, which makes it the duty of every person "participating in the privilege of taking or possessing fish, birds and game" to permit the commissioner or his deputies to inspect and count such fish or game to determine if the legal limit has been exceeded.

Michigan Prosecutor Says Girl Accusers Were Intimidated.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 23.—Homer H. Quay, Assistant Attorney-General, who has been assigned to prosecute Benjamin Purnell, elderly ruler of the House of David religious cult, on charges of statutory assault on three girl colony members, announces he will seek a renewal of the one-man grand jury investigation. The investigation to be resumed was directed three years ago by a Circuit Judge of Detroit.

"I have found a list of the young girls," said Quay, "who were forced or hurried into marriage by Purnell on the eve of the investgation in 1923. Most of them were intimidated then, if not actually threatened, to keep them silent."

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh or chronic colds. It often produces chronic headaches and deafness, affecting the eyes and voice, and frequently weakening the lungs. Get rid of catarrh by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy, discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, berries and flowers, which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette. The smoke vapor is inhaled into the air passages of the nose, head, throat and lungs, and carries medicine where sprays, douches and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing, and as it contains no tobacco or cubebs is perfectly harmless, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer with catarrh, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or if subject to frequent colds, get from your drug store a pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes. Prove for yourself their pleasant and beneficial effects.

RESTORATION OF CEMETERIES IN FRANCE IS SLOW TASK

Delay Due to Legal Routine and Task of Getting Individual Families to Act.

By the Associated Press.

BARLIN, France, Nov. 23.—The cemeteries are among the last things in the war zone to be completely restored.

They have received the deferential attention that is due the dead, but being divided into as many different individual properties as there are families buried, the necessary legal routine and the work of getting the families to act are slow.

Shells displaced bodies instantaneously and without formality, but to transport or displace a body legally requires a considerable amount of red tape. When identity can be fixed, it is necessary to consult the family. This has been no small task, since 4000 families that fled before the German invasion have never come back to the coal district. Some of them have never been heard from since.

THE WOMAN OF IT

—By—
Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

She'd Let Him Off Hand-Kissing If—

THIS controversy about whether democratic Americans should kiss Queen Marie's hand
Has brought forth one fruitful suggestion for husbands—and wives:
Hand-kissing should begin at home!
That's the advice of Charles J. Vopicka, former Minister to Rumania.
"If any man," he says, "when he leaves home in the morning,
"And when he returns in the evening,
"Would kiss his wife's hand,
"This courtesy would be very well rewarded—
"Give it a 30-day trial."
And then Mr. Vopicka added a word of profound wisdom:
"A woman appreciates courtesy and an expressed kindly feeling
"More than anything else."
She does—she does—
And she gets so darned little "courtesy and expressed kindly feeling"
From the average American she marries!
He's good to her,
He gives her presents and money and loyalty and her own way,
He generally loves her, too—in his own way—
But why doesn't he ever tell her so?
An American husband is positively tongue-tied when it comes to pronouncing the verb "love!"
And if, after long, unrewarded waiting and in a weak moment,
His wife asks, "Do you love me, dear?"—
His favorite response is: "Don't you know I do?"
She never knows, she never feels sure,
Unless he tells her so.
Why can't he say it, say it, SAY it—
Instead of expecting her to be a mind-reader?
If he said "I love you," of his own accord, at least once a week,
She'd gladly let him off hand-kissing!
Why can't he pay her charming compliments,
Notice her new clothes intelligently,
Tell her how young she looks,
Repeat to her pleasant things he's heard other people say about her,
Express his appreciation of her special efforts to please, her small sacrifices,
Put into words the happiness she gives him,
Kiss her lips—if not her hand—
As though it were a delight and not a duty?
What IS the reason—
Coldness, self-consciousness, indolence, pride, or just the desire to tease—
Which keeps a man from giving his wife compliments, courtesies, confessions of love,
The little deeds and words that would make her so happy,
That don't cost a cent,
That add grace and beauty and sweetness to the life of any woman,
That, more than anything else pay her for hard work, self-denial weariness and pain?
How many gentle ghosts have revisited tombstones
On which they were described as "beloved wives," possessed of every virtue,
And sighed to themselves,
"If he had only told me, when I was alive!"
For that's how women are,
And they don't and won't change,
And the husband who gives them "courtesy and an expressed kindly feeling"
Can get away with about everything else!
Will men NEVER learn?

(Copyright, 1926.)

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WE'VE laughed about our copybooks so many, many times, the contrast made by tattered looks and very stilted rhymes. Their style was ever quite severe, judicial and serene; but we who wrote, with sigh and tear, thought not what they might mean. For we were ever too intent on artful curlicues to figure just what sages meant or drink in wise men's views. We've laughed about the copybooks we kept in childhood's days, old precepts shrined in ornate crooks, precise and prim of phrase. How we have laughed, yet strangely found those little-heeded saws were honest facts, all sane and sound and based on changeless laws. And ever as we learned life's ways, still more and more they took their aspect from the potent phrase of our old copybook.

British beauty experts declare that the use of rouge is passing. Less and less of the red tint is being applied to the face, they say, while the vogue for pallor is growing. As a result many British blondes are using a pale almond green powder for evening. Under artificial light this gives an almost ethereal pallor and a transparent look to the skin.

MARRIAGES OF YOUTHS 19 OR YOUNGER ARE 10 TO 100 TIMES AS RISKY AS MARRIAGE AT THE IDEAL AGE.
WHEN GROOM IS UNDER 24 AND BRIDE UNDER 21 THE RISK IS 2 TO 5 TIMES AS GREAT
THE IDEAL AGES FOR MARRIAGE IS ABOUT 29 FOR THE GROOM AND 24 FOR THE BRIDE
MARRIAGES OF PERSONS 38 OR OVER ARE 2 TO 5 TIMES AS LIKELY TO END IN DIFFICULTY.
WHERE ONE OR BOTH PARTIES TO THE MARRIAGE MAY BE PAST MIDDLE AGE THE RISK INCREASES IN THE SAME RATIO AS WITH MARRIAGE AT 19 OR UNDER.

THE ideal age for marriage is about 29 for the groom and 24 for the bride, according to studies made recently at Cincinnati and Philadelphia Domestic Relations Courts and marriage license bureau, and made public here by the Missouri Social Hygiene Association. "The groom may be younger or older by four years and the bride may be older or younger by two years, without serious results," according to the report, "although marriages in which the bride is younger than 21 or the groom younger than 24 become rapidly more dangerous. Marriages in which either party is 19 years or younger are from 10 to 100 times as risky, that is, likely to get into difficulties, than are those of the ideal age, while those who delay marriage until they are 38 or over are from two to five times as likely to get into domestic difficulties as those who marry at the ideal age and the risks would appear to increase at the same ratio as for marriages at 19 and under.

The conclusions of the survey were based upon 1000 impartially selected cases in both the Cincinnati and Philadelphia environs and the sociologists who made it assert that the laws of probability indicate the basic conclusions are established too firmly to be explained as being due to chance.

Two hypotheses were offered which seem plausible and consistent not only with the statistics but with what we already know of human nature. They were stated as follows in the report:

First, it may be supposed that premature or delayed marriage is a symptom of permanent character traits which are unfavorable to success in family life. If this is the true explanation, the postponement of marriage until the ideal age would have no important effect on happiness in marriage.

"The second hypothesis is that the boy or girl under 21 years of age has not had a sufficiently broad experience or has not reached sufficient maturity to select a mate with whom a successful home can be established. If this is the correct interpretation the postponement of marriage until the woman is 22 and the man 24 years of age would be an extremely important preventive measure looking toward elimination of domestic disaster."

The report is recommended to the attention of pastors, physicians, parents, teachers and others who are in a position to advise young people as to the risks of too early marriage, so that they may use their influence to discourage it.

Churches, settlements, clubs, educational institutions, to say nothing of Women's Pages, and other agencies dealing with young people are asked to study earnestly the problem of how to promote the wholesome contact of unmarried young women 21 to 27 years of age with unmarried young men between 24 to 33 years of age.

"The psychological and social conditions most favorable to mating at these ages should be studied by research agencies and the results applied by community organization workers," the report advises.

One Girl Who Really Loved the Gay Old Blade

Alone With Death, the Man About Town Learns Truth at Last.

By WINIFRED BLACK.

WINIFRED BLACK

THERE he was, dead in bed—the man about town.

Dead and alone in his handsome rooms, with all the gorgeous furniture.

And the fruit in the silver dish was decayed and mildewed, and the roses in the great rose jar were withered and faded—for the man had been dead for a week or ten days, and nobody had been near him in all that time.

And when they found him there was a letter in his hand, and the letter was from his little daughter, asking him to come home, and they traced the letter and found that the man about town was not a bachelor at all.

He was a man with a comfortable home in the suburbs, and a comfortable income, and a nice little family.

But he did not fancy life in the suburbs, and he didn't seem to care much for his family. So he came to the city, and took handsome rooms in a bachelor apartment, and lived what he hopefully called, "the gay life."

He gave suppers to dancers and ladies of the chorus, and "men about town."

He sent flowers to pretty ladies who didn't care a snap of their fingers for him. He bought candy for little flappers who flattered him to his face, and made fun of him behind his back.

He knew every head waiter in town by his first name, and he was proud of the fact. He went to all of the first nights at the theater, and it was a great thrill to him to have the head usher recognize him and call him by name.

Oh, he had a gay time in the gay city! Then he was tired and not so well, and he couldn't give any more dinners. Somehow he didn't want to go to the theaters, and nobody came to see him, and nobody cared whether he lived or died. Somehow his little daughter in the suburbs discovered where he was, and wrote him a funny little letter, full of a funny little pathetic dignity. She asked him to come home and stay, because she said she hated to tell the other girls at school that she didn't know where her father was.

And they found him with that letter in his hand. I wonder if it all came over him all at once. The utter futility and the folly and the emptiness of his life.

Well, well, the little girl won't have to make excuses now when the girls ask her about her father, and why he never comes to see her at the boarding school.

I wonder if she will be comforted when she thinks of that.

The Home Kitchen

By Jeanette Norton.

THIS is a tale about using left-overs. Opening the refrigerator door, the shelves disclosed dishes containing the end of a boiled ham, a dish of mashed potato, some left-over celery, a small basket of grapes, three apples, six fishcakes, eggs, a little sliced bacon, six bananas and a large boiled carrot. Not very encouraging material for a dinner unless you know just how to use the stuff. This is how it was accomplished:

The ham was cut neatly from the bone, the meat chopped fine yielded a cupful and a half. The bone was put into the small soup pot with the mashed potato, celery, a 10-cent can of tomatoes and the seasoning. Boiled an hour, strained, the carrot sliced thinly and put back with a couple of tablespoonfuls of rice and boiled gently a half hour until the rice was soft, resulted in a delicious soup.

Half the ham was used in an egg scramble. The fishcakes were used fried with and garnished by the bacon. The bananas were prepared and baked for a vegetable. The apples were chopped and with a quarter loaf of stale bread made into a brown Betty pudding. Thus as nice a dinner as need be came onto the table. The remainder of the ham was creamed on toast for breakfast. The grapes yielded two tumblers of jelly. The empty refrigerator was cleaned, stocked with ice and ready for a fresh supply.

Economical conservation of food is a duty in this day of high cost of living. It is not stingy or small to make use of everything brought into the house. In fact, in purchasing, left-overs should be considered by the buyer.

The Thanksgiving Table

By Emilie Hoffman

A NOVEL center piece of candles for the Thanksgiving dinner table can be arranged with harvest vegetables.

Select several carrots of uniform size and likewise a few turnips. Cut them off at the ends so the vegetables will stand upright and scrape out sufficient from center of each to make a safe indentation to firmly hold a candle.

Place a shallow cake tin pie plate, or tray on the table. In the center of this place a high tumbler, upside down, on this firmly set a turnip. Around this, either in a circle or diamond shape, arrange lower tumblers and place a carrot on each one. At the base set the turnips, using either two (one for each end) or four (one for each side) or arrange them as fancy dictates.

Carrots may be used alone where a yellow effect is desired. Candles in yellow or green, decorated in gold or color will be effective.

Conceal the foundation supports by intertwining them with autumnal foliage and asparagus vine or the green tops of the carrots.

Interference

If you would clear of trouble steer,
With others never interfere.

"It is none of your business" snarled Reddy

THE little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadow are not so different from we humans. Did you ever notice how shouting will always draw a crowd? Everyone within hearing wants to know what it is about. It is just so with the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows.

Of course Old Man Coyote had heard the report of what had happened to Mrs. Grouse, and Old Man Coyote felt much the same as Reddy Fox did. He was clever enough to want to make sure that that hunter had found Mrs. Grouse after he had shot her. So Old Man Coyote had started for the Green Forest shortly after Reddy Fox started. He hadn't found the exact place where the shooting took place as quickly as had Reddy, so of course Reddy was ahead of him.

Old Man Coyote had just discovered Reddy's tracks, and had lifted his lips in a little snarl when he heard Chatterer the Red Squirrel beginning to scold. Old Man Coyote lifted his head and listened. He heard Sammy Jay join in. Old Man Coyote grinned. "Brother Fox must be right over there," said he to himself. "I reckon Brother Fox is looking for Mrs. Grouse. I think I'll just run over there and pass the time of day with him. It may be that he can save me some hard work." Again Old Man Coyote grinned, and there was something very sly about that grin.

Reddy was doing his best to pay no attention to the racket which Chatterer the Red Squirrel, Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow were making, but every once in a while he lifted his head nervously to look around. You see, he was fearful that somebody whom he didn't want to see might suddenly appear. The scent of Mrs. Grouse was growing stronger, and Reddy's mouth was watering more than ever. It was then that Reddy's fears were realized. A smooth voice said, "Are you having good hunting, Brother Fox?"

Reddy jumped to one side with a snarl and turned to face Old Man Coyote. Old Man Coyote was grinning. He had been watching Reddy, and he knew by the way that Reddy was running, and by the eager look on his face, that he was on a warm trail. He felt certain that that trail was the trail of Mrs. Grouse.

"It is none of your business," snarled Reddy, which of course wasn't polite at all.

"Oh," exclaimed Old Man Coyote "isn't it? Well then, let me lend you my nose to help you find Mrs. Grouse. I see you have found her trail." Old Man Coyote put his nose down and sniffed when he said this.

Reddy Fox was beside himself with anger. "You keep away!" he snarled. "Mrs. Grouse doesn't belong to you; she belongs to me. I found her first."

"Oh," said Old Man Coyote, "so you have found her! In that case, suppose you give her to me." And suddenly Old Man Coyote jumped toward Reddy and his eyes seemed to flash, and he showed all his teeth, and he snarled way down in his throat, and altogether he looked so big and fierce that Reddy gave a frightened little yelp and turned tail.

Of course Old Man Coyote had known all the time that Reddy Fox didn't have Mrs. Grouse. Now, having driven Reddy away, he took up the trail himself and started on. All Reddy could do about it was to stand at a distance and tell what he would do to Old Man Coyote were he only a little bigger, all of which was, of course, a pure waste of breath.

A Wife's Transformation

By MARY CULBERTSON MILLER

INSTALLMENT II.

Sees Herself as Others See Her.

IGHT on the job, came that old hag * * * jealousy. As a magnet attracts steel, so was len's gaze held by the perfec- n of the young woman opposite r. Propinquity — yes — prop- quity was love's alter ego, she re- nded herself. And here was ething to be feared—something tle, of a sort strange to her.

Self-consciously she tucked her elessly shod feet under the shel- of her chair and a hand jam- d down a bright red silk hat. She suffocated—overwhelmed, by a quence of disturbing thoughts. ramount was the paralyzing cer- nty that her husband was hamed of her.

Her mind geared into her own dvantages. It gave her a jar sent a cold wave of fear rough her. An avalanche of ubts assailed her. For a moment, her eyes, there was an expres- n of hopeless and tragic defeat. neliness came down on her like a ll. One thing, she decided, she uldn't resort to sarcasm. That in b's eyes would be the last straw. n, quite suddenly, her eyes nged to a crystal brightness. It s the ignition of subconscious ught fanned into flame. There s something magnificent about len's nature when aroused. but trouble was it took something the nature of a bomb to arouse r.

A breath taking sense of grand venture oozed out of her nee r-clean finger tips. She'd fight issue with this woman's own apons, and thereby save her ro- nce from the matrimonial rocks ntention, had Helen, of feeding esh and vital husband to the this office-siren had lighted. was impatient for her husband finish with her—she wanted to off.

Into Helen's confusion came the ly modulated voice of Miss yte, the beauty genius. "Queer l" she thought, looking at the gruous and untidy person. she became absorbed in the an's vital yearnings. andering husband, the beauty s felt sure of that, but she ained soberly. "Beauty must worked for like everything else, Crane. Modern women have the inestimable help of nce, but science can't do the k alone. The greatest instru- ts lie in you—yourself—your erence, intelligence, unselfish rest in life.

Then, too, beauty isn't funda- tally a matter of perfection of ure. It is what we think and that affects our outward s. In the face there is some- an illumination of what one d call the spirit.

Take such thoughts as im- ence, jealously, anger, selfish- —in fact, all negative thoughts e their mark upon the face. culation slows up, the body be- mes sluggish, vitality becomes ered, appetite departs, sleep s. So if you fully agree to k with the mind and body to- er we can get twice the results, use they are so perfectly co-ordinated. You want to be made over in six weeks, is that it?"

"Indeed I do, if such a thing is possible." Great hazel eyes raised beseechingly.

"I think so, if we get to work at once. I shall make yours a special case. Then we'll call for help whenever or wherever we need it. You've always a sense of heaviness, haven't you, Mrs. Crane!" Helen agreed.

"That mental state can be positively traced to injurious foods. You've overtaxed your digestive organs. They have required energy, giving none in return." Helen confessed to being intemperate in her eating, lazy, and rather indolent. There was no pinch of poverty to induce her to labor and save.

To Family Physician.

"Shall we take the skin first?" ventured the prospective client.

"We'll consult a physician first, Mrs. Crane. That will put us on the safe side. He will tell us what you have too much of in your system, and what is needed in its place, and prescribe a diet. It is very unwise to over-diet or over-exercise to reduce. That method is sure to show its effects on the face."

The novelty and thrill of the experiment almost intoxicated Helen—that old beaten-down feeling gone forever. That last sent little tingles tattooing down her spine.

Before the session was over that first day the beauty course was tentatively worked out. "And after that shall I be able to go on alone?" Helen questioned. There was an emphatic nod to that. "No question of it," the beauty genius smiled.

"Report to me as soon as you finish with your Dr. Johnson tomorrow morning. Ask him please . . . to state your disturbances in writing. He will put you on a diet, too. And, oh, yes . . . stop in at a photo studio on your way home. I know you'll find it intensely interesting to watch your development." These were the parting words of that red-letter-day.

Tomorrow we will plan the ground-work for a six weeks' beauty course. Helen will begin a well ordered life. If you will follow our story closely you will learn how the making over of a wife gone to seed was wrought. How an old wife was turned into new.

Tomorrow: Helen Goes To Work.

A SATIRE ON THE MODERN GIRL

By ROLLIN KIRBY

NO. 7.

"WHO was the gentleman I saw you talking to on the street corner the other night?" said my aunt.

"That was no gentleman. That was a movie actor," responded my cousin, breaking into a tap step.

"My dear child," said my aunt, "have you no sense of your position? What would your father have thought if he had seen you with a movie ham?"

"That was none other than Ainslee Fordyce," and my cousin's chin went up.

"That truck driver! My dear girl, you can't afford it. How did you know him?"

"In the studio," responded the other casually.

"You're not"—— I asked.

"Yep," she said. "I'm now on the silver screen. Since Monday. I'm an extra in 'Unbridled Passion.' "

My aunt's head lowered and she covered her eyes with her hand.

"Our family," she said in a voice that had tears in it, "has so far kept its skirts clean. It has remained for you"——

"Bunk!" said my cousin in a sprightly manner.

My aunt regarded her with reproachful eyes. "A movie Floozie!" she said. Then she sighed, "I'll bet you're rotten."

"I'll bet I'm swell," responded her niece. "Fordyce says I've got a future."

"I hate to think of what it consists of," said my aunt, pouring herself a drink.

I could see the turn of events had struck deep into her aristocratic soul. "Generations of breeding and gentle living," they ran, "and to come to this! A Van Wowser a common movie jane!"

"Well, Swanson," I said, "this looks like a flop."

"Flop, kid?" said the spirited girl. "Auntie'll be all right after a good night's sleep."

The elder woman raised an appraising eye.

"The thing that gets me," she said, "is how they ever let you in with that pan."

My cousin lighted a cigarette, but did not deign a reply.

"Do they pay you money for this degradation?" queried my aunt.

"Not enough to exempt you, old bean," said the other.

"I thought it would work in some such fashion," and my aunt opened her beloved copy of "Cranford." "If you got the job of president of the Standard Oil Co. you would still come around and try to nick your poor old aunt. You'd go big with a tin cup and a couple of lead pencils."

"When I get set," came from the depths of an armchair, "I'll make your bank account look like Apple Mary's."

"I think," said I, cutting in, "that a note of asperity has crept into the conversation."

"What my niece fails to understand," my aunt said, "is that there is a line of demarcation beyond which it is fatal to step—that is, if one is to preserve the traditions of one's family. 'There are lines of endeavor which are closed to"——

My cousin groaned.

"To hear her talk you would think I had married a chiropractor. Don't be an egg!" She arose and sauntered over to her aunt.

"Auntie," she said, "Fordyce was saying today they were trying to find a swell old dame to play Sally Sacchrine's mother. If you wanted to try—you're the type. I might fix it."

My aunt drew herself up. Never had she been more regal. Out of the past came all the generations of noblesse to center in her gentle face.

"You old thoroughbred!" I said to myself, lost in admiration.

"You'd have me get Klieg eyes at my age!" she said quietly. "What do they pay?"

"How do I know? Plenty, I guess."

"You mean"—— I cried.

"I might"—— and my aunt folded her lorgnette.

"Sold!" cried my cousin lustily. "Camera! Action!" and she rang for Rawlston.

"Tell me, sweetheart, do they use yellow or blue make-up in your studio?" said my aunt in that marvelous voice of hers.

My cousin drained the cocktail shaker.

"Bang goes another line of demarcation," she cried. "Auntie, you old goof, do you really mean it?"

"Surest thing you know," said the oldest living Van Wowser.

Ambitious Parents And the Ambitious School Children

By Emilie Hoffman

AMBITIOUS parents with ambitious children are often an unfortunate combination. It is quite natural for parents to be pleased and gratified at the remarkable school progress of a precocious child, but when this is accomplished at the expense of health, it is unwise training.

It is with great and justifiable pride that parents tell about the child's skipping grades, and it is a satisfaction to look at that report card with its array of A's. A father cannot be blamed for feeling proud of the son who makes his Phi Beta in his junior year. These are all valuable assets to the student, but when attained at the sacrifice of health, it is decidedly unwise.

This is one of the phases of school life that belongs to the home. It cannot be too strongly impressed upon parents that the life of the school child must be carefully regulated. Diet, sleep, recreation and habits—which largely determine health—and study should bo supervised by parents and these must be balanced.

Double promotions are well and good for the child endowed with super-mentality and perfect health, but this class is extremely small. Such rapid advancement should be left entirely to the judgment of the teacher.

Getting his name on the honor roll is a laudable ambition, but if this requires home help to the point where the child sheds tears—from sheer nerve fatigue—it is not wise child training.

Children whose report cards range from B to D of course require home prodding, and considerable of it, but we are now considering the super-intelligent pupil, whom it may be wise to restrain and the mind discreetly guided into channels of recreation if he or she are to become useful men and women.

Many cases could be cited of lifelong impaired health, and actual deaths, as a result of overambition in securing the honors offered by educational institutions. When parents are accomplices it is sad indeed.

Pointers on Auction Bridge

IN YESTERDAY'S article after stating that the score should not affect the original bid, I gave three hands and asked whether they should be bid originally by a Dealer. The answers are given today, and I will now discuss the hands in the order in which they appeared yesterday.

1. Sp.: Ace-x-x. Ht.: Ace-x-x. Dia.: Ace-x-x. Cl.; xxxx.

(x is any small card lower than Ten.)

This is the typical "three-Ace" hand. In days gone by, there were many who questioned the advisability of bidding a No Trump with this holding, the popular belief being that some further strength was needed to justify that declaration; and even today there are a few who are too conservative to approve of the bid. I agree with this conservatism when advising beginners, or inferior players who are playing with experts; but on the broad question of whether three "bare" Aces should be declared or passed, I am convinced that in the long run the bid is advantageous when the general distribution of the hand brings it within the No Trump category. With a worthless singleton I would not bid a three-Ace No Trump, and even with a worthless doubleton I might hesitate about doing so; but in the evenly divided hand above cited (the ideal 3-3-3-4 No Trump distribution) and especially with four cards in the defenseless suit, I can see little justification, except inferior skill for failing to bid.

With No. 2, viz., Sp; Ace-x-x Ht: Ace-x-x. Dia.: King-x-x. Cl.: x-x-x-x there would be a difference of opinion among expert players. Some believe in bidding No Trumps with two Aces and one King; others consider it unwise to bid with any strength less than thres Aces. I belong to the latter school and would pass No. 2, although I would not criticise a No Trump bid with it as severely as I would with No. 3. Let us compare the two hands. No. 3 is:

Sp.: x-x-x. Ht.: King-x-x. Dia.: Ace-x-x. Cl.: Ace-x-x-x.

While No. 2 and No. 3 contain exactly the same high cards, there are two distinct differences. One is that the defenseless suit in No. 2 consists of four cards, while in No. 3 it is composed of only three cards; the former is much safer for a No Trump than the latter. The second would furnish good support for a Major take-out by the partner; while in No. 3 the Major strength is much less, offering a greatly reduced chance for game in the event of a Major take-out. At a cursory glance one hand may seem as satisfactory for No Trump as the other, but I believe there is a distinct difference; I would consider bidding No. 3 far less advisable than bidding No. 2.

Bid one No Trump with three Aces and an evenly divided hand; with less strength, pass.

Laundry Suggestions.

Have the water lukewarm when washing and rinsing silks, woolens and colored fabrics.

Rubbing will harden woolens and it will make silk fabrics rough. Use a kneading motion instead of rubbing.

Beware of strong soaps and powder. These will shrink and harden woolens, and injure colored materials. They will cause white silks to turn yellow.

Set the rollers of the wringer tight for cotton fabrics. Loosen the rollers for silks, also for linens, as hard wringing will crease these badly.

Use only the best bluing. Inferior bluing will cause rust spots.

SHOW US.

THE name of professional tennis,
So far as St. Louy's concerned,
In the matter appears to be Dennis—
By racquet constituents spurned.
They wouldn't turn out to see Lenglen
Put on her spectacular show;
The pros are o. k., and they know how to play
But the amateurs capture the dough.

And so it appears that our city
Is quite a conservative town;
On baseball our people sit pretty,
But on many celebrities frown.
Their fervor they manage to smother—
Red Grange had a crowd that was slim,
And they didn't fall over each other
To see Gerty Ederle swim.

Though Lenglen tried hard as the dickens
To give us a run for our dough,
Champ Pickens got very slim pickins,
If any at all with his show.
If Coolidge should box with Gene Tunney
For five thousand bucks we'll agree
They might get away with the money,
But the purse we would not guarantee!

TOO TRUE.

However, some like one thing and some like another. Give people what they like and they turn out to see it no matter where they live.

And when it comes to outdoor sports the fans in this town will turn out as strong as any city in the country to see an excavation for a building or a safe being hoisted to the top floor of a skyscraper.

HREAT OF BREAK WITH MEXICO IN KELLOGG'S NOTE

ithdrawal of Recognition Implied in Diplomatic Discussion of Oil and Land Laws.

S. CLAIM BASED ON WARREN-PAYNE PACT

exico Contends Recognition Under It Was Not Conditioned on Oil Agreement.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
ief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A ading of the last four notes exanged between the United States d Mexico—two notes from each de—shows that the controversy ween the two countries over the xican oil and land laws stands day just where it has stood for onths. There has been no reat on the part of the Calles govment.

The correspondence was made blic last night by the State Dertment. The first note was from cretary of State Kellogg to Aaron nz, the Mexican Minister of ign Affairs, and is dated July 1926. The second was the inister's reply Oct. 7, 1926. The rd, another communication from llogg Oct. 30, 1926, and the last, enz's reply Nov. 17, 1926.

Though couched, as is all such respondence, in polite terms, the t of the Kellogg notes is open the construction that a serious ge has been reached in Mexicanerican relations. There is no gestion of intervention by the ited States, but the note conns an implied threat that if the xican Government persists in present position, the recognition the United States will be withwn.

A Diplomatic Threat.

This is found in the words of ellogg pointing out "The exmely critical situation affecting relations between the two ntries which would inevitably created if those laws (the oil land laws) were enacted and forced in such manner as to viothe fundamental principles of rnational law and of equity and terms and conditions of the unstanding arrived at in 1923."

he understanding referred to is reached between two Ameri commissioners, John Barton e and Charles B. Warren, and Mexican commissioners prior he recognition of the Obregon ernment.

he present acuteness of the troversy is due to the immice of the date, Jan. 1, on which Mexican Government expects put into effect the law requiring ign oil and land owners in xico to agree not to seek diploic protection of their home ernments for their holdings, on alty of forfeiture if they refuse. Withdrawal of recognition would signalized by the recall of the erican Ambassador from Mexico . To what extent this would ple the Calles Government is blematical. If history should eat itself, the severance of reons would result in a flare of olutionary activity, and no one ell where that might lead.

t is highly unlikely that any toward a rupture will be en by this Government prior to assembling of Congress Dec. 6 ident Coolidge is aware of the ude of Senator Borah, Senator ris and others of the group who not see eye to eye with the Department on the Mexican lem, and it is possible that he deal with the subject in his oming message. Borah is in tegic position by virtue of his rmanship of the Committee on ign Relations.
